5 DAY MEXICAN DESERT MARCH BRINGS VICTORY

Tribune Man Tells of Escalon Fight.

BULLETIN.

JUAREZ, Mexico, March 29.—(AP)—In a message to the diplomatic commission of the Mexican revolution in Washington, Gen. Escobar tonight charged that Ambassador Morrow is "prejudicing American interests, not only in Mexico, but in all Latin countries, by converting himself into a propaganda agent" for the Calles regime.

ESCALON, Chihuahua, Mexico, with Gen. Almazan's Federal Army, March [illegible].—[Delayed.]—Bolson de Mapimi, the vast desert in the states of Chihuahua and Coahuila, has been conquered. This bare Chihuahua hamlet, on its upper edge, was won at a cost of two cavalry men, who were slightly wounded and tonight it is the scene of unprecedented military activity.

The little iron men of Gen. Juan A. Almazan's northern expedition are camped all around it and running all over it, resting while they await the order for the advance on Jimenez, which is some forty-odd miles north toward Chihuahua City. The order is expected any hour.

Cavalry's Pursuit Relentless.

The rebels fled from Escalon early this morning just ahead of the hard riding cavalry troopers of Gen. Eulogio Ortiz, Gen. Serrato and the saturnine Gen. Jesus Garcia, "the dead man of Mexico," who has pressed them unremittingly and unmercifully, never giving them a moment of unalloyed cheerfulness or peace since they evacuated Monterey, now almost three weeks ago.

This ceaseless, dogged stalking of the enemy by the federal cavalry has been a picture to marvel at. The rebels have ripped miles upon miles of railroad from the ground and destroyed hundreds of bridges in their retreat, but there are also miles and miles of railroad track they did not have time to destroy and as many bridges they apparently did not dare to stop to blast for fear of those horsemen who followed them so relentlessly night and day.

Generals Are Interesting Figures.

They are men of unbending purpose and fine, high courage and courtesy, these brigadiers who lead Gen. Almazan's cavalry. Gen. Ortiz is a slender and elegant figure of medium height. He has a hard, square face and cold blue eyes. His skin is fair and he always appears well groomed even with the everlasting dust of the desert an inch thick upon him. This general raps out his commands in staccato, jerky fashion and with cold directness, but he commands the greatest love and respect from his men.

Gen. Serrato is a short, stout man with a round, jovial face and the cordial smile and manner of a small town merchant. He, too, is kindly and always ready to ripple his mustache in a smile, but in Mexico everybody attests to his ability as a soldier with "Ah, there is a very devil, that Serrato."

Gen. Garcia, "the dead man," so called because he was once recorded officially as having been executed "by one of the late Pancho Villa's firing squads," is dark skinned with an utterly ominous face. His eyes are like [illegible] beads and he has as uncompromising a mouth as ever was given a man; but he, too, can laugh. Then his whole face changes and beams. He has a manner that is sometimes strangely pensive, for he has shaken the very hand of death and yet eluded its grip.

Skirmish Lasts 20 Minutes.

It was this trio which rode early this morning at the head of a long column of cavalry, cautiously and almost silently, bending forward in the darkness, towards the town of Escalon. Suddenly there was a spurt of fire from the nearest point above the walls. One of Gen. Almazan's cavalrymen half whirled and pitched from the saddle. There was a hoarse command. The skirmish lasted twenty minutes. The rebels finally fled on a railroad train with Gen. Almazan's horsemen following and firing at it as long as possible.

One wounded rebel captain and [illegible] wounded rebel soldiers were found at spots where they fell in the [illegible]. Besides the federal soldier who fell from the saddle at the start, one [illegible] was wounded.

Gen. Almazan is resting tonight, his first sleep in five days and nights. He

Smith Girl's Body Found, Police Think

Springfield, Mass., March 29.—[Special.]—The body of a girl found in the Connecticut river near Longmeadow today was declared by local authorities to be that of Miss Frances St. John Smith, missing Smith college freshman. They were confident in their identification, despite reports from New York City that the girl's parents had discredited it.

They based their belief on the fact that the bulging forehead was similar to that of Miss Smith and the height was practically the same, five feet 6 inches. Medical Examiner Frederick M. Jones said the body had been in the water about a year. Miss Smith disappeared a little more than a year ago. Furthermore, the officials say that no other person of such a description had been reported missing in the last year or two.

Teeth Only Positive Identification.

The only means of positive identification is the teeth. Coroner Jones said he had been in communication with the New York dentist who had worked on Miss Smith's teeth and that he had promised to come here tomorrow to identify his work.

The teeth were in excellent condition except for the fact that a silver band had been stretched between the eye teeth on the lower jaw, apparently to straighten them. It was learned here that the Smith girl wore a similar band.

From its condition officials said that the body had probably come down stream during the high water last spring and had lodged in a pool a short distance north of where it was found. It is believed the recent high water again dislodged it. It was discovered today by two men who had been dragging the river for the body of a construction company employé recently drowned. The body was accompanied only by a small strip of discolored, bluish cloth.

Parents Discredit Report.

A friend of Mr. and Mrs. St. John Smith, parents of the missing girl, tonight said they had received the Springfield report, had investigated it, and discredited it.

It was in the afternoon of Jan. 13, 1928, that Miss Smith, 18 years old, was last seen by her friends on the campus of Smith college. Two days later the news was given out by the local police that the girl had disappeared. President Coolidge took a hand in the search. Governors of several states, private citizens, the police, the students at Smith, at Amherst, and at Massachusetts Agricultural college offered coöperation.

The girl's father offered a reward of $10,000 for her return alive and $1,000 for information about her. One theory was that Miss Smith was despondent because she was slightly below grade in her work.

HENRY J. ALLEN TO GET CURTIS' SEAT IN SENATE OF U. S.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—After a conference with President Hoover today, Gov. Clyde H. Reed of Kansas announced that he would appoint former Gov. Henry J. Allen to the United States senate to fill the vacancy caused by the elevation of Senator Curtis to the vice presidency. The announcement was accompanied by the following statement:

"I had a very pleasant visit with the President, in the course of which we discussed the inland waterways, farm relief, and judicial appointments. The appointment of a United States senator to fill the vacancy created by Mr. Curtis' election to the vice presidency came up.

"When I stated that among those being considered was former Gov. Henry J. Allen, the President expressed himself as being gratified. He assured me that Gov. Allen had long been his friend and he held him in high esteem."

Raid a Liner Twice in Day for Liquor

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The United States customs resumed its "hip patting" parties with the sailing tonight of the French liner Ile de France.

It was the second drive on the Ile de France in barely more than 12 hours. In the early morning a squad of men in greasy dungarees invaded a party on board in honor of Miss Joan Lowell, author of the "Cradle of the Deep," and found three bottles of "right off the shore" liquor, including one bottle of nonalcoholic vermouth.

The sailing of the Ile de France tonight was a bright and crowded affair. The liner left with the first class patrons of the ship overflowing into most of the second cabins. In this throng, mostly in evening dress, the customs officials set the scene for their activity.

Even Flower Boxes Opened.

As the visitors left the upper level of the pier and passed out through the gate on the street level several customs guards in uniform were arranged as a gantlet. Hips were tapped, overcoats carried over the arm were pinched and even boxes of flowers that arrived too late to be placed aboard were opened and examined.

Outside the gate two customs agents wearing caps and overcoats with upturned collars were busy enforcing the law. Persons who aroused their suspicion were pursued and stopped in the street or while entering automobiles. In spite of the questioned legality of the act, their persons were searched in the streets for contraband. Some vehement protests were made, but the "frisking" went on.

The results of this activity were not announced by the customs agents in charge. However, it was said a few bottles were confiscated.

Find Bottles in Cabin.

At the party for Miss Lowell three bottles were found in a cabin on B deck while the guests were dancing in the hall above. The searchers, who tramped through in overalls, found the bottles without the knowledge of many of the guests.

M. Lincoln Schuster of Simon & Schuster, publishers of Miss Lowell's book, was interrupted as he was talking with D. W. Griffith, motion picture producer, who was telling him Miss Lowell has been signed for $75,000 to make a talkie version of her best seller.

"The customs man handed me a slip," said Mr. Schuster afterwards, relating his experience, "and said if I paid it, it would be 'all right.' I did not even know whether the $7 was a fine or a tip, but I paid it."

Col. William Conrow, deputy surveyor in charge, said that if the men entered a stateroom to make the seizure they violated orders. He did not explain what action might follow, but other officials said this seizure, being made without a search warrant, was illegal and without precedent.

FROWN WOULD END VOLSTEAD TERROR REIGN

Congress Could Halt Killers Easily.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—How many more human lives are to be sacrificed to prohibition zealotry?

The question is becoming more and more acute as the death toll of prohibition enforcement mounts higher and higher.

Leon Maingay, the French sailor drowned when an American coast guard cutter sank the Canadian vessel I'm Alone in the Gulf of Mexico last week, was the 158th person killed by federal enforcers of the Volstead act.

Mrs. Joseph De King, shot to death at Aurora, Ill., last Monday by a sheriff frisking homes for pints, was the latest of several thousand persons whom it is estimated local dry enforcers have killed in a decade of Volsteadism.

One Cause for Shooting.

Federal and local officers seldom shoot in the enforcement of any law except the commandment that "thou shalt not drink an alcoholic beverage." To compel obedience to the prohibition law they shoot upon the slightest provocation, and invariably they go scot free. Why? Because the prohibitionists are in the saddle and, so far from being shocked by the carnage of prohibition enforcement, they condone the crimes committed in its name. If it were not so, there would be no prohibition murders, for murderers in uniform would be punished, and red handed zealotry would become unpopular.

Public officials are peculiarly sensitive to public sentiment. They always have a weather eye cocked to the way the political wind is blowing. Congress keeps its ear to the ground for the detection of the slightest rumblings of displeasure on the part of the electorate. And executive officials keep an eye on congress which dispenses the life giving flow of funds for salaries and expenses.

Little Provisos Feared.

If congress were to frown upon prohibition murders, prohibition murders would cease. Neither the coast guard nor any other agency is going to flout congress, which decrees whether it is to receive the additional appropriations it is always seeking and whether its officers and employés are to receive that pay raise they have been angling for. Sweet Alice was not more sensitive to the frown of Ben Bolt than your average government bureau to the slightest shadow of displeasure on Capitol hill.

The usual penalty for incurring the displeasure of congress is the inclusion of one of those deadly provisos in the appropriation bill for the offending bureau. For example, suppose that congress should become irked by prohibition murders. It would appropriate funds for the next fiscal year and then add, as if an afterthought: "Provided, however, that no part of this appropriation shall be expended for salaries of officers or employés who take human life in the attempted enforcement of prohibition."

Device That Never Fails.

That would stop prohibition murders toot sweet. It is a device that has never failed to produce results. Appropriation bills literally teem with "provided, howevers," by which congress curbs practices in administration of law of which it disapproves. Frequently congress even nullifies a law with "provided, however." Thus annually for many years it forbade the expenditure of anti-trust prosecution funds for the prosecution of labor unions and farmers' coöperatives.

But congress, controlled in both houses by the Anti-Saloon league, the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals, and other branches of the church lobby, is exhibiting no sign of disapproval of prohibition murders. Hence the coast guard pursues the even tenor of his sanguinary way. Some months ago Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg called Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman, who is in charge of prohibition enforcement, on the carpet and told him that the outrages perpetrated upon foreigners by the coast guard positively must cease. Having just been compelled to apologize to Great Britain for the depredations of the coast guard in Bahaman waters, Mr. Kellogg spoke feelingly. He called the coast guard "the most lawless aggregation of law enforcers in the government service," and opined that if this sort of thing continued we would find ourselves at

Robbers Raid Flat; $18,000 Loot Is Taken

Three young men, one of them carrying a box of red tulips as a blind, gained admittance to the first floor apartment of Mrs. Carrie Johnson, an aged invalid living at 2341 Commonwealth avenue, last night and after terrorizing a colored maid, a physician, and Mrs. Johnson escaped with fur coats and jewelry valued at $18,000.

Mrs. Johnson was being attended by Dr. C. G. Winslow, 2339 Commonwealth avenue, when there was a ring at the back door bell. Mrs. Johnson has been an invalid since she fractured her hip a year ago.

When the colored maid opened the rear door she was confronted by a man carrying a box of flowers. He announced that the blooms were for Mrs. Johnson and that his instructions were to deliver them himself. As the maid opened the door two other men sprang forward from out of the dark and forced their way in. All three then displayed revolvers, warning the maid not to cry out. They ordered her to face away while they adjusted black masks over their faces, and then told her to lead them to her mistress.

Ransack the Apartment.

The robbers entered the bedroom where Mrs. Johnson and her physician were sitting.

"All you people sit quiet and you won't get hurt," the leader of the robbers announced. The intruders then made a systematic search of the apartment. From the painstaking way they went about their work it was apparent that they were aware that Mrs. Johnson and her daughter, Mrs. Roxie Hargreaves, a widow, who lives with her mother, had considerable jewelry in the place.

As the robbers went from room to room a wire haired fox terrier, a pet of Mrs. Johnson, followed at their heels but made no attempt to attack them. The bandits searched until they found the jewelry, roughly estimated at $16,000. They then made a search of the clothes closet and selected an ermine wrap and a mink coat worth $2,000. They disregarded other costly dresses hanging in the closet.

Chided by Aged Invalid.

Apparently satisfied with their haul, the robbers again entered the bedroom. Mrs. Johnson registered her protest.

"You ought to be ashamed to rob an old, crippled woman," she said. Without deigning to answer, the men put away their revolvers, wrapped up the fur coats and, with the jewelry in their pockets, escaped.

After the robbers had left it was found that the fox terier had disappeared. It was not known whether the dog followed the men or was taken by them.

Because of her excited condition Mrs. Johnson was not able to give police an exact description of the jewelry stolen. Among the valuables, she said, were several diamond rings, brooches, and watches. Mrs. Hargreaves, Mrs. Johnson's daughter, was away from home during the robbery.

POLICEMEN KILL AUTO THIEF, 18; PAL IS WOUNDED

One youthful member of a band of automobile thieves was killed last night and another seriously wounded by a detective bureau squad. The youths were trying to escape after the police had caught them riding in an automobile stolen only a few hours previously.

James Mazzie, 18 years old, 1923 Emerson street, who was shot in the head and chest, died at the county hospital. The other youth, who may recover, is Frank Danzer, 15 years old, 1945 West Austin avenue. He was shot in the chest and right arm.

Kane county's best snooper was being held last night for questioning today by Assistant Attorney General Charles W. Hadley, regarding his affidavit which led to the clubbing of Joseph De King, the killing of his wife, Mrs. Lillian De King, and the shooting of Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith at Aurora.

Representatives of State's Attorney George D. Carbary yesterday found the snooper, Eugene Boyd Fairchild, at the home of his father, Boyd Fairchild, in Odell, Ill. But they did not take him to Aurora. He was kept outside the county where prohibition raids brought terror to poor people and reached a climax last Monday night when Gerald De King, 12 years old, seeing his mother fall before the shotgun fire of Deputy Sheriff Smith, seized his father's pistol and shot the deputy.

Ex-Wife Tells of Fairchild.

When he was found, Fairchild admitted he fled the county in fear and the authorities agreed that it would not be safe for him to appear openly until the inquest into Mrs. De King's death is resumed on Tuesday. From Fairchild's divorced wife, the former Lena Maggy of Geneva, Ill., came the statement that Fairchild told her he had been told by a man who represented himself as from the office of State's Attorney Carbary "to get out of town and stay out."

Mrs. Fairchild said her former husband boasted to her that he was one of the best enforcers in the county, that when others failed to get evidence against a liquor seller, he got it. He told her, she said, that he had sworn to the truth when he said he purchased liquor from Mrs. De King. But he added, she said, that he feared violence because the warrant based on his evidence had brought death to Mrs. De King and that his superiors felt he would do their cause no good by remaining in the community or the county.

Carbary Changes His Mind.

Prosecutor Carbary had contended until yesterday that Fairchild was of no importance to the investigation and that he would not use him as a witness. But as he had yielded to public opinion and relinquished control of the investigation to Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, Mr. Carbary yesterday reversed himself and gave orders to hunt for Fairchild.

This was after Mr. Hadley, who had been assigned by Attorney General Carlstrom to supervise the Kane county investigation, had stated that in his opinion Fairchild was a most important witness. Coroner Herman J. Vierke, who has nothing to do with liquor law enforcement, had stated his desire, too to have Fairchild at the inquest on Tuesday.

Find Fairchild at Odell.

Mr. Carbary instructed his assistant, Carleton Shults, and his chief investigator, Walter Millar, to find Fairchild and bring him back. They went to Odell and found him. Fairchild said he was willing to testify if he is wanted and he asserted that since he had seen the pictures of the slain Mrs. De King he is ready to say she was the woman who sold him liquor.

He said he realized the seriousness of attacking the dead woman's reputation and that if he was assured no harm would come to him he would verify his sworn statement of last Monday, the statement that was the basis of a search warrant issued by Magistrate John J. Weber, but admittedly not served on the De Kings.

Denies $5 Fee Charge.

The statement was made in Aurora yesterday that Fairchild received $5 for each affidavit he made against a suspected liquor seller. State's Attorney Carbary denied that his office used that method of payment.

"Such a practice would amount to putting a premium on perjury," Mr. Carbary said. "We pay our investigators on a per diem basis."

"I have charge of paying the investigators," said Chief Investigator Millar, "and I only pay them when they work and I pay them what I want to pay them. They are sent to specified places and if they make buys they are reimbursed for what they spent. Fairchild was a $5 a day man. I didn't send him to the De King home, though."

Millar's statement was taken by Aurora citizens as an admission that in some instances, at least, the snoopers work on commission. One of Fairchild's acquaintances said that the snooper during his brief Aurora career had once boasted: "I always bring back a bottle. That's the way I make them think I am a big guy."

Fairchild's system was described as follows: He would seek the acquaintance of an Aurora girl and propose a drinking expedition, letting the girl suggest the place where the drinks were to be obtained. He would buy two bottles of gin, if he could, and one would be drunk while the other was saved for evidence. Then, it was charged, when he was sent to a particular place he would have a bottle to bring back with him which would furnish the basis of a warrant. Stopping at a private home, he would tell the householder that some friend had sent him for a bottle of wine.

Collects $52,000 in Fines.

State's Attorney Carbary said he didn't know anything about Fairchild's methods, but while talking about Fairchild's earnings he said:

"I have collected about $52,000 in fines during the four months I have been in office and I have spent but $15,000 in getting the evidence. Or, rather, I should say that about $45,000 has been collected and about $7,000 is in process of being collected.

"We are not trying to finance the county through liquor law violations. We are trying to stop the violations. But the money can be put to good use by the county."

Carbary declined to tell where Fairchild was being kept over night but it was understood the former snooper was under guard at a city near Kane county, but outside it. Mrs. Fairchild said she had not been informed where her former husband was, but she had been told by Carbary's representatives to "keep her mouth shut."

She said she divorced Fairchild on grounds of drunkenness and nonsupport and that she was given custody of their one child, Shirley, 3 years old. The former wife is a waitress in Geneva. She said she had not asked for alimony.

Fairchild, she stated, formerly operated an oil station at St. Charles, Ill., which he bought for $300. He sold it last winter for $2,500, she related, and went to Louisiana.

Seized in Roadhouse Raid.

He came back a short time ago and was drinking heavily when he was arrested in a raid on a roadhouse, she said. Through this incident he became acquainted with Millar who agreed to free him if he would give evidence against those who sold him drinks, according to Mrs. Fairchild's story. She said Fairchild told her he had been suspected many times of being a government snooper, and that he finally thought he might as well have the game as the name and he accepted Millar's proposition.

Attorneys Albert J. Kelley and Robert A. Milroy, representing the De King family, were prepared to challenge the jurisdiction of Magistrate Weber to issue a warrant to be served outside the city of Aurora, and they held that the warrant was of no consequence because it referred to the De Kings as Mr. and Mrs. John Doe.

At the De King home yesterday, where friends and relatives were gathered to comfort Joseph and his son, surprise was expressed that Fairchild would persist in his statement he had bought liquor from Mrs. De King. The neighbors said they were positive this was not so. They said Mrs. De King might give a drink of home made wine to a visitor or caller, but that the De King home was far from being a speak-easy and the De Kings were not in the business of selling liquor.

O'Grady Invited to Aurora.

State Representative Thomas J. O'Grady of Chicago, who on Thursday launched a movement for a legislative investigation of the Aurora slaying and liquor law enforcement in Kane county, said he desired the opportunity of questioning Fairchild regarding the "commission system" of prohibition enforcement.

Mr. O'Grady was invited to go to Aurora today to meet leading citizens of the town after the funeral of Mrs. DeKing. Representative Edward P. Petri of Belleville is to join him there.

At St. Joseph's hospital in Elgin it was said the condition of Deputy Sheriff Smith was still critical and there was a possibility that he might die as a result of infection in his leg wound.

Maj. H. H. Pillinger, the attending surgeon, said he doubted that Smith would be able to undergo questioning at the inquest on Tuesday.

Denounce Carbary Methods.

Dissatisfaction with search and seizure methods of prohibition enforcement in Kane county was expressed in Aurora last night. Some citizens blamed the "fee system" for a condition which they said amounts almost to a reign of terror among the foreign sections and the poorer classes.

It was said that State's Attorney Carbary was unfair in his application of the law. The names of several of the better known and more prosperous bootleggers and saloon keepers were mentioned and it was said that Carbary had not acted against them.

There were assertions that the prosecutor had filed informations against the bartenders of some of the larger places and that fines of $1,500 were assessed against the bartenders without the saloon or roadhouse being closed for even an hour.

Prosecutor Carbary has been given two special appropriations to enforce the prohibition laws in the four months he has held office, it was stated—one for $15,000 and one this month for $10,000. But in order for him to have the spending of this money he must collect it in fines, it was pointed out. Fairchild was paid out of this fund.

Several citizens said the well patronized drinking establishments paid their fines promptly, making the money available for Carbary's drive against the foreign born residents who make their own drinks.

The magistrate or justice of the peace who issues a warrant receives a fee, it was explained. In all cases he gets his "costs," which are assessed against the defendant if he is found guilty and paid by the county if the defendant is acquitted.

More Donations Swell Fund for Boy Victim of Dry Raid

Contributions to the fund for the education of Gerald De King, 12 year old Aurora boy whose mother was killed by a dry raider in her home last Monday night, continued to roll into THE TRIBUNE office yesterday. Early in the afternoon, when the second day's receipts were banked, the fund had grown to $343, in individual donations ranging from $1 to $20.

Accompanying the contributions were letters from the donors expressive of their indignation at the action of Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, who, it is charged, shot Mrs. Lillian De King while she was telephoning a lawyer to protest against the raiders' invasion of her home in search of liquor.

Joyce Graven of Wilmette inclosed a check for $5 with this comment: "If I could send a million it would not be enough—would not make even the debt this country's government owes him."

Hopes Fund "Goes Over Big."

From N. D. Desjardins, 206 South Wabash avenue, who contributed $1: "I hope this fund goes over big, for two reasons: first, for the help it will give to educate the boy; and, second, as a protest against the atrocities committed by the dry raiders under the cloak of enforcement of the eighteenth amendment."

From Fred Geiger, 2258 West Adams street, who contributed $1, came this: "It has never been said of the most noted outlaws, Frank and Jesse James, that they shot a woman even in self-defense."

W. P. Cooney, 67 South Water street, sent a $10 check and wrote: "I believe a fund should be created to provide for target practice for the rising generation, as it would seem that in the future it will be necessary to be quick on the trigger to protect the sanctity of the home from the yoke of a government controlling group of religious fanatics."

The Contributions Listed.

Following is a list of contributions, headed by a $200 check turned over yesterday by Vincent E. Healy, Chicago manager of the investment house of W. A. Harriman & Co., at whose suggestion THE TRIBUNE agreed to accept donations to the fund:

MRS. DE KING, SLAIN BY AURORA RAIDER, TO BE BURIED TODAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillian De King, Aurora wife and mother who was shot to death by a dry raider last Monday night, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Several hundred persons are expected to attend the rites, which will take place at the De King home on Aurora avenue, two miles north of the city, and at St. Joseph's church, of which Mrs. De King had been a member all her life.

From the little yellow story and a half house the body will be carried to the church to be blessed. Burial will follow in St. Joseph's cemetery. Because this is Holy Week requiem high mass will not be sung until 9 o'clock Monday morning. The Rev. Henry Schmitz will conduct the Monday service, assisted by the Rev. Charles Henkel of St. Teresa's parish, and the Rev. A. J. Neidert of Annunciation parish.

Five hundred union men of Aurora are expected to accompany Mrs. De King's body from the home to the church today "as a protest against present methods of law enforcement." Pallbearers will be Henry, Paul, August, and Peter De King, brothers of the slain woman's husband, Joseph; George Weiler, husband of De King's sister; and John Schwartz, highway commissioner of Kane county and a family friend.

WILLS HUSBAND $475,000 IF HE DOESN'T REMARRY

Evanston Woman's Estate Goes to Two.

The will of Mrs. Anne Wood Battle, daughter of the late Judge William F. Solly of St. Louis, was filed yesterday before Edward S. Scheffler, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner. The document disposed of a $950,000 estate to her son by a former marriage, Henry Clay Wood, and to her husband, Joel Allen Battle Jr., on condition that he does not remarry.

Under the will the estate is to be left in trust. One-half goes to the son without conditions. The other is left to Mr. Battle with the provision he does not remarry. If he fails to abide by the provision the entire income reverts to the son.

However, if Mr. Battle should have children in a second marriage, his share of the income will go to them. The only other beqeust is one of $5,000 to Wells college of East Aurora, N. Y., which Mrs. Battle attended.

Mrs. Battle died on March 15 in her home at 619 Colfax street, Evanston. Her first husband was Henry Clay Wood, who died more than ten years ago. From her former husband and her father she received bequests which she increased by investments.

She married Mr. Battle in February of 1926 at St. Louis. They met while he was directing an engineering project in that city. After the marriage she made her home in Evanston. They had no children. Mr. Battle is a civil engineer with offices at 343 South Dearborn street.

ORDERS ARREST OF MICHAELSON IN LIQUOR CASE

Hunt Dry Congressman to Face Trial.

Congressman M. Alfred Michaelson, dry law supporter who was indicted for bringing liquor into this country last October, was ordered arrested yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker for removal to Jacksonville, Fla., where he must stand trial. Late last night the warrant had not been served.

While the congressman was not to be found at his home on the west side, federal officials were not alarmed by reports that he had fled from the city rather than face arrest.

"We'll get him all right," United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer said. "Today has been a busy day for my deputies. They have been assisting guards in the evacuation of the old Cook county jail, and removing federal prisoners to country jails, and we truthfully haven't had time to look for Congressman Michaelson. But there is no disposition to let this warrant lie unserved."

Laugh at McBride Claim.

Opponents of Representative Michaelson in his congressional campaigns were moved to laughter and sarcasm last night when informed of a Washington dispatch quoting F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, as saying that Michaelson "had not been endorsed either in the last general election or primary by either the Anti-Saloon league of Illinois or the national organization."

"Mr. McBride is a liar!" asserted Emil Selten, Democratic candidate against Michaelson in 1928. "Michaelson boasted on the platform that the Anti-Saloon league financed his campaign and everybody knew it. The league never formally endorsed him because they thought it might hurt his cause, but it contributed to his fund, backed him to the limit, and told the churches and reform groups it was for him."

Frank M. Padden, Democrat, who opposed Michaelson in 1922, said McBride's statement was "a joke."

"I remember distinctly that Michaelson was backed by the Anti-Saloon league in his campaign against me," Padden said. "The league officials called upon me, and when I refused to accept their aid they gave it to Michaelson. That fact was published, and everybody knew it."

Facing Three Charges.

Details of the indictment made public yesterday in Jacksonville show that Michaelson, who voted for the Jones 5 and 10 law, is charged with three offenses. He is accused of the importation, transportation and possession of liquor. Eleven quarts of booze bearing toothsome names and a keg of booze are listed in the indictment.

The congressman is said to have brought his liquor into Key West, Fla., by boat on Jan. 3, 1928, following a tour of Cuba. It was packed in two trunks which leaked extensively and odoriferously—enough to attract the attention of an employé at the Key West docks who notified police. The trunks with their wet cargo were seized three days later in Jacksonville by prohibition agents. In them were found a select assortment of whisky, crême de menthe, taffel Akavait, crême de cacao, and cherry brandy, besides a keg of plum Barbaucourt.

If Michaelson is convicted on the importation charge he faces a maximum penitentiary sentence of two years and a fine of $5,000.

Why the indictment has been kept secret for almost six months was a puzzle for a time yesterday and reports from Washington credited the secrecy to United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson. Mr. Johnson took vigorous exception to this and issued a written statement in which he set down the facts of his association with the case.

On Jan. 11, he said, a copy of the indictment was received here. On Jan. 12, the United States attorney at Jacksonville was advised by Mr. Johnson that the defendant was a member of congress and the suggestion was made that the matter be referred to Washington. On Feb. 6 Mr. Johnson was notified from Florida to hold the indictment in abeyance until Michaelson had returned to Chicago. On Thursday, Mr. Johnson said, the Florida prosecutor requested that the matter be proceeded with and removal proceedings were instituted yesterday.

Michaelson, who successfully campaigned for reëlection last November under the dry banner and with dry support, probably will not be subjected to ouster proceedings when congress again meets, political leaders in Washington said yesterday.

The prevailing congressional opinion, as expressed by Representative B. H. Snell [Rep., Ill.] of Chicago, chairman of the house rules committee, was that the indictment of Michaelson is "a rather unimportant matter" and "possibly the result of politics."

PEORIA JUDGE LASHES PROHIBITION SLAYER OF AURORA WOMAN

Peoria, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—Referring to the sinking of the British rum runner I'm Alone and to the killing of an Aurora woman during a dry raid, Judge T. N. Green bitterly condemned prohibition today in an address to the principal court jury panel when the panel was discharged for the term.

The pursuers of the I'm Alone had fired on the schooner "like a bunch of moral cowards," he said. The deputy sheriff who shot and killed the woman in Aurora he characterized as a "brute."

"Officers are now willing to break into homes in a criminal manner to find if there is a quart of liquor there," he said. He added that the federal courts bow abjectly "to a set of individuals in this land of supposed freedom."

"I don't know where they found this man Jones," he said, referring to the author of the recently enacted Jones act. "I'd like to see him and make a physical examination of him and Brother Volstead to see what kind of creatures they are.

MICHAELSON AND DE KING CASES FIRE WISCONSIN

Furnish Ammunition for Dry Law Repeal.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sheboygan, Wis., March 29.—[Special.]—The killing of Mrs. Lillian De King at Aurora, Ill., by a prohibition gunman, and the indictment of Congressman M. A. Michaelson of Chicago, a political dry, on charges of smuggling liquor from Cuba, have blazed into Wisconsin's fight over the repeal of its state prohibition enforcement act, which goes to a referendum on Tuesday.

Up and down the Wisconsin lake shore and over in the Fox river valley the two episodes are the great topics wherever one goes. Everywhere they are being talked of. They are tied up with the Wisconsin campaign.

Used as Object Lessons.

The liberals are using them as object lessons. They are pressing the argument that Wisconsin has the opportunity on Tuesday to register its sentiment on whether murder has been legalized by the 18th amendment and on the matter of hypocrisy and fanaticism as shown by dry laws passed under the lash of the Anti-Saloon league by congressmen who are political drys but personally wets.

Early in the week the state was stirred by the Aurora killing, so legislators from all quarters reported at Madison, and today the Michaelson affair appeared to stimulate sentiment to white heat.

Cite Dry's Leaking Luggage.

Liberals are pointing out that Michaelson, an Anti-Saloon league congressman, recently voted for the Jones law to make transportation of a pint of home brew a felony, while, unknown to the public, he was under indictment by a Jacksonville, Fla., grand jury in October on charges of bringing in assorted liquor from Havana, Cuba, after two trunks sprung a leak at the railway station. Michaelson's dry vote and his leaking luggage are being portrayed by the liberals in this region as symbols of prohibition "as is."

Sheboygan itself has been the scene of a minute investigation of conditions as they exist in the countryside under prohibition. A controversy has been raging between Charles E. Broughton, the fighting editor of the Sheboygan Press, and some of the W. C. T. U. officials.

Briefly, the city of Fond du Lac was held up in a W. C. T. U. statement as a Volstead model. It was Broughton's old home town, so he took a week off and went over to inquire. He discovered Fond du Lac was no different from other communities, and he proceeded to publish the evidence he had obtained.

What Police Records Show.

Editor Broughton reported that from the police records of Chief James Silgen he found that in Fond du Lac in 1917, before prohibition, there were 193 arrests for drunkenness, while in 1928, when the drys assert there were no saloons, 417 drunks were docketed at the police station.

"There are 113 places in Fond du Lac licensed to sell only nonintoxicating drinks," the Broughton report said. "Chief of Police Silgen stated that two attempting to live within the law and sell only soft drinks failed. The soft drink parlor is a subterfuge for the saloon. It is more corrupt and detrimental than the saloon because it is a rendezvous of young people."

He quoted Under Sheriff Schlaak as telling him: "The biggest contributing factor to crime and delinquency today is the rural dance hall. The young people, boys and girls in the schools, go out to these dance halls. Bootleggers attend in force, well supplied with flasks filled with moonshine."

First Jones Law Indictment Here Hits Four Defendants

The first Jones law indictments in this district, making liquor violators liable to five years in the penitentiary and a $10,000 fine, were returned yesterday against four alleged Harvey bootleggers, one of whom had not been apprehended.

Those named in the case, which was prepared for the grand jury by Assistant United States District Attorney Daniel Anderson, are John Anello, Sam De George, George Distefano, and Jack Anello. The last named has not yet been arrested.

According to Mr. Anderson, the four are liable to prosecution on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law in addition to the other counts of the indictment, growing out of their alleged attempts to bribe two prohibition agents, Brice Armstrong and Paul B. Shoop. The agents were given $100 on two different occasions by the bootleggers, they claim, when they went to the premises at 15138 Lincoln street, Harvey, to investigate rumors that liquor was being manufactured there.

Each of the four defendants is charged with three counts of manufacturing liquor, two of which fall under the Jones law, while the third, occurring before March 2, is punishable only by a six months' jail sentence. In addition, there is the conspiracy charge, which carries with it a two year term. Bonds of $5,000 were set in each case.

Shortly after the indictments were returned prohibition agents under Assistant Administrator George H. Hurlburd raided a three story brick building near 1700 Elston avenue and secured a 2,000 gallon still, the largest seized recently in Chicago. About 50,000 gallons of whisky mash was found in the place and Alfred A. Mette was arrested. He denied ownership of the still. It is believed by the agents that several men escaped through a trap door in the roof when the raiders stormed the door.

Mette was questioned by Deputy Commissioner of Police John P. Stege and said he was a former treasurer of Pontiac, Ill. He also admitted he was under indictment in McHenry county on liquor charges.

GIRL OF 12 PUT IN STOCKADE FOR CARRYING LIQUOR

Greenville, S. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Freddie May Johnson, 12 year old girl, will be the youngest person ever to serve a sentence in the Greenville stockade, having been given a thirty day sentence today when she pleaded guilty to a violation of the prohibition laws. The girl, who was alone in court, said a woman asked her to carry a quart of liquor across the street to a man who had bought it.

She started with the liquor, but was arrested by an officer before she reached the other side of the street.

Milwaukee Jail Jammed with Dry Law Violators

Milwaukee, Wis., March 29.—[Special.]—Congestion at the Milwaukee county jail, due to imprisonment there of 25 persons awaiting trial in federal court for liquor law violations, led Sheriff Charles Reichenbach today to demand action by Levi Bancroft, United States attorney. Federal Judge F. A. Geiger said he would hold a special arraignment session next Tuesday to alleviate the condition.

TAXES MOUNTING, NO END IN SIGHT, CITIZENS WARNED

New Boost Seen Unless Brakes Are Applied.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

"Inaction, or any plan which defers constructive action, means that government in metropolitan Chicago will drift as in the past; and if one will measure the future by assessing the past, the citizens may look forward to greater maladjustments, confusion and higher taxes with each succeeding year."

That is one of the summarizing views in the preliminary report of the advisory board on estimates and apportionment, which was appointed by the county board on April 23, 1928. This report, now in the process of being considered, has not heretofore been made pubic.

Members of Board Listed.

This prediction that the public may expect higher taxes unless somebody puts on the brakes has unusual significance because of the personnel of the board. Among its members are Sewall Avery, Daniel H. Burnham, Harry P. Chandler, William R. Dawes, George O. Fairweather, A. R. Hatton, J. L. Jacobs, Harry Eugene Kelly, Charles E. Merriam, John S. Miller, Joseph R. Noel, Victor A. Olander, A. S. Peabody, Charles Piez, and Felix J. Streychmans.

In support of this prediction of higher taxes in the direction in which governmental agencies are now drifting, County Commissioners Harry Newby and Emmett Whealan told all of the county elective officials Thursday afternoon that they expect the present legislature to enact laws which will increase the county's expenses about $1,000,000 a year. Both of these commissioners have been chairmen of the county board finance committee. They did not designate the particular bills which will increase the county's expenses; neither did they indicate what they intended to do, if anything. If the Newby-Whealan prediction comes true, then the county's expenses next year will be 5 to 7 per cent higher than the probable outlay this year.

No Lobby in Evidence.

What the legislature will do to the property owners this year remains to be seen. Locally public officials, when talking in public, are shouting and waving their arms against any tax increase, but no lobby of office holders has been reported in Springfield fighting against increased financial burdens.

Unless the legislators curb themselves, the tax burdens of Chicago will be augmented. The enormous indirect tax on gasoline does not indicate the complete reformation of the legislature—yet.

The Civic federation, the Bureau of Public Efficiency and the Committee of One Hundred, whose chief duty is to battle unnecessary tax increases, are sending representatives to Springfield weekly.

The Civic federation, in its report on the last legislature, said that it and other agencies had aided in the killing of bills which saved the taxpayers "at least $15,000,000 in 1928 and a large sum in subsequent years."

At the same time the local tax bills paid in Cook county were $34,000,000 higher in 1928 than in 1927. Perhaps some of the boost cannot be traced directly to the legislature, but a large part of it can.

Bills $19,000,000 Higher.

Reporting on the 1925 legislature, the Civic federation said it had aided in killing bills which saved the property owners $8,000,000 a year; but the tax bills in Cook county were increased about $19,000,000 that year.

The Civic federation says that no public officials go to Springfield and openly advocate "higher taxes." They seek "financial relief."

That sadly familiar cry, coming from the taxing bodies, makes the taxpayer shudder like a forest wanderer at the cry of the wolf pack. In past years it has invariably been the forerunner of higher tax bills.

"Financial relief for citizens who directly or indirectly support government is now in order, especially in view of the scandalous misuse of the last 'relief' granted to taxing bodies by the 1927 general assembly—notably in the city of Chicago and the sanitary district."

FRENCH CHAMBER O. K.'S RETURN OF CHURCH ESTATES

HOOVER MOVES FOR PREVENTION OF RAIL STRIKE

Texas and Pacific Trouble Halted.

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—President Hoover today issued a proclamation creating an emergency board of investigation to look into the threatened strike of workers of the Texas and Pacific railroad. The board will consist of five members.

The proclamation was issued after Chairman Winslow of the federal board of mediation had called at the White House. The investigating body would be required to report on its findings within 30 days.

The President, in issuing the proclamation, said he had been "duly notified" by the board of the dispute between the company and "certain of its employés, represented by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, Order of Railway Conductors, and Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen."

Hold Up Strike Order.

Dallas, Tex., March 29.—(AP)—An order which originally had called for a strike of 4,000 Texas and Pacific railway shop and train employés at 6 a. m. tomorrow, was withdrawn tonight by officials of the four brotherhoods.

The order of withdrawal was signed by Fred Barr, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers; D. A. McKenzie, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; E. H. Kruse, assistant grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and J. A. Gannon, vice president of the Order of Railroad Carmen.

The trouble, dating back about six months, came to an impasse today when eight leaders of the four brotherhoods, locomotive firemen and enginemen, engineers, trainmen, and conductors, failed to agree with Mr. Somervile and other T. & P. executives.

Yards Removal Issue.

The dissension was said to have grown largely from the railroads removal of its yards from Longview and Marshall to Mineola and Shreveport, with other disputes creeping in. One of the other points of protest was the railway's alleged refusal to make good the loss entailed by employés in consequence of the removal from Longview. Many of the workers were buying homes at the former division point on long time payments.

CITY'S 'EXPERTS' ARE STILL BUSY, VOUCHERS SHOW

But Their Duties Remain Puzzle to Aldermen.

Real estate and other so-called experts, who dipped into the city treasury to the extent of well over $1,000,000 last year, are contributing their services again for large fees, it was learned yesterday with the publication of voucher lists. For February, 1929, alone, these experts were paid approximately $40,000 of the taxpayers' money, the list shows.

This "fattening at the public trough," as the members of the city council refer to the practice, has the aldermen guessing. They say that many of the experts are relatives of city officials, politicians who are on other pay rolls, or persons of whom little is known. But in regard to the work which the experts are scheduled to do, the aldermen had no information.

Order Governs Reports.

Aldermanic curiosity in May, 1928, resulted in the passage of an order regulating the duties of the city controller in making out the voucher reports. The aldermen ordered that the report "state the services for which such voucher is made, and the name and residence of the person to whom it is issued."

This has been complied with to some extent, the February report reveals. Names and addresses—the address often that of an office instead of the residence—are given along with a classification such as "legal," "real estate expert," "building valuator," and so on. But the duties, the amount and nature and place of the work, are not made plain.

Most of the experts on the February report are the same men who received generously from the city during 1928. Many of them arrived with the present administration and apparently, it appears to the aldermen, intend to remain with their friends to the end. Corporation Counsel Samuel A. Ettelson and Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, pay most of them from their appropriations.

Amounts Received Listed.

The names of the experts, classification, amounts received for February and for all of 1928, (when this figure was available) follow. "R. E. V." stands for real estate valuator.

| Name and service | February. | Total, 1928. |
| Frederick Bangs, legal | 2,200 | ........ |
| Benjamin F. Goldstein, legal | 5,150 | 15,175 |
| Benjamin F. Kleeman, R. E. V. | 300 | 7,625 |
| Harry A. Biossat, legal | 75 | 13,318 |
| R. M. Perbohner, R. E. V. | 1,600 | 18,500 |
| Congressman Frank Reid, legal | 1,100 | 6,050 |
| John W. Arthur, R. E. V. | 1,250 | ........ |
| Joseph C. Cormack, R. E. V. | 1,050 | ........ |
| E. B. Woolf, R. E. V. | 2,600 | 25,900 |
| Lee J. Strauss, R. E. V. | 975 | ........ |
| A. S. Davis, R. E. V. | 2,400 | 12,675 |
| Walter E. Mass, building valuator | 1,300 | 10,600 |
| Ralph C. Harris, building valuator | 2,400 | 25,650 |
| Harry Klatzco, legal | 1,225 | 13,690 |
| Frank D. Ayers, legal | 1,250 | 12,000 |

Corporation Counsel Ettelson is paid $15,000 a year by the city for issuing orders to his experts and other duties. Some of his employés exceeded his salary, as well as that of the mayor, in 1928, and, an alderman pointed out, some will eclipse them again in 1929 if the February vouchers are an index of their payments in the next ten months.

Biossat Back on Roll.

The February roll ushered Harry A. Biossat back into the "administration pay roll family. For three months, November and December, 1928, and January, 1929, Harry could not be found on a city pay roll, and it was rumored that his ambition to fill Ettelson's job was responsible.

His fee of $75, the aldermen say, is presumably for one day's work. They recalled that he appeared at a meeting of the council committee on harbors, wharves, and bridges one day in January or February. It was understood by the aldermen, and several were emphatic in their belief, that he was representing Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe.

Mr. Wolfe's memory, however, contained no picture of Attorney Biossat. Asked if Biossat was on his pay roll or was representing him on the Calumet harbor legislation, Mr. Wolfe hesitated and replied, "I don't think so. You see, there are a lot of people who come in here and say they are recommended by this or that person. I don't remember him. If he said he was representing me, he shouldn't have."

E. B. Woolf, who drew $25,900 during 1928, or $10,900 more than Mr. Ettelson, is connected by marriage with the Ettelson family.

BURKE IS IDENTIFIED AS MORAN KILLER WHO WORE UNIFORM

Frederick R. Burke, alias Thomas A. Camp, alias John F. Lewis of St. Louis, 31 years old, killer and bank robber, sought for weeks in connection with the St. Valentine day gang massacre in which seven men were slain in a garage at 2122 North Clark street, has been positively identified as one of the two killers who wore police uniforms, it was revealed last night by Deputy Commissioner John Stege.

Burke, according to the record in the bureau of identification, is wanted for murder in half a dozen cities, including New Orleans, Toledo, Hamilton, O., and Detroit. He is also wanted in Louisville for the robbery of the Portland bank there in 1925. Shortly after the killing of Frank Yale in New York last July, Burke was named as one of the slayers.

Believe Smallpox Spread Averted by Fumigation

The spread of black smallpox, a fatal but in recent years a rare type of the disease, is believed by the health department to have been averted by the disinfection of an apartment building and the vaccination of nearly 100 persons, according to an announcement made yesterday. Miss Bernice Donaldson, 19 years old, 6916 Lakewood avenue, died in the Isolation hospital on Thursday of the disease.

SEIZE LITZINGER WITNESS; TWO OTHERS SOUGHT

Three Are Charged with Perjury at Trial.

Homer Provencal, one of the three witnesses who brought about the acquittal of Virgil Litzinger by their testimony that a mysterious stranger had committed the murder with which Litzinger was charged, has been secretly under arrest on a charge of perjury for several days, it became known last night. The other two witnesses have apparently fled the city, according to reports to Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege.

Soon after the acquittal of Litzinger by a jury last Friday evening Judge John P. McGoorty, at the request of Assistant State's Attorneys Clarence Piggott and Duane Reed, issued secret perjury warrants for the three witnesses. Police squads have been searching for the men, but Provencal, who formerly lived at a city fire station, has been the only one found.

Two Witnesses Sought.

Alfred Boyte, 2809 West 38th street, who testified that he was an employé of the Edward R. Litsinger Motor company, of which Fred Litsinger, brother of the defendant, is secretary, is one of the missing men. The other is Edward McDonough, who gave his address at 6306 Artesian avenue.

It has been indicated by Judge McGoorty that he will direct a prosecution for conspiracy to obstruct justice against the men. All the defense witnesses said they had first told their stories to Fred Litsinger. They admitted they had never notified the proper authorities of what they said they had seen.

Judge Charges Perjury.

After the jury had returned its verdict Judge McGoorty announced from the bench that a miscarriage of justice had occurred. He said, however, that he did not blame the jury because of the conflict in the testimony. He charged that the defense witnesses had committed perjury.

Litzinger, who was a fugitive from justice for three years, returned last fall to face the charge of having slain Clarence Glynn, part owner of a soft drink parlor. When the prosecutors started to prepare for trial they found that three of their five witnesses had disappeared. At the trial the three defense witnesses, who had never before been heard from, appeared to testify that the mysterious stranger had killed Glynn.

TRIES TO FLIRT WITH GIRLS; SLAIN BY THEIR ESCORT

An attempt to make the acquaintance of two girls cost the life of John Toulousis, 18 years old, 603 South Halsted street, early this morning. Toulousis and three companions were standing at Harrison and Des Plaines streets when the girls walked past. The four youths fell in behind them. A few yards farther on a man stepped out of an alley and confronted them.

"What do you want with those girls?" he demanded. As Toulousis mumbled an answer the stranger drew a pistol and fired. The bullet struck Toulousis in the right side. His friends rushed him to Mother Cabrini hospital, where he died. The slayer fled with the girls.

Toulousis' companions were held for questioning. They are Leonard Castagnino, 2148 Polk street; Anthony Goonen, 842 Vernon Park place, and Thomas Metropoulos, 603 South Halsted street. All are 18 years old.

GIRL CRUSHED TO DEATH BY AUTO AND STREET CAR

Mother Sees Tragedy in Maywood.

Dorothy Stenstrom, 8 years old, 1923 South 8th avenue, Maywood, was instantly killed last night when she was crushed between an automobile and a street car at Fifth avenue and Madison street, Maywood. This death raised to 1929 Cook county motor toll to 158.

Dorothy and her mother, Mrs. J. H. Stenstrom, were trapped in the middle of the intersection by a change of traffic lights. They were standing between a west bound street car and an automobile driven by Edward Cogley Jr., 1128 Holly court, Oak Park. The rear trucks of the street car jumped the switch as the car turned north on Fifth avenue, crushing the girl against the automobile. The mother escaped injury.

MotormanIs Released.

The girl was taken to the West Lake hospital in Melrose Park, where she was pronounced dead. Cogley and the motorman of the street car, G. H. Gerschefski, 1218 South 58th court, Cicero, were not held.

Emerson O. Fyle, 50 years old, 3657 Fifth avenue, died at the Bethany hospital from burns he suffered when the gasoline tank of his automobile exploded after a collision with a train in Paola, Kas., on March 21. He was taken to the Bethany hospital Thursday.

Helen Olson, 1 year old, was probably fatally injured when she was catapulted from the automobile in which she was riding with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Olson, 6500 Ellis avenue, and her grandfather, Henry Fick, into a ditch beside the Lincoln highway near Torrence avenue. The mother and grandfather were slightly injured in the crash with a truck driven by John Klemp of Lockport. Klemp was held.

Broker's Wife Injured.

Mrs. Joan Lang, 2733 Prairie avenue, Evanston, was seriously injured, and her husband, Ralph, a Chicago broker, was bruised when the auto in which they were riding collided with a five ton truck at Maple avenue and Oak street, Winnetka. The auto swerved into a tree and overturned, pinning Mrs. Lang beneath it.

FAIR WEATHER IS PROMISED FOR EASTER PARADE

Easter paraders are in luck this year, for fair skies and balmy weather for Easter Sunday were predicted in the official weather forecast last night. According to Prof. Henry J. Cox, head of the weather bureau, temperatures will be seasonable, with the mercury reaching a maximum of 48 degrees and dropping to a minimum during the day of not less than 34 degrees. The forecast for last night and today was for unsettled weather with probable showers, accompanied by a strong southerly wind, which will shift to the west some time today. A fair Easter Sunday was promised for the entire forecast district.

FIRE THREATENS GARAGE.

Fire starting from an undetermined source in a six car frame garage at the rear of 5427 South Halsted street threatened to destroy the structure before it was brought under control by firemen. The damage was negligible.

MAKES CHARGES OF 'PLAGIARISM' IN EDDY WORKS

Opponent in Church Is Accuser.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Flagrant plagiarism of the works of Carlyle, Ruskin, the French philosopher, Amiel, and other authors is charged against the late Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church, in an article which will appear tomorrow in the April issue of The Christian Science Watchman under the signature of Mrs. Annie C. Bill, founder of the Christian Science Parent Church. The latter church is independent of the so called "mother church" of Boston, Mass.

According to the article, a committee of the parent church sought, on Feb. 20, last, to lay its evidence of "15 typical examples of plagiarism, ranging from single sentences and paragraphs, to substantially an entire message, to the first members of the First Church of Christ, Scientist," before the directorate of the "mother church," but were repulsed. When other communications on the subject were ignored, Mrs. Bill, who is now in London, determined to publish the charges.

Trace Carlyle's Words.

The article charges that statements in Science and Health, familiar to every Christian Scientist, were lifted bodily from Carlyle's "Heroes and Hero Worship," and includes under the title "Undeniable Evidence" a photostatic comparison of excerpts from one of Mrs. Eddy's "miscellaneous writings," with a sermon written by the Rev. Hugh Blair more than 100 years ago and published in Lindley Murray's English Reader before 1860.

According to Mrs. Eddy's "miscellaneous writings," published in 1896, she wrote to "the first members of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, as follows:

". . . The upright man is guided by a fixed principle, which destines him to do nothing but what is honorable and to abhor whatever is base or unworthy; hence, we find him ever the same—at all times the trusty friend, the affectionate relative, the conscientious man of business, the pious worker, the public spirited citizen.

"He assumes no borrowed appearance. He seeks no mask to cover him, for he acts no studied part; but he is, indeed, what he appears to be—full of truth, candor and humanity."

Gives Supposed Source.

Mrs. Bill's article contrasts that excerpt with the following, which, she asserts, is found on Page 89 of the Murray English Reader of 1860:

'"The upright man is guided by a fixed principle of mind, which determines him to esteem nothing but what is honourable; and to abhor whatever is base or unworthy, in moral conduct. Hence we find him ever the same—at all times, the trusty friend, the affectionate relation, the conscientious man of business, the pious worshipper, the public-spirited citizen. He assumes no borrowed appearance. He seeks no mask to cover him, for he acts no studied part; but he is, indeed, what he appears to be, full of truth, candour, and humanity."

In the article, Mrs. Bill declares that "twenty-five years ago" she "recognized a fundamental truth and thought that I had gained it through original writings of Mary Baker Eddy." Now, however, she adds, whilst "the truth" remains, "my estimate of the human channel was mistaken."

Calls for Reappraisal.

She declares that "the implication that the truth found in 'Science and Health' was wholly the discovery of Mary Baker Eddy must be withdrawn."

"A reappraisal of her writings and life work is necessitated," Mrs. Bill asserts, "by the disclosure of habitual plagiarisms which extended over a long period of years. It may never be known to what extent Mrs. Eddy's copyrighted works represent her own ideas, nor how much she obtained from others."

MICHAEL FURK.

AMMONIA PIPE BURSTS; 1 DEAD, FOUR INJURED

Michael Furk, 40 years old, 7840 Cregier avenue, was killed and four other persons were injured late yesterday afternoon when an ammonia pipe in the plant of the Goldenrod Ice Cream company, 937 West 21st street, burst. Nearly 50 employés, mostly women, were in the plant at the time.

Those who were injured are Lawrence McCarty, 24 years old, 3008 Arthington street, taken to the Presbyterian hospital; William Cutwhistel, 32 years old, 813 West Garfield boulevard, taken to People's hospital, and two others whose injuries were reported as slight.

Furk, who was superintendent of the plant, collapsed from the effect of the fumes before he could leave the building and died of suffocation. McCarty and Cutwhistel were carried out by firemen and were revived.

According to police there were 15 employés at work in the room when the ammonia pipe burst.

Lake Forest Turns On New Bright Street Lamps

A new system of elaborate electric street lights, recently installed on Western avenue in Lake Forest, was turned on for the first time last night. At the same time City Supervisor Roy S. Wells announced the completion of a system of street signs along the narrow winding roads of the suburb. Plans are also being made to install stop and go lights at the principal intersections of the town, he said.

WANT CONGRESS TO INQUIRE INTO CREDIT SITUATION

Glass to Open Fight in Special Session.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Lively times in congress during the special session over the speculative situation were foreshadowed today. A demand by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] that the federal reserve board force the resignation of Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank, as a director of the Federal Reserve bank of New York, was supported by Senators Duncan Fletcher [Dem., Fla.] and George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.].

Senator W. H. King [Dem., Utah] announced his intention to offer a resolution for an investigation of the entire credit and speculative situation. Senator King also said he intended to introduce a bill for the curbing of speculation.

Glass Working on Measure.

Senator Glass is working on such a measure and the expectation is that the senate committee on banking and currency will give it consideration during the special session. The house banking and currency committee, which will not be organized during the special session, is planning to conduct an inquiry in the fall.

The attacks of senators on Mr. Mitchell were due to his action in furnishing $25,000,000 for the call money market when efforts of the federal reserve board were being directed toward a curtailment of speculation.

"The whole country has been aghast for months at the menacing spectacle of excessive stock gambling," Senator Glass said. "And when the federal reserve board mildly seeks to abate the danger by an administrative policy, fully sanctioned by law, rather than by a prohibitive advance in rediscount rates, which might penalize the legitimate business of the entire country, an officer of the system issues a defiance and engages in an attempt to vitiate the policy of the federal reserve board."

Mitchell Explains Stand.

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Declaring that the money crisis that developed on the New York stock exchange this week had passed and that it was a "closed incident," Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank, under whole leadership sufficient funds were thrown into the market to force the call loan rate down from 20 per cent to 8 per cent, voiced a warning today that the relief of the situation should not be interpreted as an invitation to a fresh speculation "debauch."

"While stable conditions have been restored," said Mr. Mitchell, "the public would do well to remember that this does not mean that the way has been cleared for a renewal of unbridled speculation. If such a development should occur, the very conditions that developed this week could easily be repeated.

"What is needed is an attitude of sanity on the part of the American public regarding its investment. A large part of the present problem would be solved if purchasers of securities would put a larger proportion of their own capital and savings into their holdings and lean less heavily on credit facilities."

Mr. Mitchell refused to comment on the statement of Senator Carter Glass that Mr. Mitchell had "slapped the reserve board in the face" by his relief of the money situation on Wednesday with his announcement that the National City bank was ready to put $5,000,000 into the call loan market at 16 per cent and an additional $5,000,000 at every advance of 1 per cent up to 20 per cent.

In the course of his talk with newspaper men, however, Mr. Mitchell was asked whether he would again act as he did this week if such a condition should be repeated, and he replied:

"It may be assumed that we will endeavor at all times to avoid a critical condition, and we will not be alone in that attitude as other banks would be equally interested in preventing a crisis."

Mr. Mitchell revealed frankly the operations of the bank and its transactions with the Federal Reserve bank during the week.

Explains Deals with Reserve.

"Although the National City bank was borrowing from the federal reserve bank through the rediscounting of paper a few days ago," said Mr. Mitchell, "this morning we are completely out of debt at the reserve bank. Our maximum discounting this week was never more than $35,000,000, and on Dec. 31 it was $75,000,000. We did no discounting on Monday. We did some on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday; none today and there will be none tomorrow.

"On Wednesday we lent on our own account in the call money market approximately $25,000,000 and that compared with our normal amount of from $100,000,000 to $125,000,000. Our direct street loans this morning are $139,000,000, which is $24,000,000 more than at this time last month and $79,000,000 less than a year ago."

M'ANDREW LIBEL SUIT AGAINST MAYOR IS FILED AGAIN

The $250,000 libel suit of former Superintendent of Schools William McAndrew against Mayor William Hale Thompson was refiled in the Circuit court yesterday by Attorneys Francis X. Busch and Angus Roy Shannon. The charges of the bill are identical with those dismissed for want of prosecution a week ago by Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis.

"We hastened to refile the suit to confute rumors that the former suit was an empty threat in return for Mr. McAndrew's oustal by the board of education," Attorney Busch said. "We have a strong case and will push it to the extent of our ability. Mr. McAndrew is now in Europe, but will return by the time the case is reached on the call."

Mr. McAndrew's complaint as set forth in his bill is based on statements made by Mayor Thompson to the press and in a letter to commanders of American Legion posts denouncing the superintendent as fostering unpatriotic histories in Chicago schools.

France Confers Honor on Charles H. MacDowell

Charles H. MacDowell, president of the Armour Fertilizer works and a distinguished engineer during the world war, was notified yesterday through M. Paul Claudel, French ambassador, that he had been named as an officer of the Legion d'Honneur in recognition of his many services rendered the French cause in the United States. Mr. MacDowell in 1923 was one of three Illinois men honored with the distinguished service medal. He lives at the Drake hotel.

I'M ALONE CASE MAY BRING CURB ON DRY GUNNERY

Stimson Wrestling with Vexing Problem.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29. — [Special.]—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson left for his home in New York late this afternoon, prepared to spend a busy week-end studying the circumstances surrounding the sinking of the Canadian rum-running schooner I'm Alone, by the three-inch guns of the coast guard Cutter Dexter off the Louisiana coast a week ago today.

One of the pertinent reasons back of the new secretary's unusual interest in the I'm Alone case arises from the fact that for the first time during the nine years of prohibition, the state department is faced with a situation where it must formulate a definite policy on "coast guard murders," in cases where the lives of foreign nationals are at stake. The death of a French national by drowning when the schooner went down marked the second time the activities of the guard have resulted in the death of a foreign national.

Must Lay Down Limits.

Regardless of the outcome of expected protests from Canada and France, officials here feel Mr. Stimson must lay down hard and fast rules for the future, specifying just how far the dry navy may go in its gunnery operation. Such a policy would make it clear whether the department would condone killing of foreign nationals in the interests of dry enforcement and whether the coast guard would be permitted to shell the boats of foreign nations, thus endangering human life as well as American foreign relations.

One of the reasons why the Canadian legation has been somewhat skeptical toward the reports submitted by the coast guard may be found in the records of a case fought out in the San Francisco federal court a year ago.

In that case Sigard Johnson, commander of a coast guard cutter which seized the Coal Habor, a Canadian rum running vessel, testified the vessel was seized six and one-half miles from shore, well within the treaty limit. The radio bearings revealed the vessel was twenty-three rather than six miles from shore.

The jury freed the vessel and crew. Johnson was court martialed and suspended.

May Drop Prosecution.

New Orleans, La., March 29.—[Special.]—Prosecution of Capt. John T. Randell and his crew of seven survivors from the sunken rum runner I'm Alone, will be dropped when the accused men are arraigned on Tuesday.

The decision to abandon prosecution of the rum runner's crew, was learned today. It is said to have resulted from an admission of department of justice officials of their inability to prove rum conspiracy charges against the accused men.

VON MOLTKE KINSMAN LANDS IN JAIL AFTER SCRIMMAGE IN COURT

Gustav von Kuehnreich, who says he is a descendant of Count von Moltke, was sentenced to ten days in the county jail for contempt of court by Judge William N. Gemmill yesterday. Kuehnreich assaulted his wife's attorney, Victor Frohlich, during the trial of his wife's suit for divorce on charges of cruelty.

Attorney Frohlich told the court that the husband continually taunted his wife, Agnes von Kuehnreich, 910 East 91st street, about her plebeian birth. He declared that Von Kuehnreich had recently joined the Ku Klux Klan to arouse his wife, who is a Roman Catholic.

The husband challenged the statement as a life which no descendant of a Von Moltke could pass without resentment, and leaped for the attorney. Court bailiffs parted them. Then Judge Gemmill imposed the contempt sentence, remarking that it would not be an indignity for one of Von Moltke blood to be the first man to be sent from his court to the new jail.

KELLOGG SAILS; RECEIVES BOOK FROM ADMIRERS

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, sailed tonight with Mrs. Kellogg aboard the French liner Ile de France for a vacation in Europe, taking with him a testimonial volume presented by admirers just before the vessel left.

The book contained the text of his anti-war treaty and the signatures of hundreds of well wishers. It was presented by the citizens' nonpartisan committee.

After expressing his gratitude Mr. Kellogg predicted that his successor, Henry L. Stimson, would make an "excellent secretary of state."

The former secretary said he was happy at the prospect of a long rest and that he probably never would return to public life.

11 PASSENGERS HURT AS STREET CARS COLLIDE

Eleven persons were injured last night, four of them seriously, when a south bound Archer avenue street car crashed into the rear end of another one at Archer avenue and Lowe street. The injured were riding in the rear of the first car.

Those injured are Miss Irma Nellis, 25 years old, 7734 West 66th street, Summit; Mrs. Sadie Kitt, 42 years old, 3011 West 40th street; Miss Helen Kampfert, 19 years old, 4312 South Fairfield avenue; Miss Harriet Olson, 14 years old, 3417 West 54th place; Mrs. Anna Olson, 45 years old, and Virginia Olson, 7, mother and sister of Harriet; Mrs. Harry Yakutis, 22 years old, 5514 South Sawyer avenue; Harry Roach, 42 years old, 2237 West 72d street; William Meyer, 57 years old, 4113 South Oakley avenue; Miss Florence Woelker, 21 years old, 1600 South Whipple street; and Miss Laurel Nash, 21 years old, 6335 Maplewood avenue. The first four named are in a serious condition at the Peoples' hospital.

According to police, Motorman James Rak, 5521 South Homan avenue, operating the rear car, could not stop because of faulty air brakes. The car operated by Motorman Rak was nearly empty.

PRIEST SHOT BY THIEVES' FATHER IS NEAR DEATH

Radio Helps Police Squad Capture Assailant.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

The Rev. Charles A. Erkenswick, for 19 years one of the best known priests in Cicero, was reported near death of gunshot wounds last night at St. Ann's hospital, while his assailant, Gaetano Menna, alternately wept and puffed his corncob pipe in a cell at the Fillmore street police station.

Just two and one-half minutes after Menna's description had been broadcast through radio station W-G-N to roving police squad cars recently equipped with radio receiving sets he was in the custody of the nearest squad, headed by Sergt. John Brown, which was in the vicinity.

Capt. Charles McGurn of the Fillmore street police was especially delighted with the success of the radio in the case.

"Twenty minutes after we received a call from a woman who saw the shooting," he said, "Menna was here behind bars. I put the message on the switchboard, it went to the radio station, and the squads just swarmed in here."

Shoots Priest Three Times.

Menna was fleeing from the Holy Ghost school yard at Kildare and Adams street, where he had just shot Father Erkenswick, once in the right arm, then twice in the back as the priest wheeled away in agony and threw up his hands. He was reached simultaneously by Sergt. Brown's squad and by Traffic Policeman Leonard Burch. Burch took up the chase after two boys, James Lyons and Gerald Matthews, who saw the crime, pointed out Menna to him.

According to Menna, he shot Father Erkenswick because the priest had refused to ask that Menna's two sons, John, 17 years old, and Paul, 19, be released from the county jail, where they were taken on Wednesday when a policeman found them robbing the poor box of Holy Ghost church.

The two youths confessed to thirty similar offenses when they were taken to the Fillmore Street station, the police said.

Father of Five Children.

Menna, who is 55 years old, is the father of five children. He has lost the sight of one eye, and the two boys were counted on by their father to supplement the scanty earnings of their mother, who is a dishwasher and scrubwoman. Both youths have police records.

Yesterday the two boys' absence from home was explained to their parents when a letter arrived from Paul, who asserted they had stopped in the church to rest and were innocent of the charge against them. He asked his mother to bring money and cigars to him at the county jail.

Enraged, Menna took the letter to the parish house, near which he met Father Erkenswick returning from having said a Good Friday mass. Menna asked for the head priest and when told that Father Erkenswick was he shoved the envelope into the other's hand, jerked out his pistol, and fired.

Father Blames Clergyman.

"Priest send my boys away for life," Menna wept as Capt. McGurn questioned him at the station. "We starve. I have no money. I work hard. I was going to kill the priest, then kill myself."

At the shack at 737 Robey street, where Menna lives, his wife was away, but returned as reporters turned from the door. She was unaware of the tragedy, having just come from consulting with court attachés about her boys. She was told her husband had been arrested and asked what the trouble was.

"He shot the priest at Holy Ghost church," was the answer.

"That terrible man," she gasped. "He tried to kill me three years ago. He drinks—he is a bad, bad man. Why does God let men like that live?"

"Didn't he support the family?"

"Huh!" she sneered, "He has never worked since he lost his eye."

COPS WINKED AT POLL TERRORISM, ELLER JURY TOLD

Witnesses for State Say Pleas Were Ignored.

The charge that the policemen assigned to election day duty in the 20th ward, the domain ruled by Boss Morris Eller, city collector, turned their heads whenever the Ellerites decided to remove from the scene an opposing worker of the Deneen faction was made by every state witness called to the stand in Judge Frank Comerford's Criminal court yesterday where thirteen henchmen of the Ellers were on trial, charged with kidnaping and assault to kill.

Whenever a policeman was appealed to, witnesses said, he would turn his head the other way, so that he would not see that the Ellerites were sticking pistols in the ribs of their victims and carting them over to the election day jail at 1352 South Peoria street, one block from the home of Judge Emanuel Eller.

Witnesses Identify Policemen.

In fact, Detective Sergeant Peter Pacelli, who was assigned to the office of Robert E. Crowe, then state's attorney, was identified as one of the active participants in the election day crimes.

Joseph L. Robinson, colored, who until two weeks before the election was an Eller worker, but who turned to the Deneen forces, was the star witness of the day. Beside identifying Detective Pacelli, he also pointed out Harry Hochstein, lieutenant in the Eller camp; John Armondo, Sam Kaplan, Buddy Jacobson, Rocco Fanelli, and Abe [Humpy] Klass, an Eller kinsman, as men involved in the conspiracy.

"While with the Ellers I had a gambling shop on Sangamon street gambling shop on Sangamon street," said Robinson. "I became a Deneen worker and started out to solicit votes. I was on the job on election day only a short time when Kaplan, Jacobson, Benny Zion, and John Genero came in with .45 caliber pistols and took me out.

Was Taken to "Jail."

"I asked for assistance, but the officer just turned away and paid no attention. I was taken to the election jail and after a while Hochstein showed up and said I had double crossed him. He cracked me over the head and kicked my face. Policeman Pacelli was also up in the jail."

Attorneys Benedict Short and Thomas D. Nash, chief defense attorneys, had scored a point earlier in the day when they succeeded in shaking the testimony of George W. Dowthard, who had his left arm crippled for life.

UNWRITTEN LAW SLAYER FREED AND COSTS PAID

Atlanta, Ga., March 29.—[Special.]—Acquitted late last night of the murder of Hall Davis, motor car dealer, on an "unwritten law" plea, W. Lawrence Shippey, clerk in the Southern Grocery Stores, today returned to his wife and his job.

It was learned today that his fellow workers and employers will bear practically the entire cost of the defense. An official of Armour and company, which controls the business where Shippey is employed, began his defense fund with a check for $2,000 from the Chicago home office, it was reported today. Fellow workers raised $500 and it was said that the Southern Grocery board of directors would meet in a few days to consider giving him $1,500 more. In addition, it is said Shippey has never been off the firm's pay roll.

KENNEDY DENIES USING HIS OFFICE IN SIGN RACKET

Says He Will Sue Wagner for Slander.

Commissioner Michael Kennedy of the city's department of gas and electricity, yesterday termed as "contemptible lies" the charges that he had used his position to obtain lighting contracts for a favored concern. He said that he has instructed his attorney to bring suit for slander against the Wagner Sign Service, Inc., in whose bill for a temporary injunction the charges were made.

The temporary injunction against Kennedy, Thomas J. Malloy, business agent of the Motion Picture Operators' union; his assistant, Ralph O'Hara, and Thomas J. Flannery, president of the White Way Sign Service company, was granted on Thursday by Judge Oscar Hebel. It restrains them from coercing theater owners and other users of electrical display signs to break contracts with the Wagner firm.

Asks $250,000 Damages.

The racketeering activities of the defendants, Erwin Wagner charged through his attorney, Joseph B. Fleming, resulted in losses to his business for which he asks $250,000 damages. Intimidations and threats of frequent inspections were used to obtain business for the White Way firm, it was charged.

"I have known Flannery for a long time," Commissioner Kennedy said yesterday. "He came to me one day and said that the Orpheum circuit was about to receive bids for the maintenance of the State-Lake sign and asked me to see if they would receive his bid. I called and was told that Flannery could submit his bid, which he did. As it was the lowest of the four or five submitted, he received the contract. That is the only time that I tried to assist the White Way company.

Calls Statement "Lie."

"The statement that the bureau is being used to intimidate owners and that I collected one month's gross receipts are contemptible lies. I have instructed Attorney Timothy Fell to bring suit against the Wagner people for slander."

Mendel Rises to Nobility, but Cannot Shake Wife

BY M. M. NOWINSKI.
(Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.)

WARSAW, March 29.—America is the "land of promise" of every good Jew in Poland. Mendel Nuchimson, a money lender and an expert on the discounting of bills, decided he would go there. Business had been good in Poland and Mendel had saved $2,000. With this he decided he would challenge Wall street.

Having disposed of most of his belongings, he made his way to the American consulate for a visa. Here his day dream came to an end, for no visa was forthcoming.

Sadly he wandered through the streets of Warsaw, hardly knowing what to do next. Suddenly he heard a great commotion, and a large procession of automobiles surrounded by Polish cavalry approached. The cars were full of officers in sparkling uniforms. Mendel was startled.

Turns to Afghanistan.

"May I ask what kind of general staff this is?" he asked of a traffic policeman. "Is it an American relief party to feed the starving children of Georgia?"

"You watch your step," answered the policeman. "That's no American relief committee. That is the king of Afghanistan."

"So there is another country in the world as powerful as America if so much gold can be used for uniforms," thought Mendel, and perhaps no visa is necessary. No visa was necessary, he discovered, so bidding farewell to his wife, Golda, Mendal departed that night for Kabul.

As he had no reasons to stop en route, he arrived much more quickly than did King Amanullah and was soon in the thick of new financial operations, discounting bills among the local traders by the dozens. This proved a great thrill to the business men of the capital, who were not used to this particular method of financial transaction, so Mendel prospered.

Before many weeks had passed revolution broke out. This gave Mendel Nuchimson his big chance. Habibullah had discounted some bills at Nuchimson's establishment a little previously. Instead of paying, he appointed Mendel his financial advisor, conferring on him the little of "mirza."

During the occupation of Kabul by the revolting armies Mirza Nuchimson took over the duties of minister of finance and became convinced that Afghanistan is, perhaps, after all, an even more profitable country than America, particularly when several people are trying to grab the throne.

But Mendel thinks a wife is too big a responsibility for a minister of finance. Thursday the chief rabbi of Warsaw received a letter signed by "Mirza-Nuchimson-Effendi." In this letter the ex-discounter of bills informed his wife of his decision to divorce her. As a balm to her possible injured feelings he enclosed a certified check for $1,000.

Decides to Fight.

That good lady, however, was not going to lose the chance of having a minister of finance for a husband, to say nothing of a servant or two and a banner fixed to the front of the house.

She decided to fight the case and a special delegate left Warsaw for Kabul to persuade the mighty "mirza" that as minister of finance he should uphold the traditions of such a high office, act like a little gentleman, and share his good fortune with his good and patient wife.

BOY, 11, BITTEN BY DOG.

John Spahn, 11 years old, 1508 North Springfield avenue, was bitten on the left leg yesterday by a dog owned by Oswood Swanson, 1515 North Springfield avenue. The Austin police said they would send the dog to the pound for observation for signs of rabies.

HOUSE TO SIFT 'CIGARET TESTS' AT MICHIGAN U.

Resents Use of Students in Advertising Scheme.

Lansing, Mich., March 29.—[Special.]—"Blindfold tests" of cigarets at the University of Michigan raised a rumpus today in the lower house of the assembly, which adopted a resolution providing for a legislative investigation.

Charges laid before the legislators were that a large cigaret corporation had sent cartons of cigarets to the students, both girls and boys, with the request that they make "blindfold tests," used extensively in national advertising of the concern. Some of the students receiving the cigarets were under 17 years of age, it is claimed. Most of the students coöperated in the experiment, the legislators were informed, and the results of the tests were announced at length in the Michigan Daily, university newspaper.

The resolution authorizing the investigation was presented by Representative John W. Bailey of Grand Rapids, and an investigating committee was appointed made up of Representatives Bailey, James Frey of Battle Creek, and Claude W. Coates, Munising. Gov. Green is said to be heartily in accord with the purpose of the investigation and has strongly condemned use of the university as a medium for experimentation by national advertisers.

MEXICANS STORM WALLED TOWN; 24 REBELS KILLED

Open Campaign Against "Cristero" Bands.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MEXICO CITY, March 29.—Government forces have begun an active campaign against the rebels in the states of San Luis Potosi, Jalisco, and Guanajuato, where they have again become active.

Gen. Cortes Ortiz fought a prolonged fight with 500 rebels, commanded by the Cristero leader, Carlos Bouquet, at Atemajac, in the state of Jalisco. The rebels were massed behind the walls of the town and on the flat roofs of houses, and fought until driven out, leaving twenty-four dead. For two hours federal cavalry pursued the fleeing rebels and killed and wounded several.

Cristero prisoners taken at Sayula two days ago said their leaders assured them they would win the war, as the pope had sent to Mexico 100,000 Italian soldiers.

General Wounded in Battle.

Gen. Rivas and his cavalry fought a prolonged battle with the rebels at Puerto Nieto. The rebels retreated to the hills. Gen. Rivas was shot through the legs.

Augustin Arroyo, governor of Guanajuato, at the head of state troops, has fought several battles in the last two weeks with small bands of rebels. At Cerro Blanco yesterday he defeated the rebel guerrilla leader, José Padron, who has been active in Guanajuato and neighboring states for two years. Padron left behind dead and wounded, saddle horses, and quantities of dynamite, with which he had been destroying bridges and railway tracks.

Federal troops under Gen. Espiridion Rodriguez arrived at San Miguel Allende to fight the rebels in San Luis Potosi and Guanajuato, while Deputy Gonzalo S. Santos entered San Luis de la Paz with 400 armed peasants from the Huasteca district to fight the rebels who have lately been active thereabouts.

THE PUSH NORTH

Mexican federal troops, having taken Escalon, after a five day drive across the desert, are now preparing for a new push north. The rebels are reported to have finished the evacuation of Jimenez and their vanguard has reached Santa Rosalia.

300 Fall Into Trap.

MEXICO CITY, March 29.—(AP)—A federal detachment has entered Chihuahua City, but in complete ignorance that it is a rebel stronghold toward which the main federal army has been slowly advancing for weeks. Gen. Armenta, according to word received here, has fallen into the trap set for him by rebel Gov. Caraveo, and is supposed to have been forced to surrender his 300 followers.

Armenta had led this band on a long and arduous march over the mountains from Sonora to escape the superior forces of the rebel general, Manzo. Not knowing that Gov. Caraveo had joined the rebel cause, he asked for help and means were sent to him to proceed to Chihuahua City and to his capture.

Claims Rebels Lost 100 Killed.

A government communique tonight said special agents at Nogales had learned that the rebels lost 100 killed and more than 300 wounded in their unsuccessful siege of Mazatlan. Gen Roberto Cruz, one of three ranking rebel leaders in the Pacific campaign. was wounded in the arm.

The communique said that the Pacific rebel army had less than 100 rounds of ammunition per soldier. Quarrels among the rebel leaders were said to have become intensified and the authority of Gen. Francisco R. Manzo over Gen. Cruz and Gen. Ramon Iturbe was now "an illusion."

Rebel Plane Flees to Safety.

NACO, Sonora, March 29.—(AP)—A former airplane in which G. K. ["Buzz"] Morrison, American aviator, was forced down and captured by the rebels near Cananea, Sonora, today appeared over this federal encampment, distributing pamphlets signed by Gov. Fausto Topete, revolutionary leader, which warned all citizens to leave the town immediately.

The pilot's flight over the city was cut short, however, when federal airplanes suddenly appeared and attempted to close in on the rebel aviator He escaped toward the rebel sector.

KIND WORDS FAIL TO BANISH SALTIS' BEER RAID WOES

For probably the first time in his life Joe Saltis was publicly commended by a public official yesterday. United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker praised Saltis for "discretion and circumspection" in not shooting two prohibition agents who attempted to gain entrance to his private garage on Feb. 20.

Although the commissioner said these kind words he held Saltis to the grand jury in bonds of $1,000 on charges of possessing nineteen cases of beer which the agents found in the garage in the rear of the Saltis home at 5654 South Albany avenue.

According to Shea's testimony, the agents, John F. Loeffler and Fred Hoyland, were first seen prowling around the garage. Shea called Saltis, who appeared and drew a gun, demanding to know what was wanted. The agents revealed their identity. Saltis then displayed his "discretion and circumspection" and sent for the key.

Telegrapher Fears Machine Will Oust Him; Kills Self

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—Because he was despondent over the prospect of losing his job as a telegraph operator in a brokerage house owing to the introduction of printing telegraph machines, Joseph E. Clements turned on the gas and committed suicide in his apartment in Brooklyn.

VICTORY CROWNS 5 DAY MARCH IN MEXICAN DESERT

said before he retired that he could not rest while bringing his men across the more than 100 miles of desert which it once took Gen. Victoriano Huerta two months to traverse with a similar army. The general feels that his greatest battle is won now and he is happy.

Jimenez is 46 miles up the railroad to the northwest and Chihuahua City is 150 miles from there, but the worst march is over and the rest is a different country. There is very little more desert and plenty of water between here and Chihuahua City and Juarez.

Report Rebels Out of Jimenez.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, March 29.—Aviators report that all of Gen. Escobar's forces have left Jimenez and the vanguard has reached Santa Rosalia. Federal aviators continued to bombard the retreating rebels.

Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles reported to Chapultepec castle today the presence of a considerable body of rebel cavalry north of Escalon under the command of Gen. Luis Gutierrez, evidently guarding the rear of the rebel retreat.

Reports Rebels Plan Stand.

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, March 29.—(AP)—Apparently determined to make a stand for a decisive struggle, with control of the insurgent stronghold at Jimenez at stake, revolutionary forces were entrenched near the city today while rebel airmen and small detachments of cavalry maneuvered to impede the advance of the steadily approaching war machine of Gen. Calles.

Two rebel bombing planes sallied from Jiminez early today and dropped their explosives over the federal camps in the desert south of Jimenez. No report was received from the airmen as to what damage they had caused.

The rebel army, which has been reinforced by large detachments of volunteers from cities of northern Chihuahua, was further augmented today by a body of troops under Gen. Marcelo Caraveo, governor of Chihuahua.

TWO BELLBOYS ARRAIGNED ON BOOZE CHARGES

Two Congress hotel bellboys, involved in recent charges that liquor was sold by hotel employés, were arraigned and gave testimony yesterday before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. After part of the defense had been heard the hearing was continued to April 2.

John Burke, vice president of the hotel company, yesterday denied reports that a whisky cutting plant was located in the basement of the hotel. He stated the basement was already crowded and that it would have been impossible for the defendants, Henry T. Reilly and William Jones, bell captain, to have operated any sort of plant in the limited space.

Assistant United States District Attorney Edward A. Fisher continued his investigation of the case, but has been unable to find five other bellboys who are wanted.

GIRL FALLS OFF ROOF TRYING TO DODGE RAIDERS

Mrs. Bernice McInerney, 20 years old, 2236 Campbell Park, a telephone operator, was probably fatally injured when she plunged to the ground from the roof of a three story building at 307 South Loomis street while attempting to escape from a police raid on the place last night.

The raid was made by Des Plaines street police after complaints had been received that a rowdy party was in progress at the address. As the raiding squad entered the woman scrambled up a flight of stairs to the roof and started to run over the roof tops. In the ensuing chase the girl stumbled as she tried to jump an intervening space between two buildings and fell to the street. She sustained a broken leg and a skull fracture. At the county hospital it was said she may die.

Three women and five men were taken into custody at the address. The women were scantily clad, police said.

ASSESSORS GET PROTESTS; BEGIN REVISING VALUES

Some Too Low, Others Too High, Cutmore Says.

Harry S. Cutmore, director of the county reassessment, yesterday announced that staff workers have started revision of the unit foot values on the basis of complaints received as a result of the public meetings. More than 5,000 complaints have reached the office since the first meeting was held in Rogers Park.

The majority of the complaints object to the extravagance of local governments, Director Cutmore said. Others protest against 1927 or 1928 taxes. However, approximately 20 per cent of the letters received refer to the present revaluation and are turned over to workers for rechecking purposes.

Total Values Not Affected.

"We have found in many instances that the appraisers have been too conservative in their estimates," Director Cutmore said. "In such cases the unit foot values were raised. In other instances the values were reduced on legitimate complaints. On the whole, the complaints will balance as to increases and reductions and will not materially affect the total value of assessable land."

Three blocks on Sheridan road north of Devon avenue were raised from $620 to $1,200 when investigation revealed that unit front foot values had been placed too low. An area east of Clark street in the vicinity of Greenleaf, Lunt, Morse, Sheridan, and Pratt avenues, was raised from $230 to $325. Values on Howard street west of Clark street were put up from $425 to $500, and on Paulina street from $750 to $1,000.

Ashland Section Reduced.

Reductions were made on Ashland avenue for a half mile north of Devon avenue, from $215 to $150, and on Rogers avenue west of Sherwin avenue from $665 to $450.

A community mass meeting was held last night in the Eberhart school, [illegible] West 65th place. Another is scheduled for tonight in the Gallistel school, 10347 Ewing avenue, for the territory from the lake at 79th street, west to Stony Island avenue, south on Stony Island avenue, Lake Calumet and Ellis avenue to the city limits at 138th street, and east to the Indiana state line.

INSIST DRY OHIO CONGRESSMAN'S GRIP HELD RUM

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—John McCabe and L. E. Crawford, customs inspectors who searched the hand baggage of Representative William M. Morgan of Ohio when that statesman arrived here last Monday from the Canal Zone aboard the steamer Cristobal, informed their superior officers today that Representative Morgan had four bottles of whisky in one of his bags—the only one they searched.

They first confiscated the whisky, they added, and then restored it to Mr. Morgan after they had had a telephone talk with an official at the custom house. Who the higher-up was that advised them to give the whisky back they would not say.

Evidently the hot denial of Representative Morgan in Washington a few days ago, that he had had any intoxicating liquor in his baggage, and his indignant assertion that he was a dry congressman who had no trafficking with the rum evil, stirred the customs men.

Around the federal building there was a story that a congressional investigating of the episode would be demanded.

Fails to Deliver Purple Vests at N. U.; In Court

H. W. Eckwall, salesman for a firm of tailors, who failed to deliver a number of purple vests ordered and paid for by students of Northwestern university, was arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Charles G. Franklin in Evanston charged with obtaining money under false pretenses. The case was continued ten days when the defendant assured the court he could make delivery within that time. According to the complaint, Eckwall contracted with 22 members of the student body for purple vests, cash down, and disappeared after delivering only three.

OPPONENTS ASK CHICAGO DUMP SEWAGE IN LAKE

Water Hearings End; On Again April 15.

The direct demand that Chicago must dump its sewage into the same basin from which its drinking water is drawn was made before Charles Evans Hughes yesterday by Raymond T. Jackson of Wisconsin, chief counsel for the six states allied in the suit against the sanitary district of Chicago.

Edmund D. Adcock and George F. Barrett, leading the Chicago lawyers, forced Mr. Jackson to that positive assertion yesterday at the close of the Chicago hearings conducted by Mr. Hughes as a special master in chancery appointed by the Supreme court to determine in what manner the drainage diversion may be reduced by the building of sewage disposal plants.

The hearings will be resumed in Washington, D. C., on Monday, April 15, when the opponents to the suit will present their claims.

Want Diversion Stopped.

In an effort to determine what these claims will be, Mr. Adcock and Mr. Barrett asked Attorney Jackson to indicate the nature of what he expects to prove. After some argument Mr. Jackson finally said:

"We shall ask that the entire diversion be shut off."

"Do you mean to say that you will ask that the effluent from the sewage treatment plants, and the storm flows from the street sewers, shall be placed in Lake Michigan?" asked Cornelius Lynde, special counsel appointed by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

"That is our position," Mr. Jackson replied.

The sanitary district lawyers, who said they had not supposed that Chicago's neighboring states would countenance such an inhuman demand, declared that if the Supreme court upheld such an interpretation of the law, and it was carried out, Chicago would suffer tremendous losses.

Drinking water would be fouled with the countless bacteria of water borne diseases which sewage treatment can only partially remove, the lawyers declared. Strong chlorine doses, with their sickening, obnoxious tastes, would be necessary to kill the bacteria. Beaches would be strewn with the scum and refuse washed off the city streets into storm sewers. This storm flow cannot be put through the sewage plants at all, both sides agreed. A load of pollution would be gathered in the inert southern end of Lake Michigan to endanger the entire region from Waukegan to Michigan City, the lawyers said.

They said that it was inconceivable that the Supreme court could impose such a burden upon any community, but even if it does, congress is expected to act upon the Mississippi waterway, which requires that the diversion be continued, before the court order could be made effective.

After the hearing Mr. Jackson was asked if he really meant that Chicago should be forced to "drink its own sewage."

"Why," he said, laughing, "you are drinking the sewage from the ships in the lake now, aren't you?"

Mr. Jackson told Master Hughes that while the complainant states would press their demand that the entire diversion be shut off, they would also present engineering evidence to prove that the estimates of time and expense necessary to carry out the sanitary district's program were grossly excessive. Mr. Jackson would not state how many years he would offer as the proper time, but he has indicated the work should be done within five or six years.

Estimate Construction Cost.

Sanitary engineers have testified the cost of the sewage disposal plants, which are planned to treat all of the city's sewage, will be $176,000,000. If the diversion is ceased, filter plants must be added to this cost, and new water tunnels and intakes must be built. These, it is estimated in previous testimony before the court, will cost, depending upon the nature of the water tunnel changes, between $70,000,000, the cost of the filter plants alone, and $140,000,000.

Thus the total cost of treating both sewage and drinking water will go beyond a quarter billion dollars, and the sanitary lawyers expressed dismay at the thought of complying with such a gigantic program in a few years.

Two Workmen Drowned in Rock River Flood

Dixon, Ill., March 29.—[Special.]—John Pearson, 44 years old, and Nicholas Arnstroff, 45 years old, workmen employed by the Wedell Construction company of Mankato, Minn., were drowned when attempting to place a wire cable across Rock river flood waters today. Pearson, Arnstroff, and Fred House were in a rowboat which turned over. House caught on to a wire and was rescued.

NINE MORE CANAL EMPLOYES DROPPED; OTHERS' PAY CUT

Nine more sanitary district employés felt the weight of the district's retrenchment program yesterday when they were dropped from the pay rolls at a meeting of the board of trustees. As a further economy measure, the salaries of twenty-two clerical employés were reduced.

The workers whose services were dispensed with included eight clerks and one policeman.

Among the employés whose salaries were reduced was John D. Hayes, assistant chief clerk and Democratic ward committeeman in the Forty-ninth ward. He was cut from $500 to $400 a month. Twenty-one stenographers in the engineering and permanent plants and structures department previously paid from $175 to $225 a month, were given a uniform salary rate of $180. The new standard rate it to be put into effect throughout the entire clerical department.

Insurance on drainage board property, with the exception of those policies which carry public liability clauses, will be carried by the district itself when the policies now in effect expire, according to an order adopted at the meeting.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR BIG AUTO BONFIRE TONIGHT

Plans were completed last evening for the huge bonfire of wornout automobiles with which the Chicago Automobile Trade association will mark the opening of "used car week" in Chicago. The fire is to be set at 8 o'clock p. m. today on the north island at the lake front near 18th street. Provision has been made to accommodate 50,000 spectators at the east of Grant park, where cars may be parked, but the outer drive will be shut off to through traffic about 7 o'clock.

There will be a display of fireworks previous to the spectacle, which will be inaugurated by a bombing plane that is to drop incendiary missiles. The bonfire will be built of between 200 and 300 cars which have been donated by association members to illustrate the wisdom of destroying automobiles which have become dangerous to rapid motor traffic.

The world's greatest beauty specialists say

Efficient but gentle cleansing of the skin at home is an absolute requirement of success in our work. We have decided that the simplest method is by far the best of all. That is the consistent, thorough, use of Palmolive Soap, which combines deep cleansing with the well-known cosmetic effects of palm and olive oils.

E. Dralle

In addition to my own beauty products, I always recommend that my fashionable clients use Palmolive Soap.

Lina Cavalieri
PARIS

I urge my clients to use no soap other than Palmolive, which provides absolute skin cleanliness, the foundation of beauty and at the same time avoid all the harsh effects of soaps not made exclusively of these oils.

Bertha Jacobson
LONDON

I earnestly recommend that my clients use only Palmolive Soap. If they comply with my wishes I then know that the good effects of the treatment they get in my salon are not offset by the ill effects of soap not specially made to retain the bloom of a good complexion.

No amount of expert beauty treatments can overcome the bad results of improper home cleansing. We, therefore, advise all our clients to use a home beauty method which involves Palmolive Soap. It provides that type of cleansing which is the very foundation of beauty.

The world's outstanding authorities tell why they urge one soap and one alone to retain exquisite complexions. Treatments they have patrons follow at home.

THIS is probably the most remarkable advertisement you have ever read concerning beauty and how to foster it. On this page is given the professional advice of the outstanding beauty specialists of Europe.* Authorities of such prominence that their clients, who come from every corner of the world, include royalty, aristocracy and those women whose enviable position in social and stage circles rests largely on their beauty. Their statements should be read by every American woman.

This advice represents the deliberate judgment and recommendation of beauty authorities who, in their own country, enjoy the same professional standing in questions of beauty culture as do the great physicians in matters of health. Their measured words embodied in signed statements tell you the best way experience has taught them to safeguard the complexion.

All Agree on Choice of Soap

As you read, notice how all agree on the necessary use of soap for thorough cleansing. This means that while they recommend their own exquisite creams for certain uses innumerable experiments have taught them no other cleansing agent can take the place of palm and olive oils in soap.

Note, too, that each corroborates emphatically the opinion of the celebrated Vincent of Paris when he says, "We urge patrons to wash their face with one soap and one soap only—that of palm and olive oils, Palmolive." This means the greatest beauty authorities in Europe today go on record as urging the use of Palmolive Soap above any other known for the complexion.

Throughout America, Too

In every city of any importance in America, too, the foremost beauty specialists repeat the words of their European contemporaries . . . such eminent figures as Huldah and Carter in Chicago, Pierre in New York, Rudolph in Detroit, Mrs. McGavran in Kansas City, Hepner in Los Angeles, Russo in Boston, Bookhammer in Atlanta, and literally hundreds upon hundreds of others equally as prominent. And in Hollywood, home of lovely stars of the cinema, every leading beauty shop urges only one complexion soap—Palmolive.

These recommendations explain the tremendous world-wide popularity of Palmolive and tell why it's the largest selling toilet soap, not only in the United States, but in 48 other countries. Ask your own beauty shop, read the statements on this page, begin the world famous Palmolive beauty treatment in your own home today—quite inexpensively. Palmolive by the cake costs but 10c.

I urge all my clients to use what I call "foundation cleansing", that is the daily elimination of all pore-clogging dust, powder, rouge, etc.,—by one means and one means only—the use of Palmolive Soap.

CONGRESS ABLE TO END KILLINGS BY MERE FROWN

Drys Do Not Dare Flout Money Dispensers.

war with Britain. But did the coast guard reform? It did not. It had only been admonished by a mere secretary of state. It was still in good standing with congress and knew it.

The condonement of prohibition murders by the prohibitionists leads to the further question: "To what extent are the drys responsible for the increasing callousness to homicide in general and other crimes of violence?" There has been a tremendous increase in homicides in the Volstead era. In the large cities alone the homicide rate is now 10.1 per 1,000 population, compared with 3.5 before the advent of prohibition.

The highest homicide rates are in the southern states which constitute the political stronghold of Volsteadism. The high murder rate in the south is accounted for partly by the presence of a large Negro population and partly by the reign of violence fostered by the Ku Klux Klan, which comprises the shock troops of the prohibition forces. Crime statistics disclose that the homicide rate for the entire registration area jumped from 55 per 1,000,000 in 1910 to 87 in 1927 because in the meantime there had been added to the registration area a number of southern states.

Two Names for One Gang.

In the south the membership of the Ku Klux Klan virtually duplicates the membership of the Anti-Saloon league. The klan is composed of the same Protestant churchmen who are the backbone of the league. The klan is largely officered by Protestant preachers, elders and deacons who are also prominent in the work of the league. Such prosecutions of the klan in Alabama and other southern states as there have been have revealed these preachers, elders and deacons, and other professional drys as the ringleaders in the shootings, whippings and other outrages perpetrated by the masked order of organized lawlessness.

Many of its atrocities the klan commits in the name of unofficial enforcement of the Volstead act. The local klansmen hear of a person toting a flask, for example, and forthwith don their night shirts and pillow cases, drag forth their victim and whip, tar, shoot or otherwise maltreat him. And no word of protest against such lawlessness emanates from the ranks of the Anti-Saloon league zealots who are so greatly exercised over the lawlessness of the prohibition scofflaws. In their sight the klan is a hallowed institution.

"They Do Some Good."

"Do you approve of these whippings?" one of Bishop Cannon's assistants in the prohibition department of the southern Methodist church was asked.

"Of course I don't approve of them," he replied, "but I reckon they do some good."

The lynching of Negroes in the south continues without stirring the dry zealots to any warmth of protest against this particularly revolting form of lawlessness. The reason is as plain as a pikestaff. If the moralists who preach the heinousness of sinning against Saint Volstead were to rise up against lynchings they would be taking arms against their own brethren in church and klan who plot and carry out these terrible mob murders.

There never has been a time that an antilynching bill could not have been put through congress by the same forces that drive through prohibition and other legislation decreed by the church lobby. The Dyer antilynching bill was passed by the house in the 67th congress, but beaten in the senate by a filibuster on the part of southern senators, all of whom, with the exception of Oscar Underwood of Alabama, were accustomed to dance when the Anti-Saloon league called the tune.

There were 11 lynchings in 1928. The record follows:

| Name, date, and state— | Manner of lynching. |
|---|---|
| "Buddy" Evins, May 21, Texas | Hanged |
| Ocie Wilson, May 30, Missouri | Hanged |
| Leo Blackman, June 2, Louisiana | Shot |
| Dave Blackman, June 2, Louisiana | Shot |
| Robert Powell, June 20, Texas | Hanged |
| James Bearden, June 29, Miss. | Hanged |
| Stanley Bearden, June 29, Miss. | Hanged |
| "Slug" McKillee, July 2, Miss. | Hanged |
| Rafael Benavides, Nov. 16, N. Mex. | Hanged |
| Emanuel McCallum, Dec. 26, Miss. | Unknown |
| Charley Shepherd, Dec. 31, Miss. | Burned |

Actions Belie Words.

According to the admittedly incomplete records of the prohibition bureau, which are compiled largely from newspaper accounts or unofficial reports, federal dry agents have shot and killed at least 144 persons. In addition to the 40 lives sacrificed in the S-4 disaster, coast guardsmen have killed 11 persons since they were pressed into service as Volstead enforcers.

Periodically, when the country has been aroused by some new instance of brutality, high officials have disavowed the "shoot to kill" enforcement policy and have issued warnings to agents against the promiscuous use of firearms or the use of unduly harsh methods in dealing with suspected violators.

Federal Courts Used.

At the same time, these same officials have used every influence at their command to shield killers from punishment. Available records indicate that no agent who could produce any sort of plausible evidence that he killed in "line of duty" or "in self-defense," has been dismissed from the service.

Federal district attorneys have persuaded federal judges to issue writs of habeas corpus snatching the slayers from the jurisdiction of state courts and transferring the charges for trial to the federal courts, where, in many instances, the cases have been nol-prossed or indefinitely postponed. The result of this system is that since prohibition became effective only five agents accused of murder or manslaughter have been convicted.

JAIL PHILADELPHIAN IN SOUTH AS KIDNAPER OF INVALID GIRL, 12

Charlotte, N. C., March 29.—(AP)—Curtis S. Devonshire, Philadelphia salesman, was being held in jail tonight awaiting the arrival of officers from the Pennsylvania city to return him there to face charges of kidnaping Alice Labutis, 12.

Devonshire and the girl were arrested here this morning by detectives after Philadelphia police had notified Charlotte authorities that Devonshire had wired from here last night asking that he be sent $50.

The child told of being asked Wednesday by Devonshire to help him locate persons who formerly had lived next to her home on South 60th street in Philadelphia. She said she got into his car and found he had been drinking. They rode a day and a night, sleeping a part of Wednesday night in the automobile parked by the highway. Last night the pair reached Charlotte and after telegraphing for funds Devonshire drove outside the city limits and the two again slept in the car.

Alice said she had been well treated. Devonshire told officers he had been drinking and did not know what he was doing when he picked up the child, and that when he realized what he had done he decided to go on to Jacksonville, Fla., as he was afraid to take Alice home. He said he had decided to send her home by train and stopped to wire for money with that purpose in view.

The girl is an invalid, having swallowed lye when a child which caused an illness for which she still receives treatment. Her parents reside in Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

CLOWNS, TIGERS, ACTS—SURE, THE CIRCUS IS HERE

And It's Bigger, Better than Ever, We're Told.

The circus is here.

All the glitter and glamour, all the spangle and sheen and the kaleidoscope of color that is the atmosphere of the tented city came back to Chicago last night, as the Sells-Floto shows staged their final dress rehearsal at the Coliseum, to the delight of the crowd invited and the justification of the press agents.

From the preliminary blare of trumpets and ruffle of drums, to the thunder of hoofs in the races that traditionally close the spectacle, the performance was literally bigger and better than ever before.

More Sensational Than Ever.

Bigger, because it counted among its attractions the largest and most sensational acts it has yet presented. Better, because a number of the feats performed kept the audience alternately chilled and fevered with apprehension, and entranced with the marvels going on beneath the battery of spotlights.

All of the crowd was "up in the air" with the Nies troupe when that quartet, lately arrived in this country, jiggled and danced and balanced precariously on a tight wire more than forty feet above ground and with no net beneath. The Flying Wardes, trapeze artists, are back in force, and Poodles Hannaford, the riding clown, has returned from Hollywood, where he has been in films, to appear with the riding Hannaford family.

New favorites comprise Cliff Aeros, a human cannonball, who permits himself to be shot from a huge cannon into a net some distance away, and Mabel Pelky, a Chicago girl, who hangs by one arm near the top of the tent and somersaults herself into exhaustion and the crowd into dizziness.

The Lady and the Tiger.

Mabel Stark, called by one newspaper writer "the bravest woman in the world," proved it by wrestling with the "Rajah of Snarls," a Royal Bengal tiger, that clawed her almost to death last season. She came out of it without even mussing her hair.

At the same time the 101 Ranch Wild West circus was going through its initial paces in the new Chicago Stadium, where it will hold forth for its Chicago engagement. Bucking broncs, cowboys and cowgirls and trick riding and lariat throwing interested the crowd in attendance.

Fraternity Picks Chicago for Its 83d Convention

BROKER MISSING 5 YEARS CAUGHT AT SAN ANTONIO

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—George R. Christian, who has been missing since 1924, when his alleged defalcation as a partner forced the stock brokerage firm of Day & Heaton to suspend with liabilities of $2,400,000, is under arrest in San Antonio, Tex., according to an announcement today by Ervin J. Smith, head of a detective agency.

Christian, he said, was charged with misuse of the mails, a charge preferred by his brother, Louis Christian, of Maplewood, N. J., with whom he had quarreled. Smith said the accused man, who is under indictment in Newark, N. J., would be brought back to Essex county within a few days.

When Christian dropped out of sight five years ago his partners in the Day & Heaton firm notified the stock exchange that he had disappeared and that $2,000,000 of securities, the firm's property or owned by customers, also had disappeared.

we helped chicago grow and grew with it

There are very few people in Chicago to-day who were living here when Lyman Baird opened his first real estate office in the sprawling young town of Chicago in 1855.

This courageous pioneer not only had a vision of a greater Chicago, but by his endeavors helped it grow—and grew with it. Trained in the same school of progressive and constructive enterprise the son, the late Wyllys W. Baird, carried on the founder's ideas, constantly adding to our efficient personnel, as the needs of the community became greater, till now, under the direction of the grandson, Warner Baird, the firm of Baird & Warner has attained a virile dominance and a public confidence in the real estate business which no other equals.

Faith in the city and its people, and their responding faith in Baird & Warner—each helped the other, and together grew.

baird & warner

In the matter of mortgage loans there is something to be considered beside the loan itself. The long and successful experience that Baird & Warner have had in this department of real estate enterprise, and the enviable reputation they have achieved in it, is something to consider when buying or selling a mortgage. Behind the mortgage itself, the house that is responsible for it is a very vital factor to both buyer and seller. And no firm in the mortgage loan business has a higher reputation than Baird & Warner, or a record of greater success and satisfaction.

In the event of placing or buying a mortgage, if it is more convenient, any of the branch offices can serve you as efficiently as the main office.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, March 29.—The Spanish aviators, Capts. Francisco Jiminiez and Ignacio Iglesias, who completed a nonstop flight from Seville, Spain, to Bahia, Brazil, on Tuesday, and then hopped the remaining 800 miles to here yesterday, today received cables of congratulations from Col. Lindbergh and King Alfonso of Spain. Many other messages were received from Spain and other countries. The flyers plan to leave here next Thursday for Buenos Aires.

Berisso Leaves Lima.

LIMA, Peru, March 29. — (AP) — Cesareo Berisso, Uruguayan aviator, who is on a good will flight which he hopes will eventually carry him to New York, left Lima this morning for Payta, northern Peru.

AVIATION NOTES

The Question Mark, army plane which last month established a new record for continuous flight, arrived at the Municipal airport yesterday afternoon from Mitchel Field, L. I., carrying Congressman W. Frank James, chairman of the house committee on military affairs, on an inspection tour of army corps areas. The ship, which was piloted by Capt. H. A. Dinger, will be housed at the army hangars at the airport until Congressman James completes his inspection of the Sixth corps area on Sunday. From Chicago the Question Mark will carry the congressman to San Antonio.

The Quiet Birdmen, secret society for flyers, will stage a supper dance at the Hayes Hotel North this evening. Prospective members of the society and stage stars from loop theaters will be guests of the party, which marks the first occasion on which ladies have been admitted to the local chapter's functions.

Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commandant of the sixth corps area, will speak at the April meeting of the Air Corps Officers' association at the Press club, 71 West Monroe street, next Monday evening.

Daniel M. Sheaffer, chief of passenger transportation for the Pennsylvania railroad, yesterday announced that his company has completed the air marking of stations and other large structures in thirty-six cities and villages along its lines. The markings include the name of the town in large letters and an arrow pointing to the nearest landing field. The project was undertaken at the suggestion of the department of commerce.

A merger of the International Airways, Inc., and the Potomac Flying service under the name of Atlantic Seaboard Airways, Inc., was announced yesterday by officials of the companies. The company will take over Hoover field at Washington as its headquarters, with a possibility that other important companies and airports on the Atlantic seaboard may be acquired later.

A large box of Easter lilies, the gift of the Outdoor Easter Services committee of Hollywood, Cal., to President and Mrs. Hoover, arrived in Chicago yesterday over the Boeing Air Transport lines. They were transferred to a National Air Transport mail plane for delivery to the capital today.

The Detroit and Cleveland Navigation company, operating passenger vessels on the Great Lakes, has placed an order for three four-motored Super-Wal hydroplanes with the Dornier works at Fredrichshafen, Germany. The planes are to be used in the establishment of air passenger lines to supplant the company's shipping lines. The three hydroplanes will be the first German planes to be used in regular air traffic in the United States.

POLICE HUNT CLEWS TO BASEMENT MURDER IN ELMWOOD PARK

Working on the theory that he was either shot by relatives of his wife or by a former fellow workman, Elmwood Park police yesterday were making an investigation into the murder of Settimio Conti, 45 years old, who was found shot to death in the basement of his home at 2330 74th avenue, Elmwood Park, early yesterday.

Contrary to an earlier theory of the shooting, police announced that they believed the slayer or slayers had used both of the revolvers found on the floor. The previous theory was that Conti took part in a pistol duel with another man, but upon examination of the body, a coroner's physician announced that he had been shot four times. The bullets taken from the body corresponded to the bullets found in the two guns.

According to Mrs. Conti, her husband went to the basement while she was preparing breakfast. A short time later she said she heard a knock on the basement door.

"Mr. Conti?" a man asked. A moment later the shots were fired. She rushed to the basement and saw her husband collapse to the floor.

FALL DOWN STAIRS IS FATAL.

Mrs. Frieda Peterson, 53 years old, 3716 North Clark street, died yesterday at her home of injuries sustained in a fall down a flight of stairs several days ago.

JURY DEADLOCK IN ATTACK CASE AROUSES JUDGE

Says 'Horse Sense' Would Dictate Verdict.

The last jury to sit in the old Criminal Courts building, originally named the Temple of Justice, listened to a lecture last night from Chief Justice John J. Sullivan on the subject of jurors failing to do their part in the enforcement of the criminal laws. The judge told the jurors that if they had used "common ordinary horse sense" they could not have failed to agree on a verdict of guilty or insane in the case of John Hudson, 24 years old, who was on trial charged with attempting to attack a 60 year old woman.

Because a witness wished to leave the city the trial was held in the old building, although the courts are now being moved to the new structure at 26th street and California avenue. The jury deliberated practically all day without arriving at a verdict. The members were reported to have stood 10 to 2 most of the time for a verdict of guilty, but one juror was said to have refused to recede from his position of not guilty, although his colleague had signified that he would be willing to do so in order to arrive at a verdict.

Jury Deadlocked; Dismissed.

At 7 o'clock last night the jurors reported themselves hopelessly deadlocked without any chance of a verdict. The judge discharged them.

The evidence in the case showed that Hudson followed his intended victim as she alighted from a Lake street elevated train. The woman, a proofreader, was on her way home from work at 2:30 o'clock in the morning of Sept. 28, 1928. Hudson pushed her into a vacant lot and attempted to attack her, according to the testimony.

Judge Takes Jury to Task.

"I cannot for the life of me see how men using ordinary horse sense could fail to agree on a verdict in this case," said Judge Sullivan. "There was no dispute on the facts, the defendant practically admitting his guilt. The only defense was that of insanity and you men should either have found him guilty or insane and sent him to an asylum.

"If jurors will not perform their duty in cases where the evidence is plain, why should the policemen risk their lives to arrest criminals? Without the aid of jurors the courts and police are helpless."

1,341 PRISONERS MOVED TO NEW JAIL; NO MISHAPS

But Sirens Keep Loop Workers Jumping.

The 1,341 prisoners held for trial on offenses ranging from murder down to disorderly conduct, were transported yesterday from the old jail at Austin avenue and Dearborn street to the new $7,500,000 jail and Criminal court building at 26th street and California avenue. There was not one mishap, according to the report of Warden Edward J. Fogarty last night to Sheriff John E. Traeger.

The removal, however, was not accomplished without interrupting the general public on its way to work. Throughout the early morning hours, when many citizens were on their way to business, police sirens screeched as the way was cleared of traffic for the 10 motor buses in which the prisoners were removed—39 to the load.

Prisoners Enjoy Trip.

The worker was usually greeted as he entered the loop district by the sound of a police siren. Jumping back on the sidewalk to see what celebrity was passing, he glimpsed the smiling faces of the unshaven and unkempt prisoners, who seemed pleased by the confusion they were causing.

Seven motorcycle policemen and one police squad car were assigned to each busload of prisoners. Five of the motorcycle men rode in front, clearing the way of traffic. On either side of the bus rode another motorcycle man, while the squad car brought up the rear. The prisoners were moved across the city at the rate of about fifty miles per hour.

Five Hundred Cops Guard Route.

More than 500 policemen were scattered along the route taken by the buses and another fifty policemen were held in reserve at the Warren Avenue station for any possible emergency. Both the old and new jails were guarded by policemen and the members of the county highway police department, under the leadership of Chief William Collins.

The prisoners were ordered from their cells promptly at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning by Warden Edward yesterday morning by Warden Fogarty. The so-called tough customers, such as Jack McGurn, held for the Moran massacre affair; Virgil Litzinger, Dave Shanks, and Charles Woodward, were handcuffed together and ordered out in the first load.

By 12:30 o'clock the old jail, which has been in existence since 1872, was definitely cleaned out and the prisoners safely housed in their new home.

CONVICT SLAYER OF COACH.

Corvallis, Ore., March 29.—(AP)—Lamna Bryant, 20, of Corvallis, who stabbed to death Lewis [Hip] Dickerson, Oregon State college grid star and assistant coach, in a fit of jealousy, today stood convicted of first degree murder.

St. Paul Road Boosts Pay of Shop Workers

An increase of from 3 to 5 cents an hour in wages to approximately 10,000 shop employés of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railway was announced yesterday by J. T. Gillick, vice president in charge of operations. The increase, which follows negotiations between the company and the Federated Shopcrafts, representing the workers, will become effective Monday and will amount to about $1,000,000 a year, Mr. Gillick said.

Seasoned for flavor, digestion, nourishment

so this Mickelberry goodness arouses appetites anew

Now you can eat sausages without stint, because these flavorful, aromatic, delicate sausages made by Mickelberry spur digestion as well as appetite, due to their special seasoning, a Mickelberry secret for seventy-five years.

Grandmother Mickelberry discovered that secret. She it was who first made sausages so wondrously good that they became the talk and envy of the South. Her famous sausage breakfasts were social events. On those occasions she made them herself, for she alone knew the secret.

Tiny morsels of succulent young pork tinctured with rare Southern spices and chosen condiments. What an aroma came from that kitchen! How everyone did eat! And how good they felt after it!

The secret has been handed down. Today you can have this selfsame goodness in Mickelberry's old farm sausage made after Grandmother Mickelberry's original recipe. The distinctive seasoning, mild yet zestful, positively encourages digestion—and good digestion, you know, is the big step to nourishment.

Now you can eat plenty

So it's no longer necessary to stint on good sausage. These little Mickelberry sausages are veritable links to good appetite and well-being. They "like" you as much as you like them.

Serve them often, not only for breakfast, but for luncheon, supper, dinner. Today they are enjoyed by millions—in homes, hotels, clubs and on finest trains. Served wherever the best is served.

They are made and sold fresh daily. They come in the famous green and yellow package. In links, patties or meat. At your dealer's.

Mickelberry's Food Products Co., 801 West 49th Place, Chicago, Illinois. Telephone Yards 1700.

You will also enjoy Mickelberry's Mayonnaise, Thousand Island Dressing, Sandwich Spread and other dainty specialties for all meal occasions.

Ancient Lands Have Quaint Easter Customs

Russian Festival Blessed Bread Offering.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

As I look through a fat folder of clippings about dishes for Easter day my total impression is that few people who have struggled and imitated the throes of creation in order to devise something characteristic for the day have shown good taste about it. Gewgawish things, even if of eggs, are really not pleasing Easter foods nor have they the slightest religious suggestion. After all, Easter is a great religious day, the greatest of the whole year, and food has long received special blessings on that day.

These gewgaws in food have degrees of offense, as far as good taste is concerned, and I must say that it seems a bit amusing that any one should make deviled eggs a suitable Easter supper dish. Perhaps it is. At any rate one of the menus in my collection—for an Easter supper—has such an item. Since there are so many daintier ways of serving pasque eggs, why this?

A Food Creed.

As for myself, I would take and keep my food creed—with a certain revision—for Easter time, that passage from "Marius the Epicurean" which reads: "And those simple gifts, like other objects as trivial—bread, oil, wine, milk—had regained for him, by their use in such religious service, that poetic and, as it were, moral significance which surely belongs to all the means of daily life, could we but break through the veil of our familiarity with things by no means vulgar in themselves." My revision would concern the calling of bread and oil and milk trivial, as it seems to me no one can who will set himself to a wide and perhaps deep understanding of what food really is.

Such a creed as this would make me desire, if I belonged to the church which has done this, to pile a table with the plain foods to be used on Easter day and Easter week in order that they might be blessed to service. In ancient times, before the Christian era, there were spring festivals as well as autumn at which simple foods were given poetic thought and beautiful attention.

If we could but win back some of the reverence of these observances we might have a worthy religion of foods, for the lack of which, from my point of view, this is a confused and confusing world. I think we would be in better case to enjoy the benefits of our marvelous civilization if we had some of the respect for foods that these ancients had.

In old English phrase the coming of Easter is thus expressed: "And herewithal the hongrie times of fasting ended bee." And how the common man rejoiced at the ending of the fast we can find account of in the oldest of the English dramatists. It was "long Lent" for him, though it was broken for his benefit at Midlent.

And then when Easter came there was high holiday, with curious folk observances no end. The majority of them had something to do with food, as had the lenient Lenten periods when a cake was carried to mother, when boys had bun scrambles, and all that. On Maunday Thursday there were gifts of herring, but these were too religious for the common sort of men. They wanted good meat and drink, wholesome broth, well roasted goose, and "a capon in stewed broth, with marrow, and a good piece of beef stuck with rosemary"—an ideal for a meal about 1600. And some had figs and raisins then, and marchpane (marzipan). There was much talk of food in those days, and many similes were taken from edibles, a maid being compared to a musk melon because it was a dainty fruit. And you should read Ben Jonson's play, "Every Man in His Humor," if you would see how one Cob could hate fasting.

Children's Easter.

And whether we would preach about the reverence for foods we need to have, or con the old literatures to see what fasting was before a waning of the Lenten fasting customs came about, we can always remember that there has been a children's side to Lent, with Jack of Lent games, and on Easter with endless sorts of egg festivals. In an old book about Canada there is this: "Then on Easter morning, was not the Church of St. Ann's fairly riotous with boys cracking painted eggs?" And St. Ann's to this day, if it has not burned down lately in one of those many fires its city is subject to, exists, and perhaps this custom also.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

A Favorite Egg Dish.

The hard cooked egg in its shell—we used to say hard boiled, but we know better than to boil eggs today—is undoubtedly the true Easter egg, but many a cook has gotten up something called a "Pasque Egg." I remember one served in a silver casserolette which was just a creamed hard cooked egg with real asparagus tips—a bit smaller than this term usually implies.

I might find an Easter name for one of my own favorite egg dishes. I have but three or four real favorites—which I have usually called eggs Columbus style. This is not the most elegant of egg dishes, but with two sauces it is bright and gay and springlike, and capable of many variations—by using different seasonings and garnishments. The proportions used are:

Six whole eggs cooked in the shell and left whole after the shell is removed; six pieces of toast; two cups of white sauce which for elegance may be made with all cream or a part, one cup of tomato sauce, a garnish.

Cook the eggs gently, remove the shells, stand each on a piece of toast in which a dent has been made with the end of a pestle or something of the sort—the thumbs in an emergency. But the bread must be well toasted or dried when it does no harm to break it down, otherwise it might be tough.

Pour white sauce over all of the eggs and around them, then add tomato sauce as you choose. Half of the eggs may be covered with red and half with white sauce and a border made around the dish with the two. Both sauces should be as smooth and shining as possible.

To make this tomato sauce, strain one pint can of tomato or use the same amount of freshly stewed tomato, and then cook the strained part down to increase its spiciness. Finish the sauce like a white sauce, with butter, and the flour for the thickening, but the amount of thickening used must depend upon the thickness or thinness of the cooked down tomato. The sauce must not be too thick.

Gas Cuts Time in Ripening Mature Fruits

But Pucker Stays in the Green Persimmon.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Ethylene, the fruit and vegetable man's miracle gas, is justly credited for its wonder work in a new process of treating crops that have reached the final stages of maturity, but it can't take the puckering power away from an immature or green persimmon. Enthusiasm over what this gas can do in the treatment of fruits and vegetables which are picked slightly green for shipment to central markets has led to slight disagreements among chemists inside scientific circles.

A Minnesota scientist reports that bananas, tomatoes, celery, pineapples, cantaloupes, oranges, limes, lemons, and grapefruits have been ripened with ethylene gas in large lots in commercial practice by several hundred fruit jobbers. Federal scientists say that although the use of ethylene gas in coloring oranges is commonly described in the orange business as the "ethylene ripening process," the department of agriculture workers have preferred not to use the term "ripening" in describing the effect of the process. They explain that the term is applied in many ways to describe natural processes, and may convey the idea of increasing the food supply in a fruit or vegetable, that is, increase the starch or sugar content.

Gas Adds no Sugar.

Government men explain further that their experiments led them to think the changes produced by ethylene gas are very similar to those which take place naturally after the fruit or vegetable has been harvested and is stored under proper conditions. There is a decided difference, however, in the time required for the change, it is pointed out.

Scientists at Washington, D. C., have found that if an orange, for example, is picked when immature, and before the fruit has stored sufficient sugar, ethylene gas will not add to the sugar or reduce the acid. It does promote a coloring of the rind that makes otherwise desirable fruit more attractive to the eye.

"In the case of pears, the full sweetness of the fruit may not have developed when the time for harvest comes," federal chemists say. "Some of the food material is in the form of starch, which changes to sugar in the course of storage. Ethylene gas causes the change to take place more rapidly. A desirable effect has been observed in the treatment of Japanese persimmons. But in none of these cases does ethylene cause a a half grown immature fruit to be made palatable."

Coloring Green Apricots.

This indicates that consumers will be protected from having to eat fruits that have been picked half grown and treated with gas to make them appear ripe.

Experimenters also are reported to have had some success with green-colored apricots which grew on the inside branches of trees and failed to color for lack of sunlight.

Enthusiastic reports have been going into Washington telling about the treatment of green tomatoes with the gas to bring out color, but federal tests indicate that immature fruits will benefit but little, if any. Their results with other fruits and vegetables have been inconclusive.

Contests in Decoration of Tables Popular

Writer Tells How to Judge the Exhibits.

BY SALLY LUNN.

The art of table decoration may be to be still in its pioneer stage, is only in the last few years women have become interested in of household management. the fact that they are interested and intensely so, there is no The numbers who attend the flower shows held by various clubs and women's organizations where table decorations are the featured exhibits have increased and are increasing each year proportions.

Most of these table decoration contests have been in conjunction with shows, but I have invariably greater throngs gazing at the than at any other exhibits, and this department has received inquiries about the details of arranging and judging a table decoration competition.

Suggestions for Contests.

Because the study of arranging tables is so new, there are no established rules for conducting such and some ingenuity must be in making your own. There are customs, however, which the who have been most successful in their efforts have evolved that will be noted.

A fairly large room is necessary for a contest, and an oblong or square room is best. The tables are usually lined against the wall with a small amount of space in between so that the effect of each is not detracted by close proximity to its neighbor, and in lines down the center of the room. Tables of uniform size, generally oblong, are provided by the committee in charge, and the requirements for each class of table entries are stated. That is, if the contest is for luncheon tables set for six persons, each contestant is informed of that, and told the size of table she may use. The table set for six is, by the way, one of the most effective to judge. Those that are most popular are for luncheon tables, formal dinner tables, breakfast trays, and special occasion tables.

Since the cost element is always of interest to women, a class with a price limit set on it, such as $15, is sure to cause comment. An itemized statement of the cost of the appointments is usually placed in a conspicuous position on the table.

How to Judge Tables.

The judging of tables is usually completed before the exhibit is open to the public. The names of the entrants are written on cards and sealed in small envelopes until after the judging has taken place so that there can be no question of partiality and personal consideration. The committee in charge indicates to the judges on what points the tables are to be considered. There is no definite system of scoring in use, but the factors that are usually taken into consideration are [a] originality, [b] appropriateness, [c] distinction, and [d] composition, which were the points used at the recent garden show at the Sherman hotel.

Originality is self-explanatory; appropriateness indicates the suitability of the table for the particular occasion for which it is designed. Distinction constitutes the pleasing effect of the table and its general artistry, and composition means roughly, as one chairman explained to me, "how the picture hangs together."

TABLE DECORATION THAT IS "DIFFERENT"

This table, with its runners of Chinese blue, the interesting square plates decorated in blue, deep blue goblets, blue pottery fish vases holding pink begonialike blossoms, and a center figurine of white pottery, was entered in the recent competition for luncheon tables held at the flower show by the Lake Forest Junior Garden club, whose members believe in competitions of all kinds to stimulate interest and achieve proficiency in the various uses of flowers.

I have had success in coloring Easter eggs with crayons. Boil the eggs as usual. While they are still hot, wipe them carefully, and holding them by the end in one hand, go over them with the crayon. The color does not go through the shell.

Bland, Mo., March 29.—(AP)—Okeh Bevins was seriously injured today when his Lockheed plane crashed into a small tree in an attempt to take off from a farm near here. He was taken to a St. Louis hospital. It was said that he was attempting a flight from New York to the west coast.

Indicted as Mail Box Robber; Stole 2,000 Letters

Oliver Seymer, 34 years old, 4836 Magnolia avenue, was named in a federal indictment yesterday charging robbery of mail boxes. According to Assistant United States District Attorney La Verne Norris, Seymer stole more than 2,000 letters from boxes between May, 1928, and March, 1929. At the time of his arrest seventeen uncashed checks were found on his person and his nine separate bank accounts showed deposits totaling more than $1,500.

ASK PARDON FOR GIRL WHO FORGED CHECK FOR FOOD

Indianapolis, Ind., March 29.—[U.P.]—Citizens of Indianapolis planned today to appeal to Gov. Leslie for a pardon for Daisy Sullivan, 18, sentenced in Greene county to two to fourteen years in the Indiana woman's prison for forgery of a $2.80 check.

Daisy lost her job at a restaurant several days ago. Without funds and hungry, she admitted she forged the name of her former employer to a check. She was eating from a bag of oranges and bananas in a courthouse rest room when arrested.

Her defenders point out that Jessup Bolinger, Shelburn, Ind., recently convicted of an admitted forgery of $150,000 in notes, was given the same sentence as that of Miss Sullivan.

Disease Brought from Orient, Belief.

The forces of the United States public health service are to be directed toward the suppression of an epidemic of meningitis, which threatens to become general, according to Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming of the health service, who presided yesterday at the third annual conference on public health at the headquarters of the American Medical assoication.

Has Spread from Orient.

Public health agents attached to United States consulates in the orient have been instructed by Dr. Cumming to hold special physical examinations in connection with the issuance of passports to travelers embarkiing for the United States. The disease, according to Dr. Cumming, appears to have spread to this country from China and the Philippines, and the erection of barracks in west coast ports to isolate infected travelers is contemplated.

During the second week in March state health officers reported nearly 350 cases of meningitis of the highly contagious cerebro-spinal type, according to figures compiled by the Associated Press.

Situation Not Alarming.

"While the majority of the cases have been reported from the west coast, where the bulk of shipping from the orient is centered, meningitis in epidemic form has been reported in Oklahoma City and Salt Lake City in recent weeks," Dr. Cumming said. "While the situation is disturbing, it is by no means alarming. Preventive measures are in force in the affected areas and we expect to check the threatened pestilence quickly."

Paris Names Finest Street in Honor of Marshal Foch

THE COUNTY GOES BROKE.

In another twenty days, according to the county treasurer, George F. Harding, Cook county will have exhausted all its available funds. It will not be able to pay salaries or buy supplies and it will not be able to redeem $3,500,000 in bonds which fall due in July. Mr. Harding has applied $5,000,000 to current expenses from funds earmarked for other purposes but not immediately needed, and says he can go no farther in that direction.

The crisis has been hastened by the reassessment which has delayed the payment of taxes ordinarily due in April; but it would be absurd to say that the reassessment has caused the crisis. The crisis has been in the making for a dozen years. The tax spending bodies have made it a practice to appropriate beyond their incomes. They have managed to get along by gradually increasing their borrowings on tax anticipation warrants, but the arrival of a day of reckoning was inevitable.

Mr. Harding proposes that the legislature authorize the county to issue one year bonds to meet its budget. This procedure is required, in his judgment, because the legal limit of borrowing on tax anticipations has been reached and even if officials were willing to wink at the law the banks refuse to carry the load.

The suggestion must be examined with the utmost care. It should not be adopted if it is merely another device for permitting the county and other tax spending agencies to spend beyond their receipts. If the issuance of bonds is permitted at all, it should be on condition that expenditures be sharply reduced. Otherwise, the grant of additional borrowing power can only make matters worse.

Serious as is the situation revealed on the county's books, it is more than matched in the disclosures by the legislative committee which recently studied the affairs of the city and the school board, whose excessive expenditures have been met in part by borrowing from the city's trust funds, in defiance of the intent and probably of the letter of the law as well.

It is significant that the first threat to close down the public services for lack of money has come from Mr. Harding, who served as city controller in the previous Thompson administration and is one of those held liable in THE TRIBUNE suit for the millions squandered in expert fees. Mr. Harding appears to know better than other officials intrusted with public money that he bears financial responsibility for the misuse of funds in his care. Others may live and learn.

THE SOCIETY PAGE.

In the suburbs of fairyland is the society page, and the young girl or the older one who turns to page 19 finds there most of her dreams of wealth and romance, of publicity and popular prestige. For a sex not yet at home in the world of action and affairs "society" still has ambitious futures, and the fairyland of Mrs. La Bump's dinner dance is about all there is to hope for. That no real fairyland exists, either in Ireland or in Lake Forest, makes little difference; on page 19 there is reality enough.

Blurb by the column about insignificant Reggies and Betties; affected chat concerning the eating and dancing activities of Mrs. Pyrene still have their places in the papers of a great metropolis. Those who are mentioned may not dislike the flattery, and those who are not can read of a world that has all the furniture of fairyland and the color of truth. Though the society page is the one hick town remainder left in the modern metropolitan newspaper, it will remain no doubt to provide dreamlands for the public. It is provincial but it counts.

Without an official caste system, America can hardly hope to have society pages equal to those of Britain. For in Britain no doubts or questions can arise. No hesitations as to priority and precedence can appear. Superior people are listed there in the order of superiority. The society editor's job becomes largely a matter of bookkeeping, hardly of judgment.

DIAGNOSIS BEFORE THERAPY.

Mr. Harry N. Fowler, president of the Greater Chicago traffic safety commission, is advocating a statistical approach to the problem of reducing motor accidents. His idea is important and it must be considered as more than the suggestion of one with a sentimental attachment for figures and investigations. Apparently Mr. Fowler has made a serious study of the problem and he has been obstructed by finding not only far from adequate information on which to proceed with a program of reform but no information at all.

He has undoubtedly encountered many theories as to where accidents happen and what causes them, but he has probably discovered that the authors of the theories have been prejudiced by one or two tragedies which they have witnessed in person. There are students of the problem who attribute the accidents to the scarcity of traffic lights and others who blame the stop and go signals. Some are convinced that speeders are responsible and others blame the cautious, slow driver. Fast travel on boulevards is credited with provoking accidents as well as the confused progress along street car streets.

It is strange that automobile accidents, which rank high among the causes of death, have never been properly catalogued. Research has attacked disease and, having found the causes, remedies have been discovered. That is the correct process in the case of traffic accidents, but whatever attempt has been made to apply these methods has been extremely primitive. We conduct safety campaigns without knowing what precautions to recommend. We install traffic lights on the general theory that they can't do any harm. We establish speed limits without information as to what constitutes safe speeds under different traffic conditions. We abolish parking in some avenues and permit it in others without scientific reason for it. We forbid left turns here, and right turns there, and establish one way streets and the principles behind the regulations are haphazard.

Little progress can be expected in preventing accidents until we know what causes them.

CALUMET HARBOR WITHOUT A TAX.

The Calumet harbor bill comes to a vote in the house with its tax feature removed. Authorization for a city-wide tax levy to pay for the construction and operation of a deep water harbor in Lake Calumet was defeated, but the measure without that section has been advanced to third reading. In erasing the provision for a general tax to support a local improvement the legislature has remedied the principal fault in the bill—the inequitability of the proposed assessment—and the critics of the measure may now become its champions.

The amended bill clarifies the city's title to the bed of the lake and makes possible the development of the harbor by private capital or out of bond issues or corporate revenues. The bill, in this form, is acceptable to those Chicago residents who favor the creation of an adequate terminal for water borne traffic in Lake Calumet, but who objected to the proposed method of financing the project. The assembly should approve this enabling legislation and the city should immediately start negotiations for constructing the harbor.

Many friends of the harbor have thought that it is a proper job for private capital. Through industrial promotion the undertaking could be financed and completed at less expense than if it were attempted by public authorities. Its operation also would be more efficient in the hands of the manufacturer-builders. The Calumet harbor bill seems to permit an arrangement whereby the city might relinquish the responsibility to private capital.

An alternative, which is somewhat less desirable, would permit the city to dig the harbor with income from leases to manufacturers and shippers of adjacent land and dock space. If the harbor is as important an undertaking as its advocates claim, there should be little difficulty in meeting the entire expense with this revenue. The eagerness of the industrial plants to use the harbor and to pay for it will be a test of its value.

The legislature now is in the position of acting upon a measure to authorize a Chicago improvement without an inequitable tax. Sponsors of the harbor legitimately may complain under these circumstances if the project is defeated.

ELLIS ISLAND AGAIN.

America's bad treatment of immigrants continues, and good will abroad that might easily be ours through a modicum of courtesy and consideration is quite needlessly thrown away. Protest recently by the president of the Norwegian assembly, the storthing, could be repeated with justice in almost all other countries. "Every Norwegian citizen visiting the United States is badly treated, including those traveling for study," says President Hambro. Ellis Island is to blame.

With immigration reduced to a few thousand each month there remains no reason for the bad treatment of aliens on Ellis Island. They come here with good will towards America. Before they set foot on mainland they usually are angry and disillusioned. In their homeland friends and relatives carry on the tale.

If the officials at Ellis Island cannot introduce a reasonable courtesy and kindliness into their treatment of incomers, the United States should find officials who can.

The Other Side

CAPITALIZING ITS CRIME.

[Green Bay (Wis.) Press Gazette.]

The sanitary district of Chicago has been ordered by the war department to construct with the utmost dispatch sewage reduction works. This order was issued several years ago when on complaint of the lake states it was found that Chicago was abusing its federal permit for the diversion of lake water by abstracting nearly three times the quantity authorized. Ever since the government acted it has procrastinated and failed to comply with the orders of the war department. As a result of legal measures taken by the lake states, the Supreme court of the United States late in 1928 handed down a decision holding that the requirements of the war department were reasonable and valid, and affirming the order for immediate completion of reduction works.

The sanitary district is unable to proceed with the work because it is without funds. For years it has been steeped in graft and corruption, and has dissipated great sums of the taxpayers' money, as recently brought out by investigation. In the face of the record the people refuse to vote further bond issues to the sanitary district, and for this they can hardly be blamed. The sanitary district is now trying to have the legislature authorize the issuance of bonds without referendum.

The Chicago newspapers are portraying a picture of the city devastated by pestilence when the courts finally enforce the orders of the war department for a reduction of diversion. Up to date we have the paradox of a city saturated in crime and graft, not only profiting by it, but actually using it as a leverage for continuance of lawlessness and corruption. How long the lake states will have to submit to this is for the courts to determine. Chicago's degradation is not their doing or their problem. If it elects to live under a reign of grafters and gunmen that is its privilege, but it cannot expect to trample on the rights of others and justify its course by a plea of helplessness. If there has been a city of greater shame and depravity than this port at the foot of Lake Michigan since the days of Sodom and Gomorrah, history does not record it.

AN OLD SONG WITH INTERRUPTIONS.

THE OLD SONG IS,

(As for the interruptions—see daily papers.)

"Sleep, little baby of mine,
Night and the darkness are near,
But Jesus looks down
Through the shadows that frown
And baby has nothing to fear."

"In the name of the LAW, open this door! Open this door, or we'll bust it in! Open this door! Stick 'em up, you——!" CRASH!

Dear little head, be at rest;
Jesus, like you, was a baby once, too,
And slept on his own mother's breast.
Lullaby, lullaby; sleep, my baby, sleep."

"Search the house, men! There's likker here somers! Search everywhere, from garret to cellar! Lively now! Look out there! Where's that mustard bomb?"

"Sleep, little baby of mine,
Soft on your pillow so white;
Jesus is here
To watch over you, dear,
And nothing can harm you tonight."

BANG! BANG! BANG! "Come on, men, come on! Look out for that little boy there; maybe he's got a gun!" BANG! BANG! BANG!

Now, Doesn't That Beat the Dutch!

"It is a long time since we have read Motley's celebrated history," says F. P. A., jester of the N. Y. World, "but it seems to us that it must have been paper towels and liquid soap that contributed to the fall of the Dutch Republic." It is our impression that Franklin is confusing Motley's celebrated history with the Rise and Fall of the Roman Empire—a common error—but we do not like to leap to conclusions. Our reporter was unable yesterday to locate Graham Aldis, alleged to be the only man now living who has read Motley's Rise of the Dutch Republic, but if Mr. Aldis cares to make a statement on the ageing Mr. Adam's memory, we will be glad to print it.

Dry Statesmen—Leaky Luggage.

It has just been learned that Congressman Michaelson, w. k. Republican dry leader, was indicted last October for smuggling likker into These States. "Why the indictment has been allowed to rest inactive for so long a period," says the Herea, "was not explained." We'd like to satisfy the public's curiosity on this point, but the only thing we can remember about last October is that there was a hot political campaign going on in which the wet-and-dry issue was mentioned now and then.

Anyway, we know too many people who vote it dry and drink it wet to be surprised or shocked. But when we look at the headlines of the last two or three days, it occurs to us that maybe some day congress will meet in Leavenworth, after all.

It's Monday. (Adv.)

Owing to Good Friday, over which we had no control, our thrilling masterpiece, "The Manchester Square Case," could not be published yesterday. However, it will appear as usual Monday. To allay worry, we will say there have been no further casualties. That's where we're different from Van Dine. He kills everybody concerned with his story except the printer, the pressman, the bookbinder, and himself. He's a mean guy, that Van Dine. But us, we're kind hearted.

THE HIGH-CIRCLING BIRDS.

A rainy day and the city is still,
Three rude crosses, all dyed red,
With bloodstains on her Easter gown;—
She may not have heard the seven last words,
But, God! she saw the high-circling birds.

A rosy dawn and the city stirs—
For the wind this Easter may blow hard
By the time you promenade the boulevard;—
Hears the organ and the choir repeat
The soothing song of the seven last words,

Lagniappe.

THE PET WASHINGTON STORY of the moment, as relayed by Charles Michelson, has to do with suggestions that were made to Cal for action on some project or other during the closing days of his administration. "No," said Cal dryly, "let's leave that for the superman."

MICHIGAN no sooner shakes off the life for a pint law than it starts sleuthing its co-ednas to see if the gals smoke cigarettes. And if they do—boiling in oil or something lingering, we know.

THE LEGISLATURE has adopted the cardinal as the state bird of Illinois. The cardinal! Up, Ku Klux! To the front, Senator Heflin! Stand by, you one hundred and twenty percenters! Now, then—fix bayonets—forward—CHARGE!

A CHICAGO HUSBAND suing for divorce says his wife burned his evening clothes and silk hat to keep him from running around to gay night clubs. She needn't have gone to all that trouble; she should have thrown his spats in the lake. Mercy, he couldn't have gone out without his spats.

SENATOR CARTER GLASS charges Charley Mitchell, president of the National City bank of New York, with "vigorously slapping the Federal Reserve Board in the face." Probably what the senator means is that Charley gave the board a swift kick in the pants, but of course he had to observe senatorial dignity.

IT'S EASTER TOMORROW—and, besides playing with eggs, lots of people we know will take no further interest in the day. And they won't be rabbits' eggs either—hens', and soft boiled at that (the eggs, not the hens). R. H. L.

EROSIONS OF THE TEETH.

EROSIONS of the teeth have been an unexplained mystery for half a century in spite of research work done by dentists. It may so remain for another half century. Quite fifty years ago a Chicago dentist, Dr. Koch, made a valuable study of it, but from that paper there came nothing that helped the man in trouble.

A little later Dr. G. V. Black did some scientific research on the erosion problem but again there was no advance so far as concerned the practical handling of the cases.

But before going further, let us have an answer to the question, What is erosion? In erosion there is a short and rather deep furrow across one or more teeth. As a rule, these furrows are found near the margin of the gums on the outer, or cheek, surface. The furrow runs horizontally across several teeth, giving the appearance and keeping about the same level and the same location with reference to the gum margin. It is not a decay process. The furrow may be deep, but it has a smooth surface entirely free from decay. It suggests a furrow gouged across the faces of one or more teeth by means of a sharp, clean cutting, strong gouge. Following the gouging the furrow floor seems to have been smoothed or polished. These furrows keep deepening until, in some cases, the enamel above splits off in a slab. It is in this way that erosion sometimes causes the loss of teeth.

The above is merely a statement of fact. It does not raise the question of how or why, nor even the question of prevention and treatment. Just that point is raised by Drs. Rush and Zwick of the University of Kentucky. They had a woman with extensive and long-standing erosions of the teeth. She had been in many hands and had suffered much. At any rate, the erosion was still progressive. Drs. Rush and Zwick decided to try mild acid antiseptic mouth washes. They had her wash her mouth several times daily with Dobell's solution. This solution is about as standard as a barrel of flour. It is slightly acid, is mildly destructive to bacteria, and is a good wash. Finally, all druggists know how it is made and carry it in stock or make it frequently.

Their theory was that an acid wash decreased the acidity of the saliva. Examinations of the saliva, properly made, showed it to be highly acid. Similar examinations made during treatment showed the saliva to be near alkaline. At the end of a year and a half the woman's saliva was not highly acid and her erosion had not progressed.

Dr. H. P. Pickerell of New Zealand wrote a book advocating mild acid mouth washes in 1911. The wash he recommended was a solution of acid potassium tartrate in water 1 to 300, sweetened with a little saccharin.

MAY BE TUBERCULAR GLANDS.

Mrs. O. S. writes:

On the side of my neck, right back of the ear, I have swollen glands. I have had them examined by physicians and they seem to think it may be tubercular glands. I was examined thoroughly for tuberculosis of the lungs and they found no sign of the disease. What treatment do you think would be best for these glands?

2. Will you please tell me if the juice from half a lemon in warm water, taken in the morning before breakfast, is in any way harmful?

REPLY.

1. Sunlight treatment or lamplight treatment can generally be depended on to cure tubercular glands of the neck. Early treatment is more effective. Are your tonsils in good order? Do you drink raw milk from tubercular cows?

2. I don't think so.

SCARS FROM RINGWORM.

J. R. S. writes: I have a friend who has ringworms and I suggested that he dab the circle with iodine and he told me that it would leave a scar. Is this true?

In my own case I had ringworms on my jaw and I put iodine on and the ringworms healed up in a short time without leaving a blemish.

REPLY.

No.

DID NOT HEAR RALES.

M. A. writes:

1. My doctor has informed me that I have tuberculosis but not much moisture. What is the meaning of moisture?

2. Are the germs more active when there is moisture?

REPLY.

1. The physician did not hear many rales. He does not think your disease is progressing or growing worse just now.

2. To say that the disease is more active would be more accurate.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

LEGITIMATE INCOME.

Chicago, March 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—It is the custom of many doctors to send their patients to wholesale optical houses to have a prescription for glasses filled. 1. These houses are not allowed to sell except to dealers at wholesale, but the people sent are charged the retail price and the difference between wholesale and retail is rebated to the doctor. 2. Does the wholesale house in making an income return list this money as paid out? 3. Can the doctor claim it as his income? 4. And if the doctor returns it as income under what classification would it appear? A. M. C.

We assume that by rebated you mean that a check for the difference is sent to the doctor. 2. Presumably they would report it as a business expense. 3. If the doctor received the money, it is obviously income. 4. We would consider it income from his profession.

DEPENDS ON RESIDENCE.

Chicago, March 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I live in a hotel in Chicago. Some time ago I left my room at 8:30 o'clock in the evening and left the window down two inches from the top. A thief entered by means of this window and stole all my clothes. Is the hotel liable? There are no bars on the windows. E. R. M.

The hotel is liable if you are a transient guest but not if you were renting a room more permanently.

PAVING ON 101ST PLACE.

Chicago, March 24.—[Friend of the People.]—Can you tell me when 101st place between Prospect avenue and Wood street will be paved? E. E. F.

An estimate of cost has been ordered for paving 101st place, between Prospect avenue and Wood street, and we will hold a public hearing on this proposed improvement at the earliest date possible. Notices will be sent to the property owners when we are ready to hold the hearing.

JOSEPH F. McCLORY, Secretary,
Board of Local Improvements.

GETTING COLD FEET.

Chicago, March 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have signed as guarantor for a friend and fellow worker.

1. Can I be held liable for nonpayment if I am under age?

2. Can they compel me to pay the balance of ten dollars if my friend doesn't pay? A. C.

No, to both questions.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 30, 1864.

CHARLESTON, Coles county, Ill.—Copperheads came in on March 28 to attend court in large numbers with guns concealed in wagon beds, and armed with pistols. Some soldiers in the courthouse yard were drawn into an affray, and the fight instantly became general. The sheriff sprang from the judge's stand and, drawing a pistol, commenced firing upon the Union men. One of the victims of the mob was Maj. Shabet York, surgeon of the 54th infantry. The Union men, finding themselves outnumbered, fled toward stores for arms, and were fired upon from windows. Col. George M. Mitchell was badly wounded.

CHICAGO.—J. F. Farnsworth telegraphed THE TRIBUNE from Albany, N. Y., that the funeral party accompanying the body of Congressman Owen Lovejoy to Illinois will reach Chicago tomorrow morning. The funeral will take place the next day at Princeton.

CAIRO, Ill.—At last accounts Gen. Forrest was near Trenton. His forces were in such crippled condition that it is not expected he will attack Columbus. At the lowest calculation he must have lost 1,500 men in the battle of Paducah.

ALEXANDRIA, La.—The advance of Gen. Banks' cavalry under Gen. Lee reached Alexandria on the 19th. The rest of the army was within two days' march of the city.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—The Chattanooga Gazette says the rebels claim to have 50,000 men at Dalton and vicinity, and that they will capture Chattanooga and east Tennessee when Longstreet with 20,000 men moves into Kentucky, which he plans to do forthwith.

APIA, Samoa.—War has again begun in Samoa, but this time the Americans and the British are fighting side by side to uphold the treaty of the powers. The Germans are sulky and are secretly aiding the followers of Mataafa in opposing the mandates of the powers. The German consulate was partly wrecked by a shell from the American cruiser Philadelphia. Admiral Kautz of the Philadelphia on March 15 ordered Mataafa, the usurping chief, to withdraw his warriors from Apia. The rebels defied the order and began an attack on the town. The Philadelphia and the British cruisers Porpoise and Royalist then bombarded the villages surrounding the city. The shelling has continued for a week. The native loss is heavy.

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Sixty lives were lost on the Mississippi at Tyler, Mo., when the steamer Rowena Lee went down in seventy feet of water. Thirty-one of the lost were passengers. The exact cause of the disaster is not known to officials of the Lee line in this city. One report is that there was an explosion.

MANILA. — Gen. MacArthur advanced from Bocave to Bigaa, thence to Guiguinto, three and one-half miles from Malalos, the rebel capital. There was fierce fighting during the afternoon. Casualties for the day were about seventy. Indications are that Aguinaldo will not trust to the outcome of a battle at Malalos, and will retreat still further to the northward.

KANSAS CITY.—Simeon Brooks Armour, head of the local packing house of Armour & Co., and brother of P. D. Armour of Chicago, died of pneumonia at the age of 71.

THE EXAMPLE OF SERGT. YORK.

Fort Worth, Tex., March 26.—I would like to be among the first to congratulate the city of Aurora for the great honor of producing the six dry raiders who pulled the deed they did Monday night at the Joseph De King home.

These six noble heroes should be compared to Sergt. York of the mountains of east Tennessee, who alone in the world war killed some twenty or thirty Germans in battle and captured a regiment or two of prisoners, while these six brave dry raiders alone and unaided captured a nine year old boy and murdered his mother. How proud Sergt. York should be of this heroic band trying to match his record. Why they didn't kill the little fellow I cannot imagine.

Press reports state that a gallon of wine was confiscated at the De King home by the dry raiders. What an awful heinous offense to be found with a gallon of wine in your home! It is difficult to picture any crime quite so bad.

All my life I have been a prohibitionist from practice, for I have never used intoxicants, but I want to go on record from now on as severing all sympathy or connection in any way with these dry fanatics who murder women and send old gray haired mothers to the penitentiary for life for selling a pint of liquor. My prohibition has not reached that stage of fanaticism.

ILLINOIS JOINS THE MONKEY STATES.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 28.—That editorial "Minnesota Joins the Monkey Sates" is another example of the stupidity of THE TRIBUNE's writers. They are too far sighted. They should look closer home and correct a few of the many evils of their own state.

The editorial goes on to say that the growing generation in Minnesota has not been educated in the principles of freedom. No doubt the writer received his inspiration from the principles of freedom which the growing generation at Aurora, Ill., received a few days ago as part of their education, especially the young De King boy.

We would rather be called the monkey state than the murder state and Illinois is rapidly becoming both.

H. F. WYNTON.

JAIL FOR GERALD.

Berwyn, Ill., March 27.—It is time a decent citizen speaks. THE TRIBUNE tears down laws and does not enforce prohibition. A law breaker should be punished. The boy hero tried to kill the law enforcer and should be placed in the detention home, instead of proposing an educational fund.

Friendships of twenty-five years are hard to break, but if this does not appear in the Voice of the People our friendship is ended. N. F. H.

FOR A SANITY CAMPAIGN.

Evanston, Ill., March 27.—The murder of Mrs. De King by the dry forces makes me feel restless and unhappy. It seems to me that we are approaching a new era of medieval darkness—and the dark ages could not boast of more cruelty than the one in Aurora.

Let us start a campaign for sanity—for mental hygiene—because this prohibition is reaching a point of national insanity the same as the burning of women in Salem. L. LICHTGARN.

FRIEND OF THE JONES LAW.

Oshkosh, Wis., March 27.—I noticed Orr's cartoon on the front page of your paper showing a Simon Legree sort of person, representing the Jones law, trying to scare a fine, upstanding sort of a man with a long line of pioneer ancestors.

Evidently you consider dirty bootleggers and rum runners and their kind as the ideal American citizen. You know perfectly well that these are the people the Jones law is aimed at.

In my estimation your paper is falling lower and lower every day. I have bee a consistent reader of it for many year but I feel that when you come out an insult decent American citizens wi such a cartoon as that one, I am al through.

I am proud to have a long line o American ancestors behind me, dati back before the revolutionary war, a I do not feel any fear of the Jo law, but feel that it was enacted f the benefit of good American citiz no matter what effect it may have o such people as Al Capone and his cla

CONTRIBUTOR TO HERO FUND.

Chicago, March 28.—Please find e closed check for $1. I am sorry it not more to help that noble boy w showed the true American spirit in tr ing to defend his home and the life his dear mother.

I also want to thank THE TRIBU for its noble stand against the prohib tion act. I read at one time that Sen tor Reed could or would expose the inn workings of the vote dry and drink w senators if he had a fund of $50,00 Start the fund and in less than a wee you will have the money. We have su fered long enough from the hypocritica reformers. FRANCIS MURPHY.

MUSTARD OR TEAR GAS.

Evanston, Ill., March 28.—While I co sider the murder of the Aurora moth a dastardly and entirely unjustifi crime in the name of law enforcem it offends my sense of respect for t truth to see you fanatically distort t facts to arouse public indignation. ## Fame Goes to British Girl With 21st Year

Critics Hail First Novel of Phoebe F. Gaye.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—The latest success in London is Miss Phoebe Fenwick Gaye, a girl of 21, whose first novel, "Vivandiere," has received enthusiastic praise from almost all the critics and has started upon a general popularity which may reach great heights.

Miss Gaye, like Lord Byron, has had the experience of awaking one morning to find herself famous. But I will prophesy that this event will not spoil the young author, for perceptive persons—such as R. A. Scott-James—long ago realized that we had among us a budding talent of very high class. Nor is Miss Gaye's a single track talent. She will be heard of, unless I am mistaken, in fields other than those of the historical novel.

About four years ago Mr. Scott-James showed me a couple of remarkable short plays, both written by Miss Gaye. They were astonishing work for a child of 17, immature, but bold and full of perception and beauty. They could quite well have been published. But if they had been published it would have been necessary, for the author's protection, to mention that she was a child.

Naturally, for Miss Gaye the temptation must have been very great. There were the plays and there was her eager ambition to appear as an author. On the one hand there was the fact that if the plays had been published she would have been stamped as an "infant prodigy."

What was to be done? Miss Gaye decided, of her own accord, that she did not wish to be an infant prodigy. She wished to stand or fall by the actual quality of her work. The plays were set aside. Now, four years later, "Vivandiere" has been published, and, although it may add to our marvel at the book's excellence, and the author's skilled use of historical material, to know that she is not long out of her teens, we do not have to be thinking all the time of Miss Gaye's youth and have no need to make innumerable allowances for immaturity. We can read the book as a book. I shall be very greatly surprised if "Vivandiere" does not achieve in America success as great as that which it already enjoys in London. And I shall be equally surprised if Miss Gaye does not follow "Vivandiere" with novels and plays of even higher quality than this one. It is a pleasure to salute a new talent.

As for Miss Gaye's life and experience, she is a girl with brothers and sisters who are not literary. She has been earning her own living and amusing herself in her spare time as other girls and boys of her age amuse themselves. The theme of "Vivandiere," in fact, was suggested to her by the circumstance that she used the costume of a vivandiere at one of the big London annual fancy dress balls.

She is a good dancer, is very pretty, and is not yet in the highbrow sets. With such normality and such willingness to work and wait as she has shown, she may be expected to go far not only (as I have said) in the writing of novels, but also in the writing of sincere and beautiful plays upon historical or poetic themes.

This is the permanent form of the annual report of the director of public information of the government of India, as it was prepared for presentation to parliament. In it there is a definite denial on the part of the government of any connection whatever with the production of Miss Katherine Mayo's "Mother India" and a statement that the government "extended to the writer no greater facilities than are usually extended to students of social, economic, political or other subjects, whether Indians or foreigners, who can present satisfactory credentials."

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

John Galsworthy elicited this praise: "Mr. John Galsworthy of England has been making a place for himself in the esteem of American readers which many older and more celebrated writers might well envy him," and "Fraternity" which was then just published, "I would find it difficult looking back over the fiction of the last five years to point to anything that could exceed it in delicacy, I might almost say in poignancy." The young Mr. Galsworthy of twenty years ago has become one of the two or three leading English novelists of the period.

A mention of "The Glory of the Conquered," as a "noble book" and the first novel of a young girl reminds one that Susan Glaspell's story of the University of Chicago still remains the best novel that ever has been written with that background.

TEN YEARS AGO.

An advertisement of "Eat and Grow Thin," declared it to be in its 125th thousand. That was the first of the reducing books and the most famous. The list of fictional best sellers was headed by "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" by Vicente Blasco Ibanez and continued "The Great Hunger" by Johan Bojer, "The Secret City" by Hugh Walpole, "The Roll Call" by Arnold Bennett, "Shops and Houses" by Frank Swinnerton. There was not, as you see, one American book on the list. Compare that with this week's list. The first five books on it are all by Americans. To be sure, Anne Douglas Sedgwick has lived in England much of her life, but she was born in the United States. The other four, Sinclair Lewis, S. S. Van Dine, Mary Roberts Rinehart, and Du Bose Heywood are American through and through, even in their writings. America is finding that although it gets many literary treasures from abroad, its home product often is as good as the best it can find elsewhere.

Four Books About That Art Enigma of Isadora Duncan

A friend said of Isadora Duncan: "She made her own world, she wrote her own rules; she wrote her life in impetuous leaps forward, as she lived it." Her own book of her life certainly substantiated that statement, and now her friend of over twenty years, Mary Desti, and her adopted daughter, Irma Duncan, and her secretary, Allan Ross MacDougall, have written about the last days of the dancer's life, taking up the record at the place Isadora herself stopped.

Although these books differ slightly in unessential matters, they merely deepen the impression gathered in "My Life" of a beautiful woman, a genius, who was a law unto herself, and whose life was an eternal struggle between her art and her private emotional episodes. Her progress as an artist was steady, coherent, unified. It accomplished miracles. Her progress as a woman was hectic, lacking in all proportion, tragic. If ever any one was two people in one, it was Isadora Duncan.

Both books tell about her school in Soviet Russia and about her marriage with the mad young poet, Sergei Essenine, who later killed himself. Mere fiction pales before the tempestuous, frantic existence of these two: the wild parties, the revelry on the abyss of abject poverty and defeat, the constant clashing of temperaments and almost daily explosions. To the reader, the enigma all through Isadora's days was that such a tangled, uncoördinated emotional life could produce an art so perfect, so classic in its simplicity, so eternal in its message.

In "The Art of the Dance" are some essays of Isadora's written at various times, expressing her ideas on the dance, on the training of children, and on Russia. Here are also very beautiful tributes from famous friends and from members of her family.

Arnold Genthe took twenty-four of the most gorgeous and unusual photographs of Isadora, which, together with a preface by Max Eastman are published by Mitchell Kennerley of New York and London. They form a beautiful memorial to her.

That priceless little volume, "The Week-End Book," with "just about everything necessary to the success of a week-end party for two or more people" in it was first published in 1924. Since then it has had eighteen impressions, been greatly enlarged and revised, with charming illustrations, and lives up better than any book you ever saw to its qualifications. In it there is an anthology of English and American poetry, the words and tunes of 80 ballads, songs and chanteys, a treatise on games, an illustrated section about birds, chapters on astronomy, week-end cookery and the art of mixing hard and soft drinks. And at the back are blank pages in case the week-end lures you to write a poem or a song or lest you forget the proportions of orange juice.

THE BRIDGE of LIFE

By C. HAROLD SMITH
AUTHOR OF "RAHWEDIA"

FROM a scared and excited small boy lost in the New Zealand bush to a successful, wealthy business man, the author of this amazing biography has run the gamut of experience. A brush salesman in London . . . a "gay dog" in Paris . . . an involuntary passenger to America . . . down and out in Old New York . . . finally on the ladder to success . . . a world traveler . . . and a man to whom life has given with a free hand the worst and best, and one whose account of his life you will enjoy reading and rereading.

In one respect "The Bridge of Life" is different from the usual biography. It is, in fact, more than a biography. It is a mellow philosophy of life charmingly expressed—the philosophy of a man who in spite of business struggles that absorb so many of us has never lost his hold on romance, his zest for adventure, his ability to make friends with his fellowmen, and to stride with gusto across the bridge of life. Illustrated. $2.50

"Each novel that he writes makes his work rise in our esteem . . . In his books, there is a restrained fire, a passion which comes from a man's personal conceptions, and not from the adroit tricks of a writer. I believe that this is the sign of authentic talent." —Edmond Jaloux

DARK STAR

So fine, so fascinating that we predict DARK STAR will set the thousands and tens of thousands who swore by the excellence of THE CONSTANT NYMPH, THE HOUNDS OF SPRING and DUSTY ANSWER to rapturous reading.

DARK STAR is a rich book, and, in the face of pale psychologizing and heavy realism of the majority of present day novels, what more of praise can be given it? —Philadelphia Ledger

Meyer Levin Scores a Hit With His Book

Except When His Role Is Introspective.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Reporter," by Meyer Levin. (John Day.)

A book in the new technique again has come from Chicago. One of the reasons why "Show Girl" was so exciting to literary editors was the fact that it was done in a new technique—by the use of extracts from tabloids, greeting card mottoes, letters, telegrams, cables, as well as the usual narrative, descriptive and conversational passages. Despite the fact that Mr. McEvoy has transplanted himself to New York he, like many other famous New Yorkers, learned his vegetables in our town, so that "Show Girl" really was a Chicago product.

Meyer Levin, himself a reporter, has hit upon the scheme of telling the story of the daily life of a reporter and of the city (which is Chicago) by means of the stories which the hero writes and his reactions to them, which affect his own personal life outside his work. It is a unique way of telling a story, and an extremely interesting one, technically. That the author does not entirely bring it off is not the fault of the idea, but of the author's lack of experience, for this is his first book.

The newspaper stories he does extremely well. With their effect upon the reporter and the reporter's life apart from his work Mr. Levin is not so successful. The technique is perfectly suited to its subject. It is, when you consider it, the most logical way of telling the story of any reporter's life, the most effective, for, more than the life of any other type of worker, a reporter and his stories are one and the same thing. His life, more than that of any other person, is lived in his work whether he wishes it so or not.

The very routine of his life precludes the usual relationships. He gets up and is at work at dawn practically, if he is on an afternoon paper and if he is on a morning paper he works until every one else is in bed. He has the routine of a night watchman without its sedative compensations.

That quality of being at the mercy of his job, and at the same time being stimulated by it and thrilled by it beyond all things, which is the reason why reporters are reporters, Meyer Levin has unquestionably got in his book. The business of being a reporter he has reported with skill and conviction and impressiveness. The business of being a human being aside from his job, he has fallen down on. His relations with the girls who are in the book are unconvincing to the reader. The reader knows perfectly what kind of reporter the hero is, and he understands, as he has probably never understood before, what being a reporter means. But what sort of person this particular reporter is the reader does not understand.

The stories themselves are, in many cases, actual ones, and the panorama of them gives a sort of moving picture of life in Chicago that is amusingly satirical as well as skillfully accurate.

He Writes

MEYER LEVIN.

In his book, "Reporter," he writes about just that and how a person feels who chooses that trade, or profession, and what the life does to one.

Literary Calendar

March 31, 1809, was the birthday of Nikolai Vasilevich Gogol in Russia. His "Dead Souls" is one of the few funny novels ever to come out of that land of dour and impressive emotion. But the tensity which was absent from his work tripped up the author's mind, and he became so immersed in fanatical mysticism that he burned the concluding chapters of "Dead Souls" because he decided, in his zeal, that they were harmful.

April 1, 1868, was the date of the birth of Edmond Rostand, most prominent dramatist of his day. His two most famous plays are "Cyrano de Bergerac" (1897) and "L'Aiglon" (1900)

On April 2, 1805, the best known of all fairy tale tellers, Hans Christian Andersen, was born in Denmark. Although he was a popular novelist, poet and travel-writer, it is for his fairy tales that the world at large weaves annual laurels.

April 3, 1783, was the birthday of Washington Irving, one of the most famous of the early American writers. There is no one who has read American literature who doesn't know about Rip Van Winkle. He is the hero of one of the principal stories in "The Sketch Book."

April 3 also was the date of the birth of Edward Everett Hale, in 1822. He lives in American literary history as the author of "The Man Without a Country."

And on April 3, 1837, John Burroughs was born. He died in 1921, the best known of all American writers on the out of doors and wild creatures and their habits and the joys of simple living.

April 5, 1837 marked the birth of Algernon Charles Swinburne, one of the most famous and most prolific poets of his age. He was severely censured for the immorality of his poetry in 1866. Today he is a classic.

New Writers' Club Formed, Includes Several Publishers

A new club of writers was organized Wednesday with a unique absence of officers, constitution, bylaws, or name.

To make possible the meeting of professional writers, editors and publishers informally and for the purposes of conversation rather than the usual transaction of business, Dr. William Montgomery McGovern, scientist and author; Eunice Tietjens, poet, and Ralph Fletcher Seymour, publisher, called together a small group who are the nucleus of the club, whose membership is to be strictly limited to thirty.

The qualifications for membership are so strict as to preclude the presence of the high minded banker who contributes a snappy article on prohibition in Cuba to his athletic club magazine or the talented home girl who dashes off for her culture club an unrhymed twenty-three line "sonnet" in the modern manner with a Dorothy Parker whip-lash in the last line.

Membership is confined to real professionals and, so far as possible, to those who are amusing human beings as well as successful in their profession.

At the meeting were, to name them alphabetically and thus preserve the balance of power, Fanny Butcher, literary editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Charles Dennis, managing editor of the Chicago Daily News, Mary Dickerson Donaghey, writer of children's books; Georgene Faulkner, "The Story Lady"; Alice Gerstenberg, playwright; Cloyd Head, poet and playwright; Llewellyn Jones, literary editor of the Chicago Evening Post, and Susan Wilbur [Mrs. Jones], his assistant; Louis E. Laflin Jr., playwright; Douglas Malloch, poet and president of the Society of Midland Authors; William Montgomery McGovern and his mother, Mrs. Janet Montgomery McGovern, author; Arthur Meeker Jr., author; Jessica Nelson North, acting editor of Poetry Magazine; Will Ransom, publisher; Athol Rollins, editor of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia; Charles Sergel, publisher; Ralph Fletcher Seymour, publisher and author; Merlin A. Taylor, of the Chicago Herald-Examiner; Eunice Tietjens, poet, novelist, and writer of juveniles, and H. E. Wheeler, publisher.

LAFAYETTE IN VIRGINIA

The second volume sponsored by the Institut Français de Washington is a collection of previously unpublished letters which the Marquis de Lafayette wrote from Virginia during his campaign in 1781. The original manuscripts are in the Virginia state library and the library of Congress.

The publication of such delightful volumes as this is only a small part of the work of the Institut, "an association," to quote from its act of incorporation, "to promote in the United States of America the study of French civilization and history, literature and art, and to preserve the memory of French contribuations to the development of American civilization by endowing or otherwise aiding in the establishment of professorships, courses of lectures, fellowships and scholarships, prizes and awards, libraries, archives, and museums . . ." Gen. John J. Pershing is honorary president of the Institut.

COINCIDENCE

A coincidence so strange as to appear in the press all over the country was that of the wholesale shooting on Feb. 15 in our quiet little village, and the fact that in the concluding installment published Feb. 2 of a serial story called "Hooch," exactly such an affair took place. "Hoch," the story of rum racketeers, was written by the smiling gentleman here pictured by Mr. John T. McCutcheon. Under the label of the Crime club "Hooch" has just been published in book form.

Meetings and Lectures

Stanley Jones, internationally known missionary and author of "Christ of the Indian Road" [which has sold over 600,000 copies], will speak at Medinah temple on Monday evening at 8 o'clock on "Conditions in Present Day India." ## Several Awards for Books Dealing with Problems of Children

The annual awards of "Children, the Parents' Magazine" for outstanding books on child development for 1928 were recently made. The annual medal for the best book on the subject was given to Dr. Arnold Gesell director of the psycho clinic, Yale university, for his book, "Infancy and Human Growth" [Macmillan]. That was called "the outstanding scientific contribution to child development published during 1928." Six honorable mentions were made:

To Prof. Ernest R. Groves and Mrs. Gladys Hoaglund Groves for "Parents and Children" [Lippincott], "a good general introduction to parent-child relationships."

To Prof. Leta S. Hollingworth for "The Psychology of the Adolescent" [Appleton], "a sound, interesting study of the problems, attitudes and conditions common to boys and girls."

MUNICIPAL COURT JUDGES REQUEST WIDER POWERS

Seek Legislation to Try Felony Cases.

BY CARL WARREN.

Thirty judges of the Municipal court at a meeting yesterday unanimously adopted a resolution asking the legislature for a great enlargement of their powers, including jurisdiction over all felony cases except those in which the punishment may be death or life imprisonment.

The judges specifically endorsed a bill, now pending in both houses at Springfield, which would allow them to try persons charged with any crime other than murder, kidnaping for ransom, treason, rape and arson. At present the city court's jurisdiction is limited to ordinance violations and misdemeanors, all felonies being tried in the Criminal court. The bill has been recommended by the senate judiciary committee.

Would Unclog Docket.

"There is no reason at all why the Municipal courts cannot handle simple felony cases as well as the Criminal courts," said Chief Justice Harry Olson. "The Criminal court calendars are jammed to the limit all the time and by taking the chicken feed crimes over we could free them for the more important cases."

There is so much red tape in sending minor felony cases by the grand jury route to the Criminal court that sometimes six months or a year elapses before they finally come to trial, Judge Olson said. By disposing of these cases summarily in the Municipal court, he argued, punishment would be quicker and the expense to the taxpayers lessened. The ordinary robbery or burglary calls for only a simple trial which the Municipal judges are fully as competent to handle as those of the Criminal court, he said.

"Right now in the Municipal courts we are dealing out the swiftest justice of any tribunals in the country," Judge Olson asserted. "Ninety per cent of our misdemeanor cases are disposed of in twenty-four hours. We could handle the less important felony cases just as rapidly."

Favor More Judges.

In addition to the felony bill, the judges indorsed three other measures, one of them to permit the city council to increase the number of Municipal court judges from 37 to 46 within the next two years. Another would increase various court costs and a third would permit the court to employ its own psychopathic expert. Dr. William J. Hickson, employed by the health department, now is called upon in some psychopathic cases.

A committee of judges, it was announced, will go to Springfield next week to work for the passage of the bills, which are set for a hearing in the house judiciary committee Wednesday.

Twenty-three head of prize Hereford cattle were sold yesterday for a total of $24,570 at the annual sale at the Axtell farm near Aurora, owned by C. W. Williams. The prices paid for the cattle were the highest ever recorded at any similar sale at the farm.

The increased prices are due to the fact, it is said, that first class dairy cattle are in heavy demand. The Williams' herd is generally regarded as one of the best in the United States. The average price paid for the cattle was $1,068.

MARIE INDUCES CAROL TO GIVE UP THRONE HOPES

Says He Now Recognizes His Situation.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, March 29.—(AP)—Dowager Queen Marie today from Spain informed the government that former Crown Prince Carol, with whom she spent two days recently in France, fully recognizes his situation and the futility of any attempt to return to Roumania or to regain its throne. He pledged his mother that he would do nothing to embarrass her or the regency by unseating his young son Michael as king.

Simultaneously it was made known that all political leaders, including Premier Juliu Maniu, had approved of the queen's meeting her son. Her principal object was to obtain a definite promise that he would refrain from participating in the political and dynastic affairs of Roumania and to attempt to persuade the prince to follow a rather more conventional life for the sake of his family.

Calls Press Report "Absurd."

Earlier in the day one of the highest officials of the Roumanian government had characterized as "too absurd for denial" a press report that Prince Stirbey and Mihail Manoilescu have gone to Paris to arrange the return of Carol to Roumania.

"Please make it clear once and for all," said the official, "that neither in the capacity of crown prince nor as a private citizen can Carol return to Roumania. When the disinherited prince signed the law of renunciation to his right to the throne in 1927, he pledged himself solemnly to remain out of the country for at least ten years. That law is fixed and final and cannot be changed even by parliament.

Law Is Unalterable.

"Neither can the law creating the regency and establishing Michael as king be altered so as to allow Carol's return. That law is an integral part of the existing constitution and is unalterable. Only a revolution could upset it.

"You may be sure that while Premier Maniu is in power, the prince will never be allowed to set foot on Roumanian soil."

Carol Is Mum.

PARIS, March 29. — (AP) — Prince Carol of Roumania returned to Paris today from Normandy where he met his mother, Dowager Queen Marie, who is now on a visit to Spain. He refused to discuss reports that Mihail Manoilescu and Prince Stirbey were coming to Paris to escort him back to the throne of his father.

JUDGE REFUSES WIFE'S PLEA; BLAMES HER FOR SHIRKING DUTY

Superior Judge William N. Gemmill yesterday predicted that young men will refuse to marry if girls do not realize that they, too, have duties in the married state. The judge refused to cite Robert Davies, 6449 South Carpenter street, for contempt of court on his failure to pay $123 in back alimony. Mrs. Lillian Davies is suing her husband for divorce on charges of desertion.

The Davieses were married in 1914 and technically separated in 1928, when he closed off a portion of their home for himself. He charged that his wife failed to take care of their home and three children.

"Wives must realize that they, as well as their husbands, have duties to perform," Judge Gemmill said. "A married man has the right to expect comfort and care. The courts will not force a man to support a woman indefinitely unless she has done her part. I refuse to enter an order in this case."

FRENCH SENATE PUTS O. K. ON KELLOGG PACT

PARIS, March 29.—The Kellogg peace pact was unanimously approved by the senate tonight. This completes France's ratification of the "pact of Paris," the chamber having given unanimous approval recently.

The vote was followed by a brilliant speech by the silver tongued minister of foreign affairs, Aristide Briand, who closed with the appeal: "Give me the pleasure of cabling the United States that the French senate, like the chamber, unanimously approves the pact." He called attention to the fact that little notice had been given to the fact that the pact places all nations on a plane of equality and restores rights to small countries.

M. Briand offered further material for thought to those who see a trap laid for the United States to finance future European wars when his eloquence got the better of his usual diplomatic shrewdness and he lapsed into paragraphs in favor of financial and economic aid to nations unjustly attacked.

THE MEDBURY FORT MURDER

By GEORGE LIMNELLIUS

SYNOPSIS.

Maj. Hugh Preece of the Royal Army Medical corps has just been transferred from [illegible] to Fort Medbury, which is not far from London. He is about to leave his office one day to take his wife and children for a ride when Lieut. Lepean is announced and he has to stay and examine him. The lieutenant is suffering from a mild disorder and the major prescribes for him. After the young officer leaves, Maj. Preece remembers that he has seen him before under embarrassing circumstances. The visit puts the major in a reminiscent mood. He recalls his first love affair with Prunella Lake, an actress on the London stage, then his being sent to west Africa and his unhappiness at parting from Prunella.

On his return to London Preece again meets Prunella. He asks her to marry him and she refuses. Shortly afterwards she marries Tremayne Ronan. Preece marries Claire [illegible], sister of one of his west African associates.

A few years later Prunella and Hugh meet at Swindon, where they spend the night together. Preece remembers seeing Lieut. Lepean in the hotel corridor as he leaves Prunella's room in the morning.

A few days after Lieut. Lepean's professional call on Maj. Preece the young officer invites the older one into his room for a nightcap and tells him he is aware of his affair with Lady Ronan. Preece has an impulse to kill him, but refrains. He threatens to expose him, at which Lepean laughs. As Preece leaves Lepean's room Lieut. Harris calls to him and asks him to come into his room. He tells Preece that he has lost heavily at cards to Lepean and the latter is pressing him for the debt.

Preece goes to his own room and reads a letter from Prunella in which she says that Lepean had written asking to see her and she tells Preece that he must get rid of Lepean. The next morning Lieut. Lepean is found dead in bed. Capt. Wape, in charge of the fort, notifies the police. The local police sergeant calls in Scotland Yard and Detective Inspector Paton is put in charge of the investigation.

FIXING AN ALIBI.

The champagne had made Hugh talkative; his temperamental impartiality, usually concealed, found an outlet in speech: "You were made for me to make love to. I can do it ever so much better with you than with any one else—to my wife, for instance, whom I love ever so much better than I have ever loved you."

"I love you when you become introspective. You are very attractive, Hugh." Prunella smiled at him over her brimming wine glass.

"Do other men make love to you pleasantly, Prunella?"

Her smile became enigmatic. She rose: "Coffee and liqueur brandy in the drawing room," she ordered.

The big room was deserted. They selected a comfortable Chesterfield in a corner by the big bay window overlooking Pall Mall. The waiter placed the coffee and two tiny glasses of brandy on a small table and withdrew.

"Hugh," Prunella said gently, "we must talk seriously."

Preece took his coffee without milk and ignored the liqueur brandy. He was an abstemious man and already had the uncomfortable feeling that he had taken enough champagne gravely to imperil the soundness of his judgment.

"Do you think this detective, Paton, will interrogate me?"

"Well, now, Hugh," Prunella began, "you got my letter and you acted on it promptly." It was a statement, not a question.

Preece paused before replying. He moved a few inches away from her. For some moments he stared thoughtfully at the pattern of the carpet; then he raised his eyes and looked at her.

She was leaning back indolently; her dress displayed to perfection the long, graceful curves of her body. Over her very slightly protuberant eyeballs the thin lids were lowered. Suddenly she raised them and met his gaze fixed upon her; a slow flush mounted to her cheeks, then faded, leaving them paler than before.

"Yes," he replied at last, "I had your letter on Monday by the last post. That night, or rather early the next morning, Lepean was murdered."

A sound escaped her, a sort of hissing sigh, compounded of relief and horror. She leaned right back, her head propped against the back of the sofa. Preece could see the quick rise and fall of her bosom.

He caught a whisper: "Is it all—safe, Hugh? You burned my letter, of course?"

"At once," he replied gravely. He hesitated before going on. Then he added slowly, "Unfortunately you sent me another letter. . . . O, nothing in it . . . but I fear it's put the police on the scent. You see, if all this—about us and Lepean's attempt at blackmail—comes out, every one, including the police, will think I did . . ."

"Hugh, how ghastly!" She leaned back, biting her underlip in deep thought. "You mean, if the police find out about us and that he was trying to blackmail us, they will think that you . . . took measures to silence him?"

"Naturally, even without your letter, Prunella. You see, it jumps to the mind. What's worse, they are on the track of it."

"How can they be?"

"That letter you wrote to Lepean on Monday . . . what did you say in it?"

"Only to change my appointment with him from Thursday to Friday. I told you I meant to keep him hanging on, to give you—time."

"Might have been worse, but the detective from Scotland Yard got hold of it. They're sure to inquire about it—what the interview was about, and so on."

"I can easily make up a story that will satisfy them. Anything: that I had heard Lepean had an old Irish goblet and I was going to buy it for my husband. I'll think out something."

"Wouldn't do, Prunella. The detective—Paton is his name—I'm sure saw there was a letter for me in the same handwriting. That alone connects us. Then, you have a nursery maid—Nancy Beasley?"

"Yes, why? How do you know?"

"Lepean told me. He was down at Mawne a few weeks ago making sure of his facts. He discovered that this girl, by an extraordinary chance, happens to know you spent a night somewhere—she doesn't know where unless Lepean told her, which is unlikely—on your way to Lord Harringforth's in September, 1924. She has a sister who's a maid at the Harringforth's."

"What deadly luck! But still, how can the police get on to the track of Nancy?"

"I don't know. I simply do not know how thorough the police are, but they have got a line on you and me and Lepean being mixed up somehow, and if they start investigating in earnest they may disinter the whole episode."

"Do you think this detective, Paton, will interrogate me?"

"Undoubtedly he will. The only chance is to put him right off, at the very commencement, by some absolutely cast iron, cut-and-dried yarn accounting for the connection between the three of us." Preece shuddered involuntarily. It was all rather sordid and furtively mean. Prunella's mouth hardened into a narrow, straight line.

"Very well, I shall be prepared," she said. "Tell me, did Lepean collect anything?"

"He was a great collector of women," replied Preece with a grim smile, "though hardly a fastidious one. I don't think he collected anything else. Wait a minute, though! I recollect he showed me the other day a rare stamp. It was a Martinique blue, 20 cents, first issue; he told me it was worth £100."

"The very thing. I will admit you and I occasionally corresponded, and even met once or twice, and that you had mentioned this stamp to me. I shall say I wanted to buy it for my husband's birthday which is, fortunately, next month, and the meeting with Lepean was to discuss the price, and so on."

"Yes," Preece admitted, "that sounds fairly plausible. What will you do if the police get hold of your nursery maid and discover the discrepancy between the time you left Mawne and the time of your arrival at Harringforth castle?"

"I shall say I went up to town and stayed the night here. I often do stay here and I did somewhere about that time. None of the club servants could swear, at this date, that I did not spend the night of Sept. 29th here."

"Surely there would be a record in the club books?"

"Don't you remember the club was burned down about a year ago? All the books must have been destroyed. It's quite safe. What luck!"

Preece's face lightened. He rose. "The fates are propitious," he remarked. "You've got plenty of nerve, Prunella, and an ingenious invention, I must admit. You'll be ready for that blighter, Paton, anyway."

As Maj. Preece left the club and started to walk to Charing Cross station a shabbily dressed individual who had been engaged in a prolonged scrutiny of a jeweler's shop window abstracted his gaze and unostentatiously took up the trail.

New Hospital for Children on Lake Shore

La Rabida, Jackson Park Site, to Be Used.

A children's charity sanitarium specializing in heart disease cases will rise on the site of the old La Rabida building of the World's Fair of 1893 in Jackson park, starting in April, it was announced yesterday by the hospital board, of which Mrs. H. R. Kurrie is president.

The new building, to be known as the La Rabida-Jackson Park sanitarium, will be erected at a cost of $300,000 and will be a modernized replica of the original La Rabida, the monastery at Palos, Spain, where Columbus took refuge while making plans for his first voyage westward. The sanitarium, financed by contributions, had its beginning, it was explained, back in 1895, when it was started as a children's health station by the Spanish consul in the old La Rabida building.

A year later the women's board of the Jackson Park sanitarium took over the hospital, operating it until 1918, when the World's Fair building was condemned. In 1922 the board took over the Stockyards Day nursery at 4658 South Marshfield avenue.

Treatment of convalescent cases of heart and nervous disease in children between the ages of 4 and 12 years, and the building of a scientific research center for the study of children's heart cases are the chief purposes of the sanitarium, explained Dr. Robert Alfred Black, who will be medical director. The capacity of the plant will be 1720 beds, and it is planned, he said, to keep each patient not less than six weeks.

"Within three or four years we hope to provide a scientific basis for the future treatment and diagnosis of children's heart cases through our study of our findings," Dr. Black said.

New Movie Lineup Gives Talkies Grip on the United Artists

Los Angeles, Cal., March 29.—[Special.]—The voice of the "talkies" thundered through Hollywood today, talking a language of millions of dollars that promised for the first time to submerge in one big organization individualities that stood throughout most of the years of the silent screen.

For the "talkies" were universally accepted as responsible for the announcement by Joseph M. Schenck, president of United Artists, that the great studios would be entirely reorganized financially and a half interest in the amalgamation sold. The buyer would be Warner Brothers, an organization that "talkies" within a few months raised to the forefront of the industry.

The United Artists reorganization will break down the absolute independence which has been maintained by the nine famous companies, despite the fact that they have used jointly the same film manufacturing plant. Hereafter, Schenck disclosed, those famous names of the films, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charlie Chaplin, Gloria Swanson, D. W. Griffith, and Samuel Goldwyn, no longer will head independent companies. Their organization, together with Joseph M. Schenck Feature Productions, the United Artists Theaters, and the Art Cinema company, will be part of the 60 million dollar merger.

This merger, under the name of United Artists Consolidated, will be made, even though the sale of a half interest to Warner Brothers fails to be concluded. Harry Warner, representing the company headed by himself and his brother, Jack Warner, and Schenck already have agreed on many details of the deal. The merger will be effected, Schenck said, by issuing 20 million dollars in preferred stock to the various separate companies involved.

Hollywood, Cal., March 29.—Constance Talmadge will film no more movies. She has retired as an actress in order to prepare for her coming wedding to Townsend Netcher of Chicago, according to Miss Talmadge's brother-in-law and employer, Joseph Schenck, who is president of United Artists Film corporation.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Lydia Wellensiek, 1515 Cornelia avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

The Answers.

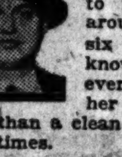
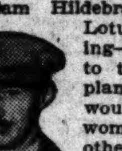
Mrs. C. E. Moran, 442 Oakwood boulevard, housewife—Absolutely not. There must be no dirty dishes in my house. I don't like to do them—wonder when and where that strange expression arose?—but I can't tolerate having them around. It makes no difference how tired I am.



E. P. Hoyle, 4131 Addison street, sales manager—I don't believe the average housewife would care to leave dirty dishes around all day to save six minutes' time. I know my wife couldn't even think of having her kitchen in any other than a clean and tidy condition at all times.

Mrs. George Henriksen, 1714 Sunnyside avenue, housewife—I always wash them at once, of course, and I wouldn't leave them around under any circumstances. My husband also wants to get rid of them, and he often helps by wiping them for me. If the dishes are unwashed the kitchen is untidy.



William Hildebrandt, 1629 North Lotus street, advertising—I couldn't agree to that being a good plan. That system would tend to make a woman careless, letting other work pile up. My wife is proud of her home and the way she keeps it, and she prides herself on having everything spick and span.

Miss Marguerite Miller, 500 Diversey parkway, stenographer—No. That is laziness, and not a good plan for any one to follow. My mother and I believe in getting rid of them after each meal; then they are not continually before us to mock our laziness.

Stock's Orchestra Plays the Newest of Sowerby's Symphonies

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Leo Sowerby started writing a new symphony, his third, about two years ago, finished it a year later, and it was played for the first time yesterday afternoon by Mr. Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Orchestra hall. It thus took an important place on Mr. Stock's Easter program.

A Sowerby premiere is quite likely to be a notable occasion because he generally writes music to make it notable. This symphony is more than likely to add to its composer's already high reputation. That is, it will do so if one reserves judgment until after the first movement is over. That section gave a curious impression yetserday of technique outweighing material. It did not quite seem as though the theme justified the amount of development that had been given it.

But the second movement was a long phrased, leisurely, imaginative work which held its interest to the end, and the third was a gorgeous fugue which was at the same time a stirring piece of music. The fact is worth recording, because so many modern fifugues have turned out to be just fugues. This one became music, and it was one reason why Mr. Sowerby's presence was demanded on the platform after the performance was over.

In any event, it held its own with the rest of the program, and it had no minor competition. Mr. Stock began with the overture by Rimsky-Korsakoff called "The Russian Easter," which I should like to hear more frequently because it is so uncommonly pleasant of manner. Then came Gustav Holst's "The Planets," which has been in retirement for a couple of years. Its seven sections make it a trifle long, but some of the sections, "Mercury—the Winged Messenger," "Jupiter — the Bringer of Jollity," "Uranus — the Magician," among them, are too vital and exhilarating to be kept long in silence.

At the end came a group of "Parsifal" excerpts, the Good Friday Spell, Transformation Scene, and Glorification, and these were something to reflect a new ray of glory on the great orchestra and great conductor who played them. There was no soloist in the program. The orchestra and Mr. Stock were a synthesized soloist.

BERLIN, March 29.—(AP)—Manton Monroe Marble, tenor singer from Chicago and New York, made a successful debut here today at a Good Friday concert. A large audience heard him sing selections by Verdi and Schubert.

BRISTOL, England, March 29.—(AP)—A choir from Dayton, O., opened its English tour here today and local musical critics said that they sang and conquered. Arriving in the afternoon, the choir was welcomed officially by the lord mayor, who said it was particularly appropriate that its opening concert should be in this old city so closely associated with American discovery and history. The singers were given tea at the mansion house. The evening concert was in Colston hall before a large audience. The fact that solos and choruses were sung from memory greatly impressed the auditors, who were charmed by the well balanced and finished renderings.

Rosenwald Makes $25,000 Gift to Kobe College on 1-3 Basis

A conditional gift for $25,000 to Kobe college, Kobe, Japan, from Julius Rosenwald was announced yesterday by the Kobe College corporation, 19 South La Salle street.

Although Mr. Rosenwald placed no time limit on the conditional pledge, it was stated also at that headquarters the Chicago and midwest area hope to raise, by July 1, the necessary $75,000, or three dollars for each dollar given by the philanthropist. That also is the date when, if the present building campaign is completed, the college will receive the $100,000 conditional gift offered by Edward S. Harkness of New York.

Dr. Shailer Mathews, dean of the University of Chicago divinity school, is president of the local corporation. George W. Dixon is vice president, Charles R. Holden, treasurer, and Mrs. Albert W. Palmer, secretary. Mrs. George R. Wilson, Hinsdale, is chairman of the promotion committee which is carrying on the campaign for funds.

Mrs. Gann Ranks Next to Envoys' Wives, U.S. Declares

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—The state department has informed members of the diplomatic corps here that in state social functions Mrs. Edward Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, who is acting as his official hostess, is to be seated after the wives of ambassadors. It was explained at the department tonight that this ranking was in conformity with international diplomatic rule.

Holy Week Rites Reflect Days When Christian Faith Was Born

"'Today Thou Shalt Be With Me,' had the very meaning of heaven within it, for after all wherever heaven may be, it is a place in which the followers of Jesus will be in His presence," Dr. John Timothy Stone of the Fourth Presbyterian church declared yesterday. He spoke at the three-hour Good Friday service at the Chicago temple, held under the auspices of the Chicago Church federation and the First Methodist Episcopal church.

"To be in the presence and companionship of a great leader," he added, "above all else, is to be desired. Personality makes place. Love is made by the lover. Heaven means the presence of Christ and companionship. The presence of Christ means friendship, satisfaction and eternal joy."

Typify Seven Last Words.

There were seven speakers, representing the seven last words of the Master from the cross, at the meeting yesterday. The fourth, Dr. Charles Alvin Brooks, pastor of the Englewood Baptist church, said:

"Christ's fourth utterance from the cross, 'My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me?' marks the lowest ebb of the tide; this is the deepest depth of the self-emptying of Jesus; this is the central core of the black shadow which engulfed Him; this is the heart of the crucifixion; this is the acme of the atonement. The agony of Gethsemane was endured in the holy privacy of seclusion. The crucifixion was enacted in the pitiless glare of publicity. It is here at this point that for Jesus the veil of his temple was rent and a world of dull minds and hardened hearts gazed agape into the Holy of Holies and the inner sanctuary of His fellowship with the Father."

Cross Really Triumph.

"Have we not made too much of the physical suffering of Jesus and thus belittled Him unwittingly in the eyes of the world?" asked the Rev. Perry J. Rice, of the Christian Missionary society, another speaker at the same meeting. "Our symbols present Him as a drooping, pain-drenched figure, surrendering His life on a cross to which he has been nailed. I wonder if this is true to all the facts? Christ is reigning here and He is reigning from the cross. This is the Christ who speaks to us in that dark hour of the world's history. 'It is finished.' There is a note of victory in His voice. All that He had come to do, all that His Father had proposed in sending Him to earth has been accomplished.

"It is a unique note in human experience. Many have lived nobly, wrought worthily and achieved much, but few have come to the close of their lives with any such consciousness of achievement as is here voiced. But Jesus, who had a more comprehensive view of human need and a keener sense of responsibility in relation to it, after a few brief years of seemingly uneventful life and labor, seemed to feel that he had accomplished the work that he had come to do."

Answers Life's Puzzle.

The cross was termed the key to the solution of the cross word puzzle of life, by Bishop Ernest V. Shayer of Nebraska, in his final address at the Good Friday service yesterday of the Episcopal Church club at the Garrick theater. "From the Good Friday cross Christ hands down the key that unlocks the door of the mysteries of life. It is offered to all who will receive it. This key spells forgiveness for hate and retaliation, hard feelings and bitterness and prejudice. The cross holds the key to family life which is so rapidly breaking down these days. Divorce, separation, negligence, unfilial conduct disturb the family unity.

"The cross is the only certain solution to such difficulties. The problem of dark, inscrutable, mysterious pain is solved by the thing which happened on Good Friday. We see pain all about us, tugging, dogging, devouring. The cross discovers its purpose and shows us how to use pain to make life triumphant. Loneliness is the lot of countless thousands but the cross tells us the way out of it."

Other Church Services.

Good Friday was observed in all Episcopal churches of the city with the three hour service from 12 noon to 3 p. m., and the "Tre Ore" devotion was celebrated at the Holy Name cathedral and all Catholic churches, among which may especially be noted St. Vincent's, where the Very Rev. Francis X. McCabe, C. M., preached and conducted the service; St. Patrick's, the Rev. Father Stanton preaching, and at St. James', the Rev. A. L. Catterlin, C. S. S. R., preaching.

Today at 10 a. m., there will be a special communion service at St. James' Episcopal cathedral, Cass and Huron streets, for actors playing in the local theaters.

ROME, March 29.—(AP)—As though symbolical of the obliteration of old differences between church and state, flowers sent by the governor of Rome today adorned the classic cross in the center of the Coliseum, where so many Christian martyrs suffered death prior to the Emperor Constantine accepted Christianity.

The most picturesque was the procession of penitents across Rome to the Church of Santa Groce in Gerusalemme, where relics of the Savior's passion were exhibited.

Portray Via Dolorosa.

GRASSINA, Italy, March 29.—(AP)—As the shadows of evening fell today over this little town on the outskirts of Dante's own Florence, an age-old procession, typifying the principal scenes in the passion and death of Christ, wended its way through the narrow streets to the accompaniment of mournful music.

Of all the Good Friday commemorations in Italy, this of Grassina is undoubtedly the most picturesque and more akin in spirit to the passion plays known to Americans.

The procession, which had its origin centuries ago, aims to reproduce all of the incidents of what Catholics known as "the Way of the Cross," the descent from the cross on the hill of Golgotha, and the final sepulture. In order to approximate the traditional darkness attendant at the death of Christ, the participants never get under way until well after twilight, and move along accompanied by torch bearers.

After this melancholy parade of Gesu Morto, the farmers of the region literally take their animals, oxen, horses and sheep to church with them. They march solemnly up the central aisles of the various little chapels, where they and the beasts are solemnly blessed.

Roman Described Christ?

[Copyright: 1929: By the United Press.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[U. P.]—Only one supposedly contemporary pen picture of Jesus Christ has been preserved for the modern world. Its authenticity is in question. It purports to have been written by Publius Lentulus, alleged to have been a friend of Pontius Pilatus. As some scholars have held the letter a forgery and deny that such a man as Lentulus ever lived. The most striking version of the letter appears in "Palestine and the World," by Frank G. Jannaway. It reads:

"There has appeared a man here, in Palestine, who is still living, whose power is extraordinary. He has the title of the Great Prophet; his disciples call him the son of God. He raises the dead, and heals all sorts of diseases. He is a tall, well proportioned man; there is an air of serenity in his countenance, which at once attracts the love and reverence of those who see him.

"His hair is the color of new wine; from the roots to his ears, and from thence to his shoulders, it is curled, and falls down to the lowest part of them. Upon the forehead it parts in two, after the manner of the Nazarenes.

"His forehead is flat and fair, his face without any defect. His air is majestic and agreeable. His nose and his mouth are very well proportioned, and his beard is thick and forked of the color of his hair; his eyes are gray and extremely lively.

"In his reproofs he is terrible, but in his exhortations and instructions amiable and courteous; there is something wonderfully charming in his face with a mixture of gravity. He is never seen to laugh, but he has been observed to weep.

"He is very straight in stature; his hands are large and spreading, and his arms are very beautiful. He talks little, but with great gravity, and is the handsomest man in the world."

In other versions of the letter the hair is described as "the color of a hazelnut when ripe," and "the color of a walnut when mature." The eyes are variously described as "blue" and "grayish blue."

Scenes in Jerusalem.

JERUSALEM, March 29.—(AP)—Holy week has not been all peaceful worship in the Holy Land. Franciscans were prevented on Thursday from entering for their annual service in the chamber of the Lord's supper on Mount Zion by the chief of the Moslem family which owns it. One of the family who advocated permitting the services was beaten by his relatives. The police interfered, ordered the Franciscans away and posted a guard outside the chamber.

Another incident occurred at the Church of the Holy Sepulchre. Priests of the Coptic church were at service when Catholic priests entering for a mass noticed that they had moved a trifle beyond their allotted space. An encounter followed.

Skin Authority Discusses Removal of Common Blemish

Why brunettes should more frequently bear moles is a matter for speculation, the doctor agrees, but offers no light on the subject. But of moles, he advises that they be not rubbed, inflamed or tampered with, nor treated unless under the best medical direction.

Irritation increases their growth, which is one good reason for leaving them alone. A consciousness about them leads some women to pick at them or squeeze them, which habit should be discontinued immediately it is recognized.

Moles are objectionable only if they disfigure. Sometimes the hairless mole of a lightish color isn't a bit disfiguring. On the contrary, it has a touch of the "beauty mark" about it. But removals of moles should only be entrusted to physicians who, before removing them, will give some study to the best method of their removal.

The location, size, color, depth and tendency to growth are of great importance in the decision, Dr. Levin cautions. For small, shallow, light moles the electric needle may be sufficient. Others may need rather drastic surgery.

The greatest care should be observed so that one will not fall into the hands of a quack for the operation. A mole, Dr. Levin says, may or may not be malignant. It may or may not become malignant. But the danger is always there, so why take a chance with a quack?

If it is a disfigurement, however, why go through life with it, the skin specialist asks. A skilled up to date practitioner can remove it after thorough and scientific study. Your regular physician can recommend such a specialist, if one is needed.

Tact and Headwork Are Great Helps at Mealtimes

Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

It's rather an art to know just how much to expect of a child, especially a little one. Not too little, or he won't develop as he should—not too much or he'll be discouraged and you will, too. But intelligence and observation should make it possible for any mother to gauge this matter of a child's capacity for performance.

Now, you may never have had any of the eternal mealtime difficulties with your children, and I may not have had them with mine—I didn't—but the fact remains that they are to thousands of mothers a source of constant irritation, or worry, or real unhappiness. For those mothers whose babies are little it is wise to realize that like everything connected with a child, it is so much better if, instead of letting a bad habit get started, they can only instill a good one.

There are two points that should be of practical help when the baby begins to feed herself or himself—O, for a combination pronoun—but himself it will have to be, for convenience. Learning the use of a spoon is quite a feat in itself, and because it is so difficult the baby should not be reproved for spilling or accidents of other kinds at meals. Just watch him a little and you will realize how delicate a muscular operation it is to hold, and scoop, and raise, and keep level too, and aim at the mouth a spoonful of food. For a long, long time a child should be let alone to learn this manipulation. If he is scolded or constantly instructed he will come to have an unpleasant association with his meals and trouble may start.

The other point is, do not let him struggle through a whole meal feeding himself. You can easily sense when a little child tires of the effort, and then is the time for you to take hold and feed him the rest of the meal yourself. Otherwise, he will often leave part of his meal rather than work any longer over it. But a helping hand and a little jolly or interesting companionable talk from you will soon accomplish the last tucking away of a good nourishing quantity of food.

Spring Sounds 'Boots, Saddles' for Young Set

BY THALIA

The spring riding season for the youngsters belonging to the Onwentsia Riding club is to be started next Wednesday, with a long ride winding up with a "Bar-B-Q" lunch out on the banks of the Des Plaines river. The horses are to leave the stables at 11:30 o'clock in the morning, and the parents, as well as their children, are being cordially urged to accompany the party. Mrs. J. Andrews King is assisting Mrs. Olive Mead, who is in charge of the children's riding at Onwentsia, in getting spirit worked up for the affair.

Each year, the interest in riding has been increasing, especially among the youngsters, many of whom now own their own horses. Bunny Cushing, the Charles G. Cushings' daughter, the Donald McLennans' Catherine and Hayes, and the A. B. Dick Jr.s' son are acquiring steeds of their own this spring, and many more of the children are promised horses before the end of the summer. The gymkhana that was held last fall was such a success that those interested in promoting equestrianship are planning to have many more. The first one will probably be scheduled for late April or the early part of May, and thereafter, there is to be one the first Wednesday of every month, taking place at one of the polo grounds.

The Lake Foresters and their children who have been invited for the ride next Wednesday include the McLennans, the Robert Hixons and their Peggy, the Robert Gardners, the Cushings, the J. B. Forgans and Nancy, the William McCormick Blairs and their boys, the Farwells, Wintons and Anne, the David Dangler family, the Charles Glores, the Alfred Cartons, Mr. and Mrs. Mason Phelps, Patsy and Betty Keith, the Stanley Keiths' daughters, and Narcissa Thorne, the Robert J. Thornes' daughter who distinguished herself at most of last summer's shows.

Both are descendants of old Chicago families, Miss Beckwith being the granddaughter of Judge Corydon Beckwith, justice of the Illinois Supreme court, who came to Chicago in 1852, and Mr. Heile is a great grandson of Dr. Charles Volney Dyer who came to Chicago in 1838. The wedding is to take place sometime this summer.

The Drama league announces its 3d annual tournament of plays at the Goodman theater, to take place the week of May 6. Peterson and Mrs. Charles H. Besly of Hinsdale, and the Drama league cup, the gift of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick will be awarded to the final winner.

Calls "Tramp" Family Life Growing Factor in Chicago Conditions

"Tramp" families who make their temporary homes in a room or two in Chicago's furnished room areas are on the increase, despite the socially demoralizing influence and expense of such a mode of living, according to the survey by Mrs. Evelyn Heacock Wilson, a former worker for the United Charities. The results of her investigation for her master of arts dissertation on "Chicago Families in Furnished Rooms," were announced yesterday by the University of Chicago.

Analyzing 341 typical families living in furnished rooms, Mrs. Wilson came to the conclusion that social agencies should make a more determined effort to rehabilitate those families by inducing them to move into unfurnished flats and that the city council adopt a "rooming house code."

"Housing conditions in the rooming house areas are frequently very objectionable in regard to heat, light, plumbing and general repair," Mrs. Wilson stated. "Rents have increased tremendously, so that the typical light housekeeping flat of one room costs more than an unfurnished flat of four rooms.

"It is the unstable, irresponsible and shiftless family that is most likely to live in furnished rooms, and the influence of that type of living and of the neighborhoods in which rooming houses are found, is in the direction of increasing those traits. There is a close mingling of different types of families, those of the most degraded kind alongside some who still maintain standards of decency. This proximity may easily lead to the spreading of infectious diseases."

Farm and Garden

Garfield park's spring and Easter flower shop opens in the conservatory this morning and will last until April 14. There will be a total of 17,521 plants on display, representing 167 varieties of bulbs and flowering plants, according to August Koch, chief florist of Chicago's west park system.

The conservatory will be open each day from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. Admission is free and free guide service is offered to those who ask for it.

Visitors will have a chance to compare improved Holland tulips with some of the wild tulips of Asia. Such choice Holland varieties as Louis XIV. and Louis XVI., and sixty other varieties, are included in the tulip showing. There are twenty-nine tulip varieties of the old Bybloemen sort. Wild tulips to be exhibited include five species coming from Bokhara, Turkestan, Persia, Georgia in Asia, and the Caucasus.

Patterns by Clotilde

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

A scarfe tie completes the becoming neckline of this smart dress, helping to break the width through the bodice, thus making it so suitable for women with full figures. The wide girdle creates a snug hipline and the skirt is plaited each side of the center front, forming a panel that adds length to the silhouette. Sheer woolens, crêpe satin and crêpe de chine are materials suggested.

The pattern, 3450, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 40 inch material with 1⅝ yards of ribbon.

Rave About Stocks 'n' Bonds at Your Peril, Young Fellas!

BY DORIS BLAKE.

One way not to entertain a girl is to spend your evenings at her home telling her about your stock and bond investments, if you will believe "Nady." She's just dismissed, with her parents' full and hearty approval, a young man who U. S. Steel-ed himself out of her graces. Maybe it was Radio or Montgomery Ward, and not steel. Anyway, bank stock or government bonds wouldn't have saved him after some fifteen evenings on the family's hand carved davenport from which news of Wall street ran perpetual fire.

That, my boys, is no way to impart to a lady the idea that her company is charming, her frock becoming, and her ways adorable. Of course, if a profit were taken one Saturday morning and the young woman asked for a suggestion about where best to sow the rewards of a well placed investment, it might be something else again. But it's most inadvisable to sit and talk about everything that's coming in and give no slight clew that some of it could go out again.

And apropos the bored young woman's complaint—mightn't it suggest to other circles the conversational vacuity of stock and bond recitals? A young husband moved the hammer from its kitchen cabinet drawer to a handier position on the living room mantel to use, he explained, on the next person who came in their apartment to spend an evening and talked the money they made on the stock market. "It's tough enough," he added, "trying to get the hundred and ten for the rent without having it rubbed in all evening about your having no surplus for investment."

Perhaps what our country at this moment needs is a little more of that dignified silence anent money possessions that characterizes our foreign neighbors. It isn't good form, really, to parade one's holdings, be they stock, bond, real estate, or currency. Of course, we have the alibi that market quotations are featured as news in the paper and all news is conversational data fit for social occasion. It is, too, so long as the personal is left out, by which we mean bragging about one's own victories.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Everyone summering at this sandy shore wore tennis shoes, and 2 year old Johnny was also provided with a tiny pair of which he was very proud.

One cool day a stray dog wandered into the cottage and stretched out before the grate fire. Johnny examined him closely, and when he discovered the little black rubbery pads on the soles of his feet, exclaimed joyfully, "Puppy dog has tennis shoes, too."

J. N. G.

My neighbor has a small bungalow, so when her husband and four children came down with the flu, she had quite a time fixing separate beds and cots for them.

Mary was the last to come home sick and after her mother had improvised a bed on the davenport for her she said: "Muvver, if you had one more childs, what would you do?"

Detroit G. A. R. Post of 15 May Cease All Meetings

Detroit, Mich., March 29.—(AP)—Fifteen civil war veterans, all that are left of the pride of Detroit in civil war days, are to meet April 13 to decide whether they shall meet again. Some of the members, the youngest of whom is 84, think they are too old and say it is too difficult to get to the meetings. Even the commander, John L. Hinman, leader of those who favor continuing the post, admits there are difficulties. Seldom more than four or five attend, sometimes only two, so the post finds it hard to pay rent for the meeting place.

THOMPSONISM IS MADE ISSUE IN 2 WARD FIGHTS

Opponents Hurl Charges in 17th and 19th.

The political friendship of Mayor Thompson was injected into the aldermanic race last night as the issue on which Ald. James G. Coyle [17th] and [illegible] E. Northrup, a candidate in the Nineteenth ward, should go down to defeat, according to their opponents. Charges that the Seventh is being [illegible] with temporary city hall jobs to save Ald. Coyle and that the administration pay rollers in the Nineteenth have been told to work for Northrup came out as cardinal issues.

Thompsonism was brought to the fore in the Seventeenth by former Ald. Robert E. Barbee, characterized by the Municipal Voters' league during the 1926-27 term as a model alderman. Barbee's forces made the accusation that the city hall is moving in the pay rollers in an eleventh hour attempt to return the man who has "gone the entire route with the Thompson administration."

Mayor Promised Jobs.

"Two years ago the loud speaker was on full blast about 'Big Bill the Builder,'" said Mr. Barbee. "I recall that Thompson claimed that if he were elected there would be plenty of work for all on various public improvements which he would push. This claim won him many votes.

"But what happened? The Thompson administration proved so utterly corrupt and irresponsible that the voters have three times refused to approve big bond issues for public improvements, despite the fact that many of these improvements are badly needed and that it would create work for thousands of men and help business generally.

"There seems only one way out now and that is to elect enough anti-Thompsonites and responsible candidates to the city council and thus make a start towards better conditions in the city. 'Big Bill the Builder' turned out to be 'Big Bill the [illegible].'"

[illegible] Dog Race Track.

The Coyle candidacy is being managed by William J. Balmer, commissioner of compensation in the Thompson cabinet. Supporters of Barbee charge Balmer with being the principal owner of the dog race track operated last summer at Moline, Ill.

The Barbee headquarters also made public a statement from several prominent Chicagoans denying they had indorsed Coyle as had been announced by the latter. Those repudiating the supposed indorsement were H. H. Hay[illegible], managing director of the Greater North Side chamber of commerce; [illegible] Harry A. Lewis, Charles W. [illegible] and others.

John Rudin, treasurer of the Nineteenth Ward Citizens' association, placed the Thompson accusation against Mr. Northrup. For proof, he said that Charles Novak, Thompson-Crowe ward committeeman; Judge F. [illegible] Fairbank, former assistant state's attorney under Crowe; and Harold H. Baum, Thompson leader have come out for Northrup.

Judge Backs Herriott.

Northrup's opponent is Paul Herriott, who is backed by Judge Donald S. McKinley, formerly alderman from the ward. Judge McKinlay has issued a denial that Nortnrup is connected with the Thompson forces in any way.

"Northrup is not a Thompson candidate," the judge said. "There is more reason to call him a Thompson candidate than there is to cali [illegible] one. Northrup was for Dever in the last mayoralty contest and, if I remember correctly, the Deneen organization indorsed Thompson for mayor at that time.

"If any local Thompson men are supporting Northrup it is because his opponent is the Cruden-Deneen candidate—that is natural. I am satisfied that Mr. Northrup is under no obligation to any political group or individual."

In "America First" Drive.

Northrup is also charged with being a former active member of Thompson's "America First" organization and of having four automobiles in the parade that greeted the mayor on his return from California two years ago. The Herriott forces, in addition, accuse him of lauding the policies of Thompson and Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, at a Thompson meeting.

The Municipal Voters' league in its recommendations on the two said, "Both are acceptable candidates but the league believes that Herriott com[illegible] the better qualities for the position."

Frank J. Loesch, first assistant state's attorney, was the principal speaker at a rally in the 42d ward last night for Richard J. Prendergast, who is opposing Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe. Mr. Loesch urged the residents of the exclusive Gold Coast district to cast their ballots on April 2 and vigorously indorsed the candidacy of Mr. Prendergast.

"Parsifal" on Air Proves a Treat to Elmer

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The majestic music of Wagner's semi-religious music-drama, "Parsifal," presented at New York through several outside Chicago stations, including WLW, Cincinnati, and WOC, Davenport, from 10 to 11:20, must, by the very nature of things, be given precedence over everything else on the air last evening because of the impressiveness of its performance.

The beautiful preludes to the first and third acts, the mysterious beauty of the Good Friday Spell, and other portions in which soloists and a chorus are required came through with absorbing richness and splendor, making one regret that this broadcast was not handled by a Chicago station.

However, there were a few good Friday programs of note by Chicago stations, the most effective and original of which, in my estimation, was Pat Barnes' narration of twelve dramatic episodes in the life of Christ, from W-G-N, 9 to 9:30. Mr. Barnes related this tragic and sublime story unaffectedly, sympathetically, and with admirable good taste.

The weekly "An Evening in Paris" program, from New York through W-G-N, 8 to 8:30, was, unusual to say for them the least, a sacred concert, and they did nobly, so much so that I wish henceforth they would devote their talents to serious work.

The Little Brown Church quartet, WLS, 9:30 to 10, also gave a Good Friday song program that was enjoyable for us and creditable to the performers.

A tabloid performance of Dubois' "Seven Last Words" was given from New York through WMAQ, 70 to 7:30.

Alexander Brailowsky, one of the present day pianistic wizards, is to be one of the soloists on the Sunday evening W-G-N 8:15 to 9:15 concert from New York.

Woman Tries to Ride on Transfer Issued in 1893

A woman boarded a street car at 35th and State streets yesterday and presented a transfer to Conductor F. W. Rapp. Closer inspection disclosed that the transfer was good on a State street car and that the hour and day were correct, but that it was issued March 27, 1893. Concluding that 36 years was too long a stopover, Conductor Rapp felt in duty bound to make the lady pay another fare, but failed to get her name. The transfer bears the signature of C. H. Wheeler and was issued during the World's Fair just as electrification of street cars was becoming effective in Chicago.

URGES PRESS TO ABOLISH FREE RADIO PUBLICITY

Springfield, Ill., March 29.—(AP)—Calling upon newspaper editors to eliminate all free radio publicity and programs, W. W. Loomis, editor of the La Grange Citizen, today told members of the Illinois Press association that the development of radio broadcasting has given us no cause for great worry but "deserves our consideration."

"Newspaper advertising," he said, "has run the gamut of many forms of competition in the advertising field—direct mail, bulletin board, movie curtain, hand bills, trade papers, magazines, ad libitum, almost—and has clearly demonstrated its complete all around supremacy. And no doubt it will continue to do so.

"But to say that these various mediums have not cut into the revenue which would otherwise have reached the newspapers is, it seems to me, following a blind, illogical, unreasoning optimism. And to say that the new entrant in the field—radio broadcasting—is not likewise receiving some revenue which would otherwise reach the newspapers seems to me to be equally fallacious.

"Especially is that so when it is generally recognized that the popularity of radio programs and radio broadcasting, on which any advertising value is based, has been developed by the continuous, generous, indeed almost unlimited, publicity and boosts the newspapers have given, through the years, without pay and without price."

PULITZER WIDOW LEAVES ESTATE OF $2,640,528

New York, March 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Kate Davis Pulitzer, widow of Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the New York World, left an estate with a net value of $2,640,528. The appraisal, filed today, showed that the gross estate was $3,048,605 and that its largest item was securities worth $2,459,877.

Mrs. Pulitzer, who died at Deauville, France, July 29, 1927, held 800 shares of Pulitzer Publishing company stock, valued at $702,056. Her principal beneficiaries were her three sons, Ralph Pulitzer of Manhasset, Joseph Pulitzer of Clayton, Mo., and Herbert Pulitzer of New York.

A daughter, Mrs. Edith P. Moore of New York receives personal effects valued at $118,570, including 119 oriental pearls and a platinum ring. Another daughter, Mrs. Constance P. Elmslie of Colorado Springs, receives personal effects worth $37,805, including a $21,400 platinum and diamond corsage and a $10,000 platinum brooch.

Frederick W. Cooper, Head of Investment Firm, Dies

Frederick Worth Cooper, head of the mortgage investment firm of Cooper, Kanaley & Co., died at his home in Winnetka yesterday after an illness of several weeks. He was 51 years old. Funeral services will be held on Monday at the Sacred Heart church, Winnetka, followed by interment in All Saints' cemetery, Des Plaines. Mr. Cooper came to Chicago in 1900, following his graduation from the University of Illinois. He was a member of the Chicago Athletic association, the Midday club, and the Sunset Ridge Country club. He is survived by his widow, two sons, and a daughter.

Henry M. Fraser Dies; Chicagoan for 40 Years

Henry Milward Fraser, husband of Adeline Booth Fraser and father of William B. Fraser, died Thursday evening at his residence, 635 Woodland Park.

Mr. Fraser was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, and has lived in Chicago for more than forty years. He was associated for many years with Stevens & Co., one of the old time exporters of provisions, and for the last several years has been credit manager for Rittenhouse & Embree company. The funeral will be held from the home on Monday at 11 a. m.

Skin Blemishes cleared away in two weeks

Taunton, Mass.—"I have always had an unusually good complexion until a short time ago when a number of unsightly pimples appeared on my face. I tried every kind of soap I could thing of, but with no satisfactory results. Then I read about Resinol Soap and Ointment, and began at once to use them. In two weeks' time my skin was as clear and smooth as ever."

The Princess Line Is Still in Favor

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Yes, one may still show one's metal in the evening. Metallic effects continue to be good and the combination of silver and white is especially commendable. Anent the vogue of white for the dance frock and the formal décolleté one cannot say too much. Chiffon frocks in this immaculate tone are frequently chosen and also is white taffeta used by some of the greatest designers. As for satin back crêpe, this is stressed by Vionnet in all the ivory and off-white tones.

Today we show an evening gown which combines a long fitted corsage of white satin brocaded in silver with skirt ruffles of plain white satin. In speaking of this model one is bound to take cognizance of one fact. It is that the molded princess top of the evening gown has lingered significantly in the lap of spring. No matter how buoyant may be the skirt of the creation, it is apt to have its source in those fitted bodices of princess inspiration.

It looks very much as if the summer were going to provide us with more figured dance frocks than ever before. Chiffons and georgettes in all the newest and subtlest blendings of color and design are here to place but one more emphasis upon the vogue of the yellow and green range. Figured taffeta has been employed by Lanvin and by Louise Boulanger in bouffant creations. Moire is still in the picture. And also does figured tulle maintain its authority.

There are many lace dance frocks shown today, both in black and color. Sometimes these go even so far as to include a matching wrap, a fact which makes this type of frock more practical than ever.

He Remembered.

One day I was having baked potatoes for lunch and had fixed just enough for the family. As we were ready to go to the table two friends came in from a nearby town. Of course, we asked them to lunch and as we had other things my two children liked I whispered to them not to ask for any potatoes.

Our guests refused the potatoes and, rather than see them wasted, I asked the children if they cared for one, whereupon my little boy replied, throwing out his hand to emphasize the matter, "Now, you said 'Let the people eat the potatoes,' so let them eat them."

Not for Her.

It happened the day before Christmas. I arrived at the office and found a large box of candy on my desk. Thinking my employer had placed it there as a Christmas gift for me, I thanked him in my most gracious manner for the wonderful box of candy, but he replied, "O! That is not for you. I want you to mail that to——."

I still blush about it. C. D.

BUSINESS GIVES CONGRESS ITS FARM AID VIEWS

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Views of organized business interests on the question of farm relief were presented today to the senate and house committees on agriculture. William Butterworth of Moline, Ill., president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, was the spokesman.

This organization actively opposed the old McNary-Haugen type of legislation and Mr. Butterworth's statement indicated that it also is critical of the Hoover proposal for a large revolving fund for loans to stabilization corporations in dealing with the handling of crop surpluses.

Against New Credit Facilities.

"Our agricultural credit structure, particularly during recent years, has been given much study," he said. "Our membership has taken the position that the agricultural credit requirements of the United States should be met by full development and adaptation of existing agricultural credit facilities to local and commodity needs, rather than by the creation of new credit facilities."

"Such a board, in the opinion of our membership," he said, "could, among other things, inaugurate research into the problem of control and distribution of seasonal or annual surplus production, direct its attention to the formulation of farsighted policies for the most economic utilization of our lands, stimulate effort to the end of expanding foreign and domestic markets for agricultural products and developing new uses for farm products, by-products and waste."

Mr. Butterworth approved the principle of coöperative marketing, but said this was not to be interpreted as meaning advocacy of measures which are discriminatory against other forms of private enterprise.

Recommend Tariff Protection.

Other recommendations presented on behalf of the chamber of commerce included reasonable protective tariffs for farm products and a curtailment of new reclamation activities until an economic need for additional land is demonstrated.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, who is in Missouri, telegraphed Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], chairman of the senate committee, that he would not be able to return by Monday as he had planned. It is expected that Secretary Hyde will appear before both committees some time next week.

ROBBERS ESCAPE WITH $400.

Two armed men entered a Feltman & Curme shoe store at 818 East 63d street yesterday and escaped with $400 from the cash register after menacing H. A. Gilmore, the manager, and two employés.

SOLVE MYSTERY OF CHINA LEADER; PLAYS MAH JONG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 29.—The mystery as to whether Marshal Li Chai-sum, leader of the Kwangsi faction and chief political opponent of President Chiang Kaishek, is alive or dead apparently was solved tonight when T. V. Soong, minister of finance and brother-in-law of Gen. Chiang, announced that Marshal Li is still alive and that Wu Tze-hui, member of the Kuomintang, who threatened to end his life in event Marshal Li was executed, is also among the living.

Both are confined within the Tongshan club, a Chinese hot spring resort about twenty miles from Nanking. Mr. Soong said the pair are spending their time playing mah jong and apparently are unconcerned over the fact that their welfare has become an absorbing topic throughout China.

Clubhouse Guarded.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek has placed a heavy guard about the clubhouse, not permitting any one to approach nearer than half a mile unless in possession of a pass containing his personal signature. Gen. Chiang Kai-shek departed for the front this morning.

Owing to censorship, no definite reports of the war situation are available further than the announcement from Nanking that the Wuhan troops are retreating on the Anhwei border. The Wuhan forces are concentrating troops a short distance from Hankow.

It was reported today that Admiral Yates Stirling, commander of the Yangtze patrol, is returning to Washington immediately, and that Capt. Kenneth Castleman, chief of staff to Admiral Mark L. Bristol, has been appointed as successor to Admiral Stirling, while Commander William Bagley, operations officer of the Asiatic fleet, has been appointed as Admiral Bristol's chief of staff.

U. S. Gunboat on Rocks.

HANKOW, China, March 29.—(AP)—The new American river gunboat Tutuila struck a submerged rock in the gorges of the upper Yangtze river today near Wanhsien. Two compartments were flooded, but the ship's pumps controlled the water inflow. It will go to Shanghai for repairs.

CUBS MAY PLAY MONTH WITHOUT LEO HARTNETT

Gonzales Ready to Take Up Burden.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 29.—[Riding through the great Republican state of Texas with the Cubs.]—Our Cubs spent Good Friday viewing such landscape as afforded by this, the Union's most expansive commonwealth. Twenty-seven consecutive hours journeying in the state where it is a high crime to play authors or other card games while riding on a public conveyance.

Tomorrow the McCarthy boys will engage the Kansas City Blues in the first of two games to be played in Beaumont between the two clubs. Fred Blake, whose arm hasn't been as supple these last few weeks, will seek to determine the extent of his recuperation in tomorow's contest. If the sheriff isn't so strong as he and Manager Joseph think he is, Eddie [illegible] will be given another chance to show he is the possessor of major league talent, appraisal of the [illegible] still being catalogued under the head of unfinished business.

How About Hartnett?

Speaking of Mr. Blake's ailing arm reminds us that Gabby Hartnett, the domesticated spouse, probably will not be ready to appear in the opening games at Wrigley field. He hasn't caught a game this year and is not being pressed to try out his arm in competition, although he reports it is greatly improved. Mike Gonzales, however, is fitter than a fiddle, and continues to be the leading hitter on the club with a mark well over .500. He doubled the first two times up in yesterday's game against the Tigers. The Cubanola years ago established himself as one of the greatest in the game in the matter of handling and steadying erratic pitchers, so it is not felt the Cubs would suffer if Mike did all the catching for at least the first month of the season. None of the McCarthy pitching crew is in shape for the campaign so anything they get in superior direction from behind the plate will help like everything.

Despite the fact the athletes were cooped within the confines of their Pullmans, they reveled in the sight of the blistering sun that blazed down on the Texas plains. They have enjoyed but two hot days since leaving Catalina more than two weeks ago—at Tucson and Phoenix—and are staking hopes of early campaign success on the weather they get in five days at Beaumont and seven at Houston. The lack of conditioning among the pitchers does not apply to those gentlemen who compose the powerhouse gang. Cuyler, Hornsby, Wilson and Stephenson all are rarin' to go. Woody English hasn't been doing much hitting but he's been highly successful at getting on base, which is just as good.

[illegible] in Hitting Slump.

McMillan continues the best bet for the third base job. Mac was taken ill in El Paso yesterday and ran a high fever last night but today reported he felt much better and that he expected to play against the Blues tomorrow.

Capt. Charley Grimm hasn't done much hitting but it's simply because he hasn't got going. He's feeling fine and is in excellent physical condition. Beginning tomorrow, Manager McCarthy will ask his pitcher to go seven innings. This policy probably will prevail until the half way point in the week's series with the Houston Buffs, champions of the Texas league. Then the throwers will be tried over the full distance.

MAKERS OF GOLF BALLS CITED FOR UNFAIR BUSINESS

Washington, D. C., March 29.—(AP)—The charge that A. G. Spalding & Bros., sporting goods firm of New York, was paying leading professional golfers a yearly salary to use and recommend the firm's golf balls was made today in a complaint filed against the Spalding concern by the federal trade commission.

The complaint, which alleged unfair methods of competition, also charged that the Spalding firm gave many golf balls to leading players and to golf players employed as instructors.

"When said golf players win, or finish close to winners in golf tournaments," the complaint said, "respondent corporation or the corporations which it owned, controlled and managed caused advertisements to be placed in magazines of general circulation stating that the winners and those finishing close to the winners used the golf balls made by it or the corporations which it owned, controlled or managed, without disclosing that said players were obligated to use said balls, thus misleading and deceiving the public into belief that said players used said balls because of their superior quality." Hearing on the complaint was set for May 3 in Washington.

Morgan-Zorilla Ring Bout Postponed Until Thursday

Los Angeles, March 29.—[U. P.]—When Tod Morgan was forced out of action temporarily today because of a boil on the calf of his left leg, the bout in which he will defend his world's junior lightweight title against Santiago Zorilla was postponed from Tuesday to Thursday.

BOSTON BRUINS WIN IN HOCKEY TITLE BATTLE

14,000 See Rangers Drop Second Straight.

New York, March 29.—[Special.]—The Boston Bruins took the Stanley cup away from the New York Rangers tonight, winning, 2 to 1, before 14,000 spectators at Madison Square Garden. This was the first battle for the hockey title ever fought between two teams from this side of the border.

The Bruins carried off the prize in two straight games, having won on Thursday night at Boston by 2 to 0. The Rangers defeated the Montreal Maroons last year in a gruelling series to bring the prize to the United States for the first time. They eliminated the Boston Bruins in the semi-finals.

Carson's Goal Clinches Victory.

It was only after a dazzling third period, however, that Boston wrested the cup from the previous champions. Les Patrick's men went into the final session one goal behind, and there seemed to be every likelihood that they would stay there because of the strong Boston defense. Butch Keeling, hero of two of the playoff games that landed the Rangers in the final series, then counted in 6 minutes and 48 seconds after Harry Oliver had scored in 14.01 of the second period.

The rather slim crowd for a championship game roared itself hoarse at Keelings' achievement and was looking forward to overtime and perhaps sudden death play, when Bill Carson dashed their hopes with a flashy shot with two seconds less than two minute to go in the final session.

Betting Odds Shift.

The Bruins opened favorites in the betting at odds 8 to 5, but just before action started 7 to 5 could be had in favor of Boston. The lineup:

| BOSTON [2]. | Position. | RANGERS [1]. |
|---|---|---|
| T. Thompson | Goal | Roach |
| Shore | Defense | Abel |
| Hitchman | Defense | Johnson |
| W. Carson | Center | Boucher |
| Oliver | Wing | Bill Cook |
| Gallbraith | Wing | Bun Cook |
| Mackay | Spare | Murdoon |
| Welland | Spare | P. Thompson |
| Owen | Spare | Keeling |
| Denneny | Spare | Vail |
| Clapper | Spare | Oatman |
| Lane | Spare | S. Carson |
| Kleon | Spare | Bourgault |
| Gainor | Spare | |

First period—No scoring.
Second period—1, Boston, Oliver, 14:01.
Third period—2, Rangers, Keeling, 6:48; 3, Boston, W. Carson, 18.02.

Penalties—First period: Hitchman, 2; W. Carson, Abel, 2 minutes each. Second period: Bill Cook, Oliver, Shore, Bun Cook, 2 minutes each. Third period: Shore, 2 minutes.

HINCH SETS NEW U. S. SWIM MARK; THEN LOSES IT

St. Louis, March 29.—(AP)—Two records fell in the preliminaries of the sixth annual national collegiate swimming meet in Wilson pool at Washington university here tonight. E. J. Moles of Princeton, set a new national collegiate mark in the 200 yard breast stroke at 2:57.4, which ties his national intercollegiate time.

In the first heat of the 150 yard breast stroke, Richard Hinch of Northwestern set a new national collegiate mark with 1:55.5, only to lose it in the second heat when George Kojac, Rutgers, clipped three more seconds off for a record of 1:51.

The finals will be held tomorrow

ST. LOUIS PREPS DEFEAT CRANE TECH FIVE, 28-22

The Soldan High school team, city prep basketball champions of St. Louis, made a clean sweep of the intercity series with Crane Tech, Chicago titleholders, by defeating the west siders at the Crane gym last night, 28 to 22. The Soldan team nosed out Crane, 23 to 21, in the first game of the series at St. Louis last week.

The Crane team took an early lead and held it through the half, which ended three points in their favor. Soldan returned in the third quarter and led at the end of it, 17 to 11. Joe Rief, Crane star, played only a few minutes. He injured his ankle in the first game at St. Louis.

MAROON QUARTET CRACKS MILE MARK

The University of Chicago one mile relay team which set a new meet record of 3:18.3 in the Texas relays at Austin yesterday. Left to right, they are: Norman Root, Harold Haydon, Ed Schulz, and Virgil Gist. The Maroon two mile team made it a double victory by hanging up a new mark in their event. Both teams will compete in the Southern Methodist university games today.

5,000 Cheer as Kid Bowlers Defeat Florals in A. B. C.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Five thousand bowling fans jammed Dexter Park pavilion last night to watch the Duffy Florals of Chicago, premier quintet in the United States, roll their three games in the American Bowling congress.

After the first game those same 5,000 who filled all seats, sat on steps and stood along the rails guarding the seats, remained to cheer a bunch of kids from Roseland, bowling on the next alley, who beat out the champions.

The Duffy Florals began like a bunch of world beaters with a first game total of 1,048, and the kids, only one of whom is over 21, bowling as the Lindsay Hy-Lo team, finished like thoroughbreds. The kids began with a poor 870 game, but as the Florals fell to 925 and 962 in their next two games, the youngsters hit 1,012 in their second game and 1,075 in their last game.

Can't Make First Ten.

The Florals' total for the three games was 2,935, while the Roseland team shot 2,957. Neither was enough to land in the first ten, though errors in the last frame of the last game cost the youngsters a place among those leaders. Though they didn't hit the pins for a 3,000 count, they made up for it in the thrills they gave the audience in series of strikes.

The crowd paid them back as they finished, for when their final total was posted the spectators stood up and yelled like a college football crowd.

Regular Is Absent.

Only one wail came from the youngsters, despite the bad luck of that first game, and that from Vandercoy, not for himself but for his team and the man he had replaced. Tony Miller, the fifth regular on the team, broke a finger a couple of weeks ago and Vandercoy rolled as a substitute. Vandercoy was grieving for the other members of the team, something in the style of: "If only Miller had been able to shoot in place of me."

The Florals, as befitting kings of the alleys, began their games on alley No. 29 by paying slight attention to the team of youngsters on alley No. 30. Perhaps their attitude was even a bit supercilious, and there was only one hint to justify they were wrong in the first game. Every member of the Florals except Marino rolled better than 200 in the first game, and he hit 191, while the only threat from the kid team was by Barker, who, without an open frame, including five consecutive strikes, rolled 234. Hasselmann hit 196, but the others were weak.

Florals Miss Head Pin.

Then began the fireworks. The Florals, who hadn't an error in their first game, ran into an epidemic of missing the head pin. They picked up their spares, but spares are a necessity. Without strikes, spares don't make for the highest counts in bowling. In the second game the Florals had three errors and in the third two. They drew four splits in the first game, Marino picking up a 6-7 split, six in the second game, and five in the last.

Meanwhile, in their second game the Roseland youngsters had begun to crash the pins like veterans, and the crowd, seeming to sense the dramatic possibilies, began to cheer their every strike and groan with their every split or cherry. Nor did the kids fail their friends in the stands. Starting with 60 in the third frame, Bishton hit five successive strikes and finished the game with 237. Barker had four doubles and rolled 203, while the other three weren't much short of 200.

The Florals had piled up a lead of 178 pins in that first game, but in the second the lads from Roseland cut it to 91 pins, and the third game began to assume the proportions of a duel, with such other considerations as A. B. C. prize money forgotten.

Then the Kids Sailed Along.

In that pinch of battle the kids refused to crack, but began to go even better. Barker and Valleyfield began with "turkeys"—three strikes in succession—while Bishton, again with 60 in the third frame, again hit five consecutive strikes. Barker ran into two splits in the sixth and seventh, but turkeyed for 201. Vandercoy, the substitute, hit 162, and Hasselmann, without an open frame and two doubles, went the route from the ninth frame, four consecutive strikes for 237. Valleyfield improved his opening turkey with a fourth strikes, spared and then added three more strikes, and finished with 241. Their 1,075 total was the fifth highest game rolled in the tournament.

In the final frame, four of the five youngsters failed to get strikes when strikes meant the count that would put their team up among the leaders. Perhaps the strain was beginning to tell. But, spotting the nation's best tournament team 178 pins in the first game, they beat them out by 22 pins. That should be glory enough.

Maroons, Illini Clip Marks in Texas Games

Austin, Tex., March 29.—[Special.]—Record-breaking performances by teams representing the Universities of Illinois and Chicago, together with brilliant work in the individual events by Claude Bracey of Rice institute, Sammy Behr of Wisconsin, and Tom Warne of Northwestern, featured the fifth annual Texas relays here today.

The Illini quartet of Orlovich, White, Stine, and Abbott hung up a new intercollegiate mark in the four mile university relay with a time of 17 minutes 40 2-10 seconds for the distance. The old mark of 17:45 was made by an Illinois team in 1922.

Illini Set Another Mark.

Timm, Burkhart, Cave, and Patterson gave Illinois its second relay victory in the quarter by turning in a time of 42 seconds for a new meet record. Kansas and Ohio State tied for second place in this event, while Indiana brought another Western conference team into the limelight by finishing second to the Illinois team in the four mile event.

The outstanding individual performance of the day was made by Claude Bracey of Rice institute, Houston, Tex., who tied the world record of 9.5 seconds in the 100 yard dash to beat out George Simpson of Ohio State in the final heat. Bracey, a member of last year's Olympic team, had won his earlier heat in 9.6.

Chicago Wins Easily.

University of Chicago runners established two new meet marks in winning the one mile and two mile university relays. The Maroon runners ran away with the latter event, outdistancing Missouri and Nebraska in 7 minutes 53.2 seconds. In the mile event the Chicagoans set another new mark of 3 minutes 18.3 seconds to beat out Missouri and Northwestern.

The University of Illinois half mile quartet turned in another meet record shortly afterward when they ran the distance in 1:27 5-10. Texas university placed second, while Ohio State finished third.

Iowa State contributed its usual relay performance by winning the university medley relay, a new event this year, in 10:39. The Ames four, Engle, Christenson, Putnam, and Hoak, outdistanced Iowa and Chicago to win.

Nurmi Runs Exhibition.

The duel between the two western conference rivals, Tom Warne of Northwestern and Henry Canby of Iowa, was undecided when both soared over the bar in the pole vault at 13 feet 3½ inches for a new meet record. Another record in the individual events was established by Sammy Behr of Wisconsin in the shotput. The Badger hurled the weight 48 feet 5 inches.

In a special two mile exhibition run Paavo Nurmi, holder of the majority of the world's distance records, turned in a time of 9:23.8 minutes. His record, 9:17.

Scoring a total of 5,238¼ points in the seven events, Robert Todd of Indiana university won the all around title. It was the first time the all around championship had been decided at the relays here. Tom Churchill, versatile Oklahoma university athlete, and Leo Baldwin of Texas university tied for second place with 5,204½ points. The latter, who set a new meet record for the discus throw in the open events, was leading for the all-around title until the 800 yard run, in which he finished last.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

It was the general opinion of those who saw the bout that Loughran was entitled to the verdict by a wide margin and that Walker won only one round. The few who contended that Mickey should have been given at least a draw gave credit to his aggressiveness. Although the 160 pound champion forced the milling in some rounds, he missed by large margins with right and left hooks. Meanwhile Loughran was using his straight left effectively and piled up a big lead.

Not a Slugging Match.

The fight was not the slugging match expected. Loughran fought a careful and intelligent fight. He allowed Walker to swing himself out of position with wild punches and then Tommy jumped in to score with two and three left jabs without returns. Loughran always had his right hand ready for a cross or hook.

Punches cannot be landed in any fight unless an opponent is within range. On only a few occasions was Loughran within range when Walker unleashed left hooks and right crosses. Tommy either stepped inside these punches or pulled back out of harm's way. Mickey landed a few times.

Loughran departs for Philadelphia today. He has several matches pending. Walker intends to leave for Rumson, N. J., this morning. Manager Jack Kearns will board a train tonight for the coast, where he intends to make final plans for the world's middleweight championship bout between Walker and Ace Hudkins. The fight will be held in Los Angeles during the summer.

Kearns Protests Decision.

Kearns appeared before the commission yesterday and protested the decision. The boxing commission refused to consider the protest. Kearns charged that Walker should have been given the decision because of his aggressiveness. Chairman Paul Prehn stated it has always been the policy of the commission to back up its officials, and he was of the opinion the decision was fair.

Golden Gloves Squad Arrives Home Today

Albany, N. Y., March 29.—[Aboard Special Car, Twentieth Century.]—The Chicago amateur boxing party of 27 persons, including the sixteen participants and three alternates, left New York this afternoon and will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning at 9:45. Despite the reverse suffered Wednesday night, the boys are cheerful, and as the train traveled up the banks of the Hudson they viewed the Palisades to the music of a portable phonograph presented and placed in their special car as a last token of hospitality by the New York News, which jointly with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, sponsored the intercity bouts.

Most of the boys are glad to be homeward bound after their day of sight seeing yesterday. None carry any evidence of their strenuous encounters beyond an occasional patch of adhesive tape covering a minor cut. While vanquished heroes cannot be expected to show the same enthusiasm as if they were returning as winners, the pleasure of eating anything they like in the special diner instead of following a training regime lessens natural depression.

Members of the team arose slightly later than the usual hour, and after breakfast at the Knights of Columbus hotel took a walk about the city, returning for lunch at 1 o'clock. Then they packed up and were taken to the train in a special motor bus.

At the station representatives of the New York News who came to say goodby were presented with a round robin signed by every member of the team expressing appreciation for the courtesies, attention and entertainment except, of course, that of Wednesday night. Then the conductor shouted, "All aboard," and the Chicago-New York intercity visit of 1929 was over.

Miss Van Wie Wins Tourney at Pinehurst

Southern Pines, N. C., March 29.—[Special.]—Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago obtained partial revenge today for the severe beating she received at the hands of Miss Glenna Collett in the national women's championship at Hot Springs, Va., last fall.

The Chicago girl won the annual midsouth women's championship, a medal play test of thirty-six holes, with scores of 80—82, three strokes better than the national champion, who took an 80 today and an 85 yesterday. Billy Hicks, school girl player of Hewlitt Park, L. I., finished third with scores of 86—81 to lead Miss Marion Turpie, southern women's champion, by a stroke.

Miss Van Wie's start was anything but auspicious. The putting touch which helped her reach the turn in 38 yesterday had deserted her, and, although she accounted for par figures on the first two holes, she slipped over par figures on the third and then registered three consecutive sixes. The Chicago girl staged a comeback to finish the last three holes to the turn in men's par for a nine hole total of 41.

The return journey found Miss Van Wie adding another 41, but it represented a much steadier brand of golf. With a chance to get in under the four score mark, she took four consecutive fives on the final holes. The five on the fifteenth represented a well played par, but she was one over the regulation figures on each of the last three holes. Miss Van Wie's cards:

Iowa Rifle Team Takes Lead in Big Ten Race

Iowa City, Ia., March 29.—(AP)—University of Iowa assumed leadership in the Big Ten conference rifle shoot by defeating Ohio State, 1,377 to 1,370, in a telegraph match this week, results announced today showed. The Hawkeyes have won four matches and lost none. They have yet to meet Illinois and Indiana. Ohio State, with three wins and one loss, was in second place.

HARMON SAYS STADIUM PROFIT IS 'REASONABLE'

Tommy's Bonus May Cut Total.

BY DON MAXWELL.

Tommy received the disappointing news in the form of a statement on attendance and receipts of Thursday night's show at the Chicago Stadium inaugural. Issued by Paul Prehn, chairman of the Illinois boxing commission, it read:

|---|---|---|
| [1] | Attendance | 14,554 |
| [2] | Gross receipts | $186,267 |
| [3] | Net receipts | 141,890 |
| [4] | Loughran's split | 78,039 |
| [5] | Walker's purse | *50,000 |
| [6] | Purse for semi-windup | †25,000 |
| [7] | What Loughran had left | 15,539 |

Loughran Makes No Comment.

The light heavyweight champion did not issue any statements, but none doubted that he was disappointed. Loughran had expected the gross receipts Thursday night to be around $300,000. And with that hope he had counted on taking approximately $100,000 back home.

No champion of recent record ever made less money on a title fight than did Loughran. But the distinction is one which Loughran would rather not claim.

Joe Smith, manager of the Loughran entourage, attempted to assuage Tommy's feelings by reminding the champion that P. T. Harmon already had paid Loughran a $25,000 bonus for signing with the Chicago Stadium corporation. But Tommy refused to let this sunbeam pierce the gloom.

Return Was Satisfactory.

While Loughran was taking up notches in his pocketbook Mr. Harmon was attempting to balance the books of the stadium corporation for a report to his millionaire directors.

"While we didn't have the crowd or receipts hoped for, the show wasn't a financial flop," Mr. Harmon protested. "The corporation had $63,851 left after deductions for taxes and Loughran's 55 per cent. Now, out of that the Stadium had to pay $12,500 as its share of the semi-windup between Griffith and Lomski. The preliminaries cost less than $6,000, and $25,000 will cover the expenses of opening the Stadium, advertising, ushers, light, etc., not only for the Loughran battle but for the circus which moved in after the fight.

"We can't tell yet just how much money we made. It wasn't as much as we wanted to take in, but it was a fair profit, all things considered.

"We weren't as concerned over holding expenses down as we were on getting started under auspicious circumstances, and I'm sure our directors will be satisfied with the financial report."

Stadium Well Advertised.

Mr. Harmon is convinced that the new stadium was thoroughly advertised by the opening night show. In fact, he says the corporation spent several thousand dollars on expenses of out of town newspaper writers. He brought some from the west coast, some from New York. This, to his way of figuring, was money well spent. Rickard, he says, used to do the same thing, and whether or not it was ethical for newspapers to accept the invitations is none of Mr. Harmon's business, anyway.

|---|---|
| STADIUM'S SHARE OF RECEIPTS | $63,851 |
| Stadium's Expenses. | |
| Half of semi-windup purse | $12,500 |
| Cost of preliminary bouts | 6,000 |
| Opening night expenses | 15,000 |
| Total expenses | $33,500 |

On this basis the stadium corporation would show a profit of $30,000 on the fight. Then there is one item of expense left unaccounted for.

When Harmon signed Loughran to meet a heavyweight the Chicago Stadium corporation gave Tommy a bonus of $25,000. Then Harmon was unable to match Loughran and a suitable heavyweight opponent. But unwilling that anything should come up that might cause Loughran to back out from fighting at the stadium, Harmon and Smith came to a verbal understanding that Loughran might keep the $25,000, but that when he fought again for Harmon deductions would be made in his purse. These deductions were to continue until the $25,000 had been returned.

If Loughran does fight again for the Chicago Stadium the latter corporation stands a chance to get some, maybe all of that bonus advance back in its treasury.

If Loughran shouldn't fight again for Mr. Harmon, or in the event that he fought and his share of the purse wasn't large enough to make the refund, then it would appear that the stadium corporation is out $25,000.

If the $25,000 were deducted now the stadium's profit on the opening night would be approximately $8,000.

Harmon Is Satisfied.

This you may say for Mr. Harmon. Despite the discrepancy between the actual attendance and his estimated overflow crowd, and the shrinkage of the actual gross receipts from the estimated $300,000 to the actual $186,000, Harmon remains calm. He has taken too many on the chin to take the count now.

"We would have had a full house," Paddy said last night, "if that darned fire hadn't broken out at 8:15. There were at least 10,000 folks outside trying to get in when the firemen arrived. They stopped the crowd from coming in, and most of those outside went home."

Summed up, Mr. Harmon wants it understood that whatever the stadium did or did not make Thursday night, he is satisfied that the big venture was successfully launched.

Town of 45 Sends Team to U. of C. Meet

Joes, Colo., March 29.—(AP)—Nine farmer boys of this village of 45 souls today were bound for Chicago with high hopes of returning with the title of national interscholastic basketball champions.

The Joes team swept through the cream of Colorado's high school basketball teams to a state championship and also trimmed the reserve college team from the University of Colorado.

Inhabitants of Yuma county gave the youngsters a noisy sendoff. A demonstration awaited them at Wray, about 40 miles from here, where they will board the nearest train.

Boasts Two Giants.

The Joes team is concentrated around a powerful offensive pair, Hall, center, who stands six feet four, and Snyder, forward, six feet three. Observers rate the Joes team as even better than the quintet from Windsor, Colo., which won the national title a few years ago.

The Joes squad crumpled the strong team from Fort Collins — the town famed for its track and field stars, who hold the national high school championship—under a 37 to 14 score in the final game for the state title. Joes won 37 of its 38 games this season.

Two years ago they were playing basketball at Joes on a gravel court, but a new coach, R. L. Sullivan, a former newspaper reporter, aroused interest in the game on Main street and a new gymnasium was built. Basketball became the popular sport in the community school, which draws on surrounding farm districts for its attendance of 66 boys and girls.

How They Play.

Joes team plays a combination man to man zone defense game. Nikkel, running mate of Snyder as forward, has distinguished himself for his unerring basket-shooting. The two tall mainstays, Snyder and Hall, often monopolize the play when the ball gets under the basket.

Other players on the team are Vaughn, Hudiburgh, White, Browning, Scofield and Burkhardt.

BASEBALL HITS M'GRAW; ESCAPES WITH A BRUISE

San Antonio, Tex., March 29.—(AP)—John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, was dazed momentarily when struck on the head by a wildly thrown ball as he sat on the New York bench today before the start of the game against Pittsburgh. The Giant chieftain escaped serious injury only because he saw the ball coming just in time to dodge sufficiently to prevent its crashing into his temple. As it was, McGraw suffered a slight bruise.

Yale Totals 14½ Points to Win 2d Fencing Title

New York, March 29. — (AP) — Yale won the three weapon championship of the Intercollegiate Fencing association here today for the second successive season, scoring a total of 14½ points. Navy was second with 13 and Army third with 12. Columbia qualified for the finals only in foils and sabers, but nevertheless took fourth place with ten points.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 29.—[Special.]—Belleau, at 7 to 1 in the betting, scored his second victory in as many days when he triumphed in the Pinellas purse at Keeney Park this afternoon. He beat the odds on choice Waffles by a nose in a slashing finish. The race was at a mile and a sixteenth.

Waffles, leading on the last turn, was worn down in the stretch and weakened in the last sixteenth to let Belleau get up in almost his final stride to win. Convey held Waffles under slight restraint in the first half mile, while Belleau made the pace. Reaching the stretch turn, Convey let Waffles out and he took command immediately.

Jockey Knight on Belleau set his charge down at this point and closed up the length advantage which Waffles had taken. Waffles continued to lead by a scant half length to the sixteenth pole when Belleau came on with a determined rush and, as Waffles weakened under the drive, Belleau came abreast and then stuck his nose out and got the decision at the line of finish.

Fishermen to Hold Annual Dinner Tonight

BY BOB BECKER.

Approximately 500 fishermen, campers, big game hunters and other outdoor fans will open up the indoor fishing season tonight when the Fisherman's club of Chicago holds its twenty-second annual banquet in the Morrison hotel.

Although most of the outdoor fans attending this meeting will be Chicagoans, Indiana, Wisconsin and Michigan will send delegations suffering from both spring and fishing fever. Douglas Malloch, Chicago poet and humorist, will act as toastmaster. Dr. Henry Baldwin Ward, president of the Izaak Walton league and othed well known outdoorsmen are scheduled to speak. Motion pictures of fishing also will be shown.

This annual gathering of outdoorsmen comes just about one month before the trout season in the middle west, as both Wisconsin and Michigan, two states with thousands of miles of trout streams, tilt the lid on brook, rainbow and brown trout the morning of May 1.

Illinois fishermen do not have to wait until May 1 to go fishing with rod and line, because this state permits the taking of pickerel [northern pike] and pan fish just as early in the spring as the eager angler wishes There is no law against spring fishing for species found in this state with the exception of the black bass. The season on bass does not open until June 15. Inasmuch as we have virtually no brook trout in Illinois brooks and streams, fishing for this species does not get on to the calendar.

Fisher Meets Malkow in C. A. A. Mat Show Tonight

Sox Pile Up 15 to 1 Score; Reynolds Leads Bombardment

Ennis, Tex., March 29.—[Special.]—The White Sox held batting practice here today at the expense of the local shop employés of the Southern Pacific railroad and defeated the trainmen, 15 to 1.

The Hose collected 19 hits off two local pitchers, three of them being home runs over the short right field fence. Each came with two men on bases. Two of them were off the bat of Carl Reynolds. Hunnefield got the third. George Cox and Ed Walsh Jr. held the locals to six scattered hits.

The Sox played errorless ball despite a diamond that resembled a rock pile. A box car was furnished for dressing purposes, and four of the Sox, finding no room in the improvised dressing room, discovered an undertaking establishment that served as dressing quarters.

Bill Cissell returned to the game after an absence of a week. Alex Metzler made four hits to lead the attack.

The Sox go to Fort Worth tomorrow for their third spring game with the New York Giants, who broke camp at San Antonio today. Big Bob Weiland will be the starting pitcher. The Sox and Giants will conclude the series Sunday in Dallas.

Tuffy Seeks Title Battle with Loughran

Griffith showed much class against the experienced Lomski, who has met most of the leading 175-pounders. Tuffy did not hesitate to trade punch for punch, and he connected several times with solid right crosses to the jaw. O'Keefe said he has received several offers from eastern promoters for Griffith to meet Lomski.

Jim Mullen Returns.

Promoter Harmon expects to stage another boxing show in his arena late next month. He has not decided upon a card, but expects to announce the principals in the main event within the next ten days.

James C. Mullen, the local promoter, returned yesterday from New York and announced his next show will be staged in the Coliseum on April 30. Mullen plans to match Otto Von Porat, the Norwegian heavyweight, with either K. O. Christner of Akron, O., or Jim Maloney of Boston.

Earl Mastro, the local 123-pounder, has been matched to meet Archie Bell of Brooklyn in Madison Square Garden on April 26. Earl will return today from Los Angeles, where he recently defeated Young Nationalista.

Lupton, Star N. U. Matman, Loses Title

Columbus, O., March 29.—(AP)—One defending champion was dethroned and another was victorious in the first and second round matches of the second national collegiate wrestling tournament at Ohio State university today.

Ralph Lupton of Northwestern, his national title at 125 pounds challenged by 13 competitors, lost in the second round to Dick Cole of Iowa State college. Cole had a time advantage of one minute, 45 seconds.

Earl McCready, Oklahoma A. and M. heavyweight, and a member of the Canadian Olympic team, won a first round match from C. Swanson of Wisconsin in defense of his national title.

Nebraskan Twice Injured.

Semi-final matches in all eight weights were held tonight with the finals and bouts for second and third places, scheduled for tomorrow. Sixty-one athletes from 25 universities and colleges in 12 states constituted the record breaking entry.

Oklahoma A. and M., with entries in all eight weights, and Michigan's Big Ten championship squad, with six men entered, appeared to be team title favorites.

Purdue Matman Loses.

Michigan's team piled up four points by registering falls, while Oklahoma A. and M. scored two. Wrestlers from Wisconsin, Nebraska, Ohio State, Oklahoma university, Mechanics institute and West Virginia scored one fall each.

Lupton and O. W. Hooker of Purdue, an entry in the 165 pound class, were the only Big Ten champions who lost during the afternoon. Hooker bowing to Conrad Caldwell of Oklahoma A. and M.

Competition in the 115 and 175 pound classes did not start until tonight owing to the few entries at those weights.

MARQUETTE TO START DRILLS.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 29.—[Special.]—Spring football will get under way at Marquette university Tuesday, with the conclusion of the Easter holidays.

The Greatest SAFETY Crusade Since the Inception of the Automobile

Unsafe automobiles are a menace on any street or highway. Aside from being a hindrance to safer and faster transportation, there is a real danger to the owner of such a car as well as other cars and to pedestrians, police officers—the men who constantly strive to keep the public out of danger. The unsafe car is doomed—as it should be.

The hundreds of used cars which will be destroyed by fire this evening in Grant Park have been donated by affiliated dealers of this association as their contribution towards the removal of unsafe automobiles from the road. Through this fire, they will be rendered useless for further service. It is a concrete example of our sincerity. Its cost will reach away into the thousands. It is a start in the right direction. It represents the voice of thousands upon thousands of men, women, children, the thinking motorists, and it is our opinion that this safety crusade will do more than any other idea or suggestion which has prevailed to date to promote security of life and limb on the road.

Duplicates of these same automobiles are everywhere. Generally, they can be told by their inability to come to a halt at "Through Streets" or lack of respect for "Stop" signals, and their apparent indifference in getting under way again is always noticeable. It might be an old high-grade car, a cheap car, or a ten-dollar special with a penchant for striking up a scraping acquaintance with any "good-looking" car. Keeping up with present-day traffic is a man's size job for motors and chasses. A safe automobile meets those requirements.

A police officer will stop you for driving without lights, yet the unsafe car goes grinding along. Trucks are prohibited from the boulevards for safety's sake—why not prohibit the unsafe automobile from any street?

Plan to see this gigantic safety demonstration tonight in Grant Park. Bring the family along. You'll watch it for hours. Nothing like it has ever been attempted in Chicago. See the aeroplane bomber start the fire. Come early. Own a safe automobile. Buy it from a reliable dealer. Affiliated dealers of the Chicago Automobile Trade Association invite you to call at their showrooms and inspect their stock of safe automobiles during Used Car Thrift Week—beginning tomorrow.

Chicago's exposition of one phase of "a dog's life" began yesterday when the 28th annual show of the Chicago Kennel club opened at the First Regiment armory. Behind the swinging wire doors of the long rows of cages, 759 dogs, from 200 pound St. Bernards to tiny but perky black and tan terriers, look at spectators with appealing eyes, awaiting their turn in the judging ring. Only one is allowed the run of the show, a friendly shaggy mongrel with a little red box on his back for contributions to Orphans of the Storm, a dog refuge.

The armory is bedlam. Yaps, howls, and barks mingle, producing a continuous overtone of noise that becomes a roar when some big dog is led down an aisle between cages of strange dogs. All join in the noisy welcome.

48 Breeds Are on Display.

Forty-eight breeds are represented at the show, including such rare dogs as Afghan hounds and others, once popular but now seldom seen, like pugs, Irish water spaniels, dachshundes, St. Bernards, and Whippets. The toy dogs are gathered in their silk lined kennels on the balcony, while the man sized dogs cover the main floor.

Eight Irish wolfhounds, more than [illegible] inches tall at the shoulder, weighing up to 150 pounds, appear worthy foes for any timber wolf. Twenty-six Great Danes equal them in size and apparent power, along with the other big fellows such as Chesapeake Bay dogs, Borzois [Russian Wolfhounds] Old English Sheepdogs, and of course the St. Bernards.

Entries Indicate Fads.

Wire haired fox terriers lead in entries with 75 whiskered face dogs in the show, with shepherds (German police dogs) and Boston terriers next with 62 each. Tendencies in fads of dogs are indicated by the entries. Forty-one setters of the three varieties compare with 21 pointers. Springer spaniels seem to be coming up with [illegible] dogs in the show and Schnauzers also appear to be catching popular fancy, while the old favorite English bull terrier entry of 16 seems to indicate the "white one" is staging a comeback. Apparently there aren't as many collies as in former years.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Before the fire there was erected on the east side of Dearborn, near Madison and across from Chadwick's Varieties, a theater called the Temple of Minstrelsy. It was opened by Emmerson, Allen and Manning, minstrels. Johnny Allen, the dancer, dropped out, and they were known as Emmerson and Manning.

There, until the time of the fire, could be seen such performers as John R. Kemble, interlocutor (his wife, Ella Kemble, was leading lady at McVicker's); Joseph Murphy in a bone solo and later a play of his own called "Help"; Bob Hart, stump speaker; Frank Bowler, cornet soloist; Ricardo, female impersonator; Sadi Djalma, contortionist; Mike Kagnane, Stevie Rogers, Master Eddie, Billy Meaney, dancers; Hogan and Hughes, song and dance team.

Just before the fire R. M. Hooley's minstrels came from the east and opened at Bryan hall, now the Four Cohans, with Johnson and Powers, song and dance team; Bobbie Newcomb, Emmerson's rival; Hughey Doherty, stump speaker, and others. Jay Ess Bee.

Back about 1900 the Wellington hotel, like the Holland house in New York, was one of the best places in which to eat. You could lunch in the basement on a great big juicy filet mignon a la Stanley for 50 cents. And with the steak came a fine big baked potato and stacks of bread and butter.

Illini Defeat Millsaps Nine by 4-3 Score

Jackson, Miss., March 29.—[Special.] Capt. Don Andrews of Chicago hurled his Illini nine to their first baseball victory of the season here today, the visitors defeating Millsaps college, 4 to 3. Andrews was invincible until the ninth when three hits, two of them doubles, gave the Millsaps a pair of runs. Until the ninth Andrews allowed one hit. He whiffed ten of the local batsmen.

Don Brown's homer to deep center field in the first half of the ninth proved to be the deciding factor in the contest. The Illini fielded almost faultlessly and bunched their hits well. Three safe blows in the third inning accounted for two runs. Lymperopoulos beat out an infield hit. Then Walker singled. A double steal followed, and then O'Grady singled to score both runners.

Trading in Market Is Extremely Slow.

Hog buyers gained another point yesterday and pressed the average price down 5c at $11.40, equaling the lowest in over two weeks. Arrivals at 16,000 were augmented by 15,000 over from the previous session, and with shipping demand second smallest of the year for Friday trading was extremely slow throughout the day.

Most of the 10,000 left at the close were held off of the market, many on orders from the country. Extreme top declined to $11.60, lightweights showing 10@15c decline, while medium and weighty butchers held fully steady to strong.

Packing sows finished 25c lower. Five local packers bought 4,900 and three larger houses obtained 5,100. Shippers bought 6,000.

Cattle Supply Is Meager.

Yesterday's small supply of 2,000 cattle consisted largely of butcher stock, which continued dull at the week's 75c@$1 decline. The few steers available showed losses of 25@50c compared with a week ago.

The best on sale averaged 1,231 lbs and sold at $13.25, with bulk at $11.50 @12.50, against $12.00@13.50 a week ago, when quality was better. Calves were barely steady at the recent sharp decline. Stockers and feeders showed more activity at slightly lower prices.

Sheep Receipts Smaller.

The recent break in fat lambs reduced yesterday's offerings to 6,000, against 14,070 the previous Friday. A quick clearance at strong prices was the result, with spots 15@25c higher on best selections.

Top lightweight lambs advanced to $17.40, with most sales at $16.60@17.25, prime 96 lb averages at $17.00. Fancy Illinois shorn lambs sold at $16.25. Aged and yearling sheep were scarce and firm. Feeder and shearing lambs sold steady.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 6,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep, against 818 cattle, 7,505 hogs, and 5,384 sheep the previous Saturday, and 231 cattle, 7,492 hogs, and 940 sheep a year ago.

CHICAGO BANK REPORTS SHOW BOOST IN LOANS

Total of Deposits Grows Less.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Chicagoans are playing the stock market more than ever before. Apparently even the wage earners are using their savings to take a "flyer" in stocks. And Chicago corporations and wealthy individuals are boosting the game by sending their funds to Wall street to earn high interest on loans to speculators.

These inferences are indicated in the report on condition made by the Chicago banks yesterday in response to calls for statements issued by the controller of the currency and the Illinois state auditor. The banks are reporting their condition as of last Wednesday.

In spite of a strenuous campaign to reduce loans on securities in the last fortnight, the Chicago banks now are lending more than ever before. But the increase in loans has been accompanied by a sharp decline in deposits, with the result that the banks are not in as strong position as either three months ago or a year ago. However, there is nothing alarming or even uncomfortable in the situation, although it has produced some credit stringency.

Consolidated Fgures.

The consolidated figures for all Chicago banks show that loans and discounts have expanded $233,872,000 since Feb. 28, 1928, or a year and a month ago. In the same time total deposits have increased only $8,087,000 and this is entirely the result of a gain of $10,754,000 in savings deposits. One result of this divergency is that the banks' cash resources have declined $16,403,000.

Some of the changes in the last three months are rather startling. Since the end of 1928 total deposits have dropped $192,372,000, including a decline of $18,420,000 in savings deposits. Part of the decline in total deposits is due to withdrawals of funds by country banks in preparation for the usual expanded demand for commercial credit in spring time. But a large share almost must be attributed to the transfer of funds to the call loan market.

Cash Resources Shrink.

As the result of the Chicago banks restricting loans on securities, the item of loans and rediscounts shows an increase of only $17,364,000 in the last three months and this gain would represent no more than a seasonal expansion. But the great falling off in deposits resulted in a decline of [illegible] in cash resources.

Comparisons between the respective figures of the national and state banks, either for three months or a year, are valueless because of the recent consolidations. Within the last three months the Continental National and the Illinois Merchants have joined to become a state bank, the Union Trust company, a state bank, joined the First National, and two state banks, the Central Trust Company of Illinois and the Bank of America, have merged. There also have been several mergers of smaller institutions.

Finds Country Bank Must Wage Fight for Existence

BY SCRUTATOR.

How country bankers have been forced through the economic development of recent years to place most of their resources in loans and investments outside their communities was told yesterday at the Mississippi valley conference on commercial bank management.

The meeting, which was under the auspices of the clearing house section of the American Bankers association, was held at the Stevens hotel. So important did the 1,200 bankers from twenty states of the valley regard the information presented them during the two days that they voted to have the entire proceedings printed and distributed to the banking fraternity in book form.

The change in the conditions under which a country bank must operate was summed up by Max B. Nahm of Browning Green, Ky.

"Good roads and cheap automobile transportation are moving the business of small towns to larger towns, where there are better facilities for trading, amusements and the conveniences of life," he said. "The era of the country store is passing away. Country churches are without pastors, and country communities have no doctors. They must send to large towns for physicians and pay them $12 a visit.

Cites Troubles of Banks.

"In thirty years, only six towns in Kentucky have increased to as much as 10,000 population and many small towns and villages have almost passed away. To stay on the map a town must locate factories or colleges or attract trade from other places.

"The bank's problem is to exist at all in the small town. Chain stores are invading the territory of the larger towns and mercantile paper, once the banker's mainstay, is becoming uncertain. Farmers of late years are not so prosperous and their paper is slow, sometimes frozen."

This lack of good borrowing power in the country—and the entire program was composed of talks by country bankers to country bankers—came in for a great deal of attention during the conference. Good borrowing power to a banker means not only that the loan will be repaid with interest, but that it will be repaid when it is due, in order that the interests of depositors may be properly safeguarded. Loans on farm real estate are pretty definitely out with the bankers and most of the speakers recommended that they be kept to a minimum.

The attack on the problem of how to get away from low profits for good banks and failures for the less efficient took two forms. One was an attempt to outline plans for internal administration comparable in efficiency to that of industrial concerns. This included studies of the variations of personnel in various banks, the suggestion being that forces might be cut down. The second broad classification considered was financial management, including means to get funds cheaply into the bank, the charging for services that are unprofitable, and the formulations of standards for investment.

Funds in Call Market.

Quite frankly, some of the country bankers admitted that they had funds in the call market. One of these was Omar Wright, president of the Illinois Bankers' association. There seemed no question of the morality of this procedure; the only criterion was whether such loans were profitable in comparison with other modes of investment. Mr. Nahm stated that some bankers in small towns who were formerly lenders on call ceased because the city banks refused to form $100,000 pools for them. The same speaker, who is a member of the economic committee of the American Bankers' association, sounded a warning against the call market at present as being too risky.

The new system of corporate finance, with the firms getting in cash by sales of securities instead of by borrowing, was pointed to by Dr. Paul M. Atkins of Chicago as one of the reasons why commercial loans were no longer required in large volume, at least locally.

What, then, does a country banker do with his institution's money? If the statements of those attending the conference are typical, he sends something like 60 per cent of it out of his community. He purchases bonds, bank acceptances, treasury certificates of indebtedness and paper of outside corporations and firms. His idea is to maintain a large secondary reserve of paper which he can collect at need. Safety and liquidity rather than high interest rates govern his decisions on his purchases.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—Last Tuesday's nigh high record of 8,239,600 shares sold on the New York Stock Exchange contrasts with the record low of 31 shares established ninety-three years ago on March 16, 1830, according to Sulzbacher, Granger & Co. On that day, a century ago, only two issues changed hands — twenty-six shares of the United States bank, premier stock investment of that time, and five shares of Morris Canal & Banking at 75¼.

ILLINOIS STATE BANKS GAIN IN RESOURCES IN '28

The total resources of the 1,328 Illinois state banks at the close of business Dec. 31, were $2,860,851,801.47, representing a net gain of $96,030,114.10 over the previous call, according to figures compiled and issued by the research department of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

Savings accounts in 53 Illinois banks reporting to the federal reserve banks were $413,643,848 on Feb. 1. That represents a material gain over Dec. 31, 1927, when there were 1,347 banks with $2,769,000,000 of assets, indicative of a gradual increase in the resources of the state.

Will Finish Radio-I. T. & T. Deal When Law Permits

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—Gen. James G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, and Sosthenes Behn, president of the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation, announced today in a joint statement that the agreement between the Radio Corporation of America and the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation is merely an "accord as to the desirability of a consolidation of their communications interests" and a tentative plan under which it may be accomplished when the law permits.

Need Is Apparent.

"The management of these companies, aware of what has taken place in the British empire, France, Germany and Italy in the unification of communications, believe it would be to the interest of our country and people to have corresponding unification here," the statement said. "They are convinced that the needs of the situation are already apparent."

What has taken place in Paris is, therefore, tantamount to a publishing of the barns. Whether the merger actually takes place, as the statement points out, hinges on what the law will permit. The two companies have not disregarded the terms of the White act by carrying out a merger of communications systems which that act specifically forbids, but they have paved the way for a consolidation in the event that the law is changed.

Expect Stock Exchange.

Although details of the proposed consolidation of communications have not been made public it is believed stock of the International corporation will be delivered in exchange for all the 300,000 outstanding shares of R. C. A. Communications, Inc., and that the market value of International shares to be so delivered is in excess of $100,000,000 and less than $120,000,000 at the present time.

Kimberly-Clark Corp. Buys Menasha Paper Mills

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Appleton, Wis., March 29.—Purchase of the Lakeview paper mill, located in the town of Menasha, Winnebago county, just west of the city limits of Neenah, by the Kimberly-Clark corportion was announced Thursday afternoon by officials of the corporation. The Lakeview mill was recently bought by the Fraser interests of Canada from the Sears-Roebuck company, which had manufactured catalogue paper there since its purchase from the original incorporators, consisting of Neenah manufacturers and business men.

FORD MAY BUY G. M. C. COMPETITOR IN GERMANY

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, March 29.—The General Motors deal with the Opel company inspired Henry Ford to carry out a similar arrangement it transpired tonight, when despite every effort to keep the secret it leaked out that negotiations are proceeding between the Ford company and the automobile concern of Brennabor. Brennabor, like the Opel company, specializes in cheap cars for every day use. Their main establishment is also at Brandenburg.

The price was named as $21,412,000 for the purchase of the controlling interest in Brennabor.

At present negotiations are halted owing to Ford's demand that before turning over the works of Brennabor they bring their plant in the old city section of Brandenburg up to date at a cost of $360,000, which the Reichstein brothers, Brennabor directors, are not willing to do.

MAJORITY OF TRADERS ARE ON WALL ST. FENCE

Undecided Over the Course of Market.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 29.—With the stock exchange gong stilled by the religious holiday, the chief concern of brokers appearing at their offices to supervise accumulated business cleanups today was the probable course of price movements when trading is resumed next week.

It was a concern shared by the country as a whole. For with the money situation what it is, with the moderate deflation of loans recorded as a finale to one of the most hectic weeks in stock market history, with the ability shown by the list to recover with such rapidity from such a setback as it experienced during the first two days of the week and with the political storm aroused down Washington way by the action of big New York bankers in offering funds to carry on speculation here after the repeated warnings of the federal reserve board, the outlook appears to be anything but a cut and dried affair.

Most professionals are admittedly, openly and squarely on the fence.

FINANCIAL NOTES

A melon of $12,730,000 will be distributed to shareholders of the Chemical National bank and the United States Mortgage and Trust company, as a result of a proposed merger of the two banks into a new institution to be known as the Chemical Bank and Trust company. The combined bank will have resources approximating $400,000,000 and deposits of $282,000,000.

The volume of sales in March on the New York stock exchange passed the 100,000,000 share mark for the third time on record for on month. Stock sales were approximately 30,000,000 shares ahead of February. Bond and curb stock sales also were ahead of February.

Development this week in the bankers' acceptances market attracted special attention to the New York Federal reserve bank's report on its holdings of bankers' acceptances bought in the open market. These holdings decreased $7,998,000 for the week, and the total, $35,821,000, compared with $104,034,000 at this time a year ago. The revival of interest in this market, which had caused a cancellation of an earlier advance of one-eighth of one per cent in yield rates, had created a belief in some quarters that reserve banks were supporting the market. The figures showed, however, that the maturing bills were being allowed to run off without replacements. The buying was partly traced to foreign accounts.

Net income of the New York Dock company in the first two months of the year totaled $80,543, compared to $108,434 in the corresponding two months of 1927.

ready to jump either way. Many of them were unwilling to risk their reputation on a guess one way or the other today.

A few—a very few—thought in a guarded way that a secondary reaction such as usually develops when stocks have been supported as they have on the week's recovery might be counted on with a reasonable degree of assurance when the ticker begins to hum again next Monday.

Others said right out loud that it might be too much to expect a continuation of the Wednesday-Thursday picnic affair in the face of the many uncertainties in the credit field. They spoke earnestly of caution, watchful waiting, making haste slowly until the storm clouds roll away.

It is generally admitted that the immediate future of the market will depend almost wholly on the money situation—whether the call rate relaxes or tightens further, how openhanded the banks prove after the events of the last week, and in view of eventualities at the nation's capital.

While all are prepared to admit that the stringency which came so near precipitating a crisis on Tuesday was due in part to month-end settlements involving the distribution next month of half a billion in dividends and interest, there remains the stern fact that the situation was mainly due to banks deliberately allowing rates to go up in order to promote liquidation in the stock market.

In so doing the member banks were, of course, "coöperating" with the federal reserve banks which have urged withdrawal of member bank credit from the securities markets.

Subject of Discussion.

That something more serious than the week's money squeeze is going to happen unless the speculative community shows more of a disposition to heed the reserve board's repeated warnings against overspeculation all are prepared to admit. No one supposes for a moment that the board at its many called meetings in recent days has been devoting itself entirely to routine business. No one doubts, indeed, that the situation here has been the main subject of discussion at most of the sessions. And that the board is going to find some way of tightening down the screws if the brakes are not applied voluntarily few are prepared to gainsay.

No less an authority than Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City bank, added his voice today to the growing chorus warning against another speculative "debauch" now that the emergency has temporarily subsided.

Pace Is Problematical.

And since Mitchell was the hero of the hour when matters looked darkest last Wednesday, putting up some $25,000,000 to grease the clogging channels of trade when other money marts ran low, it is generally believed that his views are going to have a marked effect in some quarters at least.

At any rate, the opening prices of Monday will be studied with more than usual interest by those wondering just how well the street has learned its lesson—if at all.

It has been officially intimated on more than one occasion that the reserve board was loth to raise the rediscount rate "until other measures have failed."

Just how swift a pace the market may strike up after its three day rest will depend very largely, of course, on the course of price movements. As most newspaper readers know by now, the volume peak of all time was set in last Wednesday's great selling storm, when upward of 8,200,000 shares changed hands.

Mathematical sharps figured that more than $2,000,000,000 was hewn from stock values in the fiercest of all bear attacks. A large part of this slump was recovered in the afternoon rally, however, closing prices being 5@10 points above the lows of the day. On Wednesday and Thursday the industrial averages regained a total of some 12 points, which means from the expert point of view that the market was getting back to normalcy.

The company agreed that its current assets at the end of each fiscal year should be at least twice the amount of all its debts, including this issue of debentures.

Proceeds of the issue were used to retire $9,931,100 of 6 per cent preferred stock in 1927.

RAINS IN WEST ENHANCE START OF WHEAT CROP

Prospects Are Good for Average Yield.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

World's grain markets were closed in observance of Good Friday. There was no business or news with the exception of rains over the southwest, where winter wheat needed surface moisture to loosen the soil and help growth as there is said to be a better supply of subsoil moisture than usual.

Western Kansas had one-half inch of rain, and there was rain and mist all over the southwest, with precipitation ranging from ¼ to 2 inches over the greater part of Kansas and Oklahoma. At Leigh, Okla., 5 inches fell. The Texas Panhandle had good rains.

Crop reports from the southwest are making a better showing and indications at present are for an average crop of winter wheat. In the central west prospects are good, and in the northwest spring seeding is to commence shortly.

In western Canada, where the big crop of spring wheat is raised, fall plowing and new breaking was large, and a greater acreage is expected to be seeded. Precipitation there from October, 1928, to March 1, 1929, is below normal.

AUTOMOBILES—GASOLINE.

PACKARD

Our used Packard cars are fairly priced because each one was bought on a sound business basis. In buying used cars we pay every dollar that the cars are worth—and no more. We are not tempted to offset overallowances by inflating prices on used cars. We price our new cars right, buy our used cars right, and treat our used car customers right. We are just as jealous of our used car reputation as we are of our new car standing. "Ask the Man Who Owns One" applies equally to new and used Packard cars.
